Soviets Say 'Volunteers' Offer to Fight in Viet Nam

Red China-Soviet Relations Sink to New, All-Time Low

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Relations between Moscow and Peking plunged to a new low Saturday as China accused the Soviet Union of using violence on Asian student demonstrators at the U. S. Embassy Thursday.

A Chinese protest made the "demand that the Soviet government acknowledge its error and apologize to the students who took part in the anti-American demonstration."

At the same time, Chinese authorities unleashed an apparently peaceful demonstration against the Soviet embassy in Peking protesting what China called "the brutal suppression" of the students.

It was described as the first anti-Soviet demonstration in Peking during Communist rule.

The Peking demonstration and demand for an apology came as Communist sources in (Turn to Page A6, Column 1)

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass reported Saturday claims that many Russians have been offering their services as volunteers to fight on the side of Communist North Viet Nam.

The Soviet news agency quoted North Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Van Kinh as saying his embassy "had received many letters from Soviet people asking for permission to go as volunteers to Viet Nam."

Communist China used the word "volunteers" to describe its troops in the Korean War and has since threatened to send "volunteers" during crises to such trouble spots as the Middle East, the Congo and most recently Viet Nam.

Reds in India State Demand Power Takeover

TRIVANDRUM, India (AP) — Kerala State's pro-Peking Communist leader E. M. S. Nambudiripad threatened today to set off demonstrations against Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri if his group is not allowed to form a state government.

Shastri summoned a midnight cabinet meeting in New Delhi in the wake of Thursday's election in which the pro-Chinese Reds (Turn to Page A6, Column 1)

U.S. to Send 3,500 More Marines to Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Saturday night two battalions of U. S. Marines — approximately 3,500 men — will be sent to South Viet Nam on request of the South Vietnamese government.

The two battalions of Marines will be assigned to the Da Nang area to strengthen the general security of the Da Nang air base complex, the department said.

The Marines will be drawn from units normally deployed in the Pacific.

"The limited mission of the Marines will be to relieve government of South Viet Nam forces now engaged in security duty for action in the pacification program and in offensive roles against Communist guerrilla forces," a department statement said.

The department explained that the Marines were being sent in following consultation between the governments of South Viet Nam and the United States.

The addition of the Marine battalions will bring the total of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam to about 27,000 men.

Military sources in South Viet Nam have said that intelligence shows Da Nang is a potential target for Viet Cong mortar crews, such as those which hit Bien Hao on Nov. 1 and Pleiku early in February with a heavy loss in American lives and aircraft.

A U. S. Marine battery of Hawk antiaircraft missiles, coupled with a complex radar system, is set to knock down any plane that might try to sneak across the mountains with hostile intent.

On the ground hundreds of American soldiers and Marines have dug in.

Weapons Shoddy in Viet Nam, Servicemen Complain

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American servicemen in South Viet Nam are voicing new complaints of ammunition shortages, shoddy weapons and lack of equipment. They say some of the equipment is available on the Saigon black market.

"I was better equipped in World War II," said a grizzled U.S. Army engineer, holding up a World War I pistol belt and some rusty cartridge magazines.

Four weeks ago, a secret Senate hearing in Washington upheld the critical report of a U.S. captain — later killed by the Viet Cong — that U.S. arms issued to a Vietnamese battalion had been poorly maintained.

The new round of complaints come from U.S. Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force advisers.

None of the men would be quoted by name but their complaints, offered at random in recent days, include:

A Navy adviser — "Some of the ammunition for our cannons is in pretty bad shape when it gets here. The guns on one ship jammed every 20 or 30 rounds."

Another Navy adviser — "The skin (hull) of one of the Navy ships sent over here from the States was so rusted you could punch a hole through its armor with a pencil."

A Marine adviser — "I was issued iodine tablets in the states for water purification. When I tried to use them out here in the jungle, I found they had deteriorated into powder."

An Army spotter plane pilot — "We can't get chamois leather to strain gasoline at the tiny airstrips we refuel from. But this chamois can be bought on the Saigon black markets without any trouble."

Youth Slashed With Razor in Springs Assault

A Colorado Springs youth was assaulted by four Negroes and slashed with a razor, shortly after midnight Friday, a police report Saturday disclosed.

Patrick Chavez, of 642 Skyline Ave., told police that he left the 119 Tap Room, where he is employed as a drummer, shortly after midnight. He was walking west on Colorado Avenue when a 1958 Mercury with four Negro males in it pulled up.

According to the report, the four men asked Chavez if he wanted a drink and received a negative reply. They then dragged him into the car and drove to a location near the Garden of the Gods Club.

Upon arriving at their destination, the four men pulled Chavez from the car and tried to make him take a drink. When he would not drink, the men held him down and poured "some kind of liquor" over his face. Then, one of the parties pulled Chavez' head back by his hair and proceeded to cut both sides of his face with a straight razor.

The four men then left Chavez there and fled from the scene. He walked and ran to his home where he collapsed from exhaustion. The father of the victim then called the police and took the youth to Ft. Carson Hospital. Hospital authorities reported that Chavez had sustained 13 razor-inflicted wounds on his face.

Chavez later told police that he had recognized two of the men from the Tap Room. He further stated that one of them had told him earlier in the evening that "he wouldn't live the night out."

He described the assailants as Negro males in their late teens or early 20's. He also gave police a good physical description of each man. The car was described as a blue and white 1958 Mercury, 2-door, with orange upholstery and fur on the dash board, according to the report.

Soviet Bloc Takes Tougher Line Against Chinese Reds

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Red Chinese criticism of the Russians pushed a meeting of 19 Communist parties into adopting a tougher line on the Moscow-Peking dispute than originally planned, Communist sources said Saturday.

When the 19-party meeting opened here last Monday, Soviet leaders were stressing Communist unity. They were reported planning to avoid a public statement on their dispute with China in the final communique of the meeting, which ended Friday.

But Peking's attacks provoked a blunt reference to the dispute in a short communique, the sources said. Confirmation of this was not available. The communique is to be made public next Wednesday.

Beginning a few days before the Moscow meeting, Peking tried to picture Soviet leaders as hypocrites who talked unity but conducted anti-Chinese propaganda. The Chinese attacks did not mention the meeting, which Peking boycotted.

This campaign reached a peak Thursday with the bluntest Chinese statement since former Premier Khrushchev fell. It said in effect that the Kremlin must surrender to Chinese ideological leadership or the dispute would go on.

The statement was contained in the Peking newspaper People's Daily. It said Moscow must renounce policies that included peaceful coexistence.

Communist sources said the Soviet Union presented a draft of the communique at the opening meeting that virtually ignored the dispute with China. This did not satisfy those parties present that had to fight pro-Chinese splinter groups at home, such as the Indian and Australian Communists.

A Kremlin dinner by Soviet leaders for the visiting delegates brought an unexpectedly quick final agreement on the communique Friday night. An official announcement at 10:30 p.m. said the meeting was continuing but at 1 a.m. Saturday its end was announced.

An official announcement said seven delegations left for home. They were from Britain, Finland, France, East Germany, West Germany, Hungary and Poland.

The delay in publishing the communique was explained by the sources as intended to let delegates get home and explain what happened before they read about the compromise result in their party papers.

Race March Will Not Take Place, Wallace Warns

By KELSO STURGEON

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A hostile and angry crowd of white persons jeered other whites protesting alleged discrimination against Negroes on Saturday at about the same time Gov. George C. Wallace announced that his troopers would halt a planned march by Negroes from here to Montgomery.

"Go home you nigger-loving . . .," the crowd shouted at about 60 white persons in downtown Selma.

The planned 50-mile march to the Alabama capital, looked to by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as the focal point of his efforts to dramatize the Negro voter situation in Alabama, was scheduled to start Sunday afternoon.

The governor at a special news conference in Montgomery said such a march is not "conducive to the orderly flow of traffic and commerce within and through the State of Alabama. The additional hazard placed on highway travel by any such actions cannot be countenanced."

His statement added: "Such a march cannot and will not be tolerated."

The decision was reached, he said, in conjunction with the State Department of Public Safety, which would use whatever measures necessary to prevent it.

In Selma, Saturday's mile and a quarter march from a church to the Dallas County Courthouse was the first such action by white persons. The group, called Concerned White Citizens of Alabama, included professors, businessmen, housewives, school teachers and other professional people.

When the taunts came from a crowd of about 500 persons, Public Safety Director Wilson Baker worked his way through the mob in an attempt to disperse it.

He arrested one unidentified man on a charge of disorderly (Turn to Page A6, Column 2)

County Democrats Reelect John Bennett as Chairman

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

A gaggle of happy warriors gathered together Saturday in the El Paso County Court House and re-elected attorney John Bennett chairman of the County Democratic Central Committee.

In a spirited nomination speech, Tom McLaughlin said: "For seven long years the man I'd like to nominate has suffered the slings, slugs and arrows of outraged fortune, but throughout he has retained his charm."

Amid wild applause, McLaughlin put Bennett's name in nomination. "The fearless and peerless John Bennett," he said.

A "white ballot" was cast and Bennett was re-elected unanimously. "I appreciate your confidence and the honor," the chairman said; then called for cooperation of all area leaders, noting that the party needs more help in this field.

Mrs. Charlotte von Stein was re-elected vice chairman following a nomination speech by Mrs. Douglas Freed of Manitou Springs, and Gerald Jones was re-elected secretary, after Phil Dieffenbach placed his name in nomination.

Both were elected unanimously by white ballot.

Bennett pointed out that Jones is seeking the same post in the state organization and called upon fellow Democrats to support him in every way.

Six additional members were elected to serve on the State Central Committee. There was no argument from the happy throng when Bennett suggested the group elect three men and three women.

Seven members were elected (Turn to Page A6, Column 3)

Two-Astronaut Flight Planned This Month

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The United States will make its first attempt to orbit two astronauts in a single space vehicle later this month, according to a Manned Spacecraft Center official.

The announcement was made Friday in Washington by Dr. George Mueller, assistant director for manned space flight. Prior statements had set the initial two - man voyage for April.

Newspapers Said Closer To U.S. People

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)— A journalism professor released a study Saturday to show the American press as a whole is not fading but "just getting closer to the people."

Kenneth R. Byerly, associate professor of journalism at the University of North Carolina, said daily newspaper circulation in the United States is growing faster than the nation's population—except in cities of more than 250,000 population.

"The American press is not 'fading' as some claim and many believe," Byerly said. "It is just getting closer to the people in that the nation's smaller city and suburban dailies are chalking up big circulation gains."

Reorganized Court System Costs More

DENVER (AP) — Colorado's reorganized court system will cost over $1 million more to operate in 1965, the Public Expenditures Council reported Saturday.

Cost to the countries, paid by property taxes, will rise $940,000 from 1964's total to $5.5 million and the total state-local expenditure will be $9.2 million according to the council's study.

The council, a private tax research organization, said the primary reason for the rise in costs is the increase in the number of courts and court personnel under the reform plan, which went into effect in January.

It said another factor may be lack of control by county commissioners over budgets of district courts. Under a Colorado Supreme Court decision, Smith vs. Miller, commissioners can not overrule salaries and the number of personnel set by the district judge, unless they can show he was arbitrary or capricious.

The council questioned the financing of district courts by local property taxes. The counties pay the costs, except for salaries of district judges.

The General Assembly should consider court finance and budget-control problems, the council said, and offered these suggestions:

—Establishing a separate local property tax levy for the courts. Rep. Star B. Caywood, D-Walsenburg, has introduced a bill that would do this. He says that 17 counties are over the legal limits for general fund levies because court costs must come from the general fund.

Republicans Close Ranks, Elect Officers at Meet

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph Political Writer

El Paso County Republicans closed ranks Saturday in a show of complete amity as they elected officers and predicted a GOP victory in the county and state next year.

There wasn't a sign Saturday at the Central Committee Meeting held in the Little Theater of the City Auditorium of the friction that split the party last year and brought local Republicans one of the biggest defeats of this century.

Most of the faces seen at the meeting were those seen two, three and four years ago. Many a new face showed up in 1963 and 64 as avid "conservatives" moved into party activity and pushed for the presidential nomination of Arizona Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

They had their inning, struck out, and didn't show up Saturday. Although what will happen next year, an election year again, is another thing open to anyone's speculation.

Below are the officers elected, all unanimously by white ballot. In no cases were more nominations made than offices that needed to be filled — one nominee per office, and seconding motions were enthusiastic.

Edwin Strand, reelected secretary.

Mrs. Henry (Mary Louise) Perkins, elected county vice chairman, succeeding Mrs. Etna Burgess who was elected two years ago but who has since moved from town.

Man Taken to Hospital With Gunshot Wound

Thomas Martin, 21, 414 S. Cascade Ave., was admitted to St. Francis Hospital late Saturday night suffering from a gunshot wound of the leg.

According to some reports, the man allegedly shot himself. One report said the man's wife, Mary Lee Martin, said that her husband shot himself on the El Paso County Court House lawn.

Hospital officials said that Martin was in satisfactory condition. Police reports were not available at press time

He Can Prove Story About Biggest 'Fish'

Delange said he spotted the whale floundering in the surf Friday. He watched as it beached itself.

And he watched as three teenagers tried unsuccessfully to shove the mammal back into the water.

Delane decided to rescue it.

Leaving his deck hand at the helm of his 60-foot sport fisher, Delange rowed a dinghy to the whale, lassoed the whale's tail, and rowed back to his craft where he made the line fast and towed the whale a quarter mile out to sea.

Then Delange jumped into the water to cut the whale loose.

8,000 Families Want to Share In Big Fortune

OSTIGLIA, Italy (AP) — Close to 2,000 representatives of 8,000 families met Saturday in a movie theater, all with pretty much the same name and definitely the same idea.

The name in common is Benetti and its equivalents: Bonetti, Bennetti, Bonatti, Bonnet, Bonet and Bennet.

The 62-member Benetti family and the 15-member Bonetti family, which live in this northern Italian area near Mantua, called the meeting. Representatives came from France, Switzerland and from other parts of Italy.

All hope they can establish a direct family link with a European who, according to a recently discovered article in the July 1830 edition of the Journal Officiel du Paris, went to the East African island of Madagascar and became king by marrying a local queen.

None seemed to know which bank it was or even whether the fortune still exists. But they say the fortune left by the legendary "White King of Madagascar" should be worth about $99.2 million by today's standards — if it still exists and is intact.

Artes Clemente Gamberini, businessman from Ferrara, was named president of a committee to go after the alleged fortune. The representatives agreed that Gamberini's committee should:

—Ask the Italian Foreign Ministry's help in trying to recover the fortune.

—Send an attorney to London to inquire into reports that the fortune has been laying unclaimed in some British bank the past century and a half.

Safe Driving Tips Offered By Griffith

Roy Griffith of Denver, concerned with safety education for the State Indsutrial Commission had several suggestions to make this week to city drivers attending a driver training course at the City Service Center.

Griffith said motorists should drive ahead of themselves and not just be concerned with what's immediately ahead. Drivers should also look far enough ahead to anticipate and avoid possible trouble.

Griffith said a safe and careful driver has to keep his eyes moving, glancing in the rear view mirror, watching side street activity and 'be alert for emergencies in the making."

He said drivers should "leave themselves an out" in any emergencies such as being able to stop quickly or move over.

"And give the proper signals to make certain other drivers and pedestrians see you," he added, and be ever vigilant about blind spots.

Some 500 city drivers will wind up an extensive driver training course the week of Mar. 15 by taking a driving course and a written examination.

Carson Shooters Tops at Golden

First Lt. Roger Amundson and Sgt. Brian Epperson of Ft. Carson's Marksmanship Training Unit led the Mountaineer MIU contestants by firing first sharpshooter and first expert, respectively, in grand aggragate level at Golden, recently.

Men from Ft. Carson took 16 individual trophies in the Coors Gun Club annual open gallery rifle tournament at Colorado School of Mines. They also included Master Sgt. Norman Shaulis, SFC Francis McCarger, SFC Albert Shultz and Staff Sgt. J. W. Chalker.

There were nine teams and 76 competitors including the Frontier Gun Club from Colorad Springs and individuals from U.S. Air Force Academy also representing the Pikes Peak region.

Next competition for Carson's MTU will be the Colorado State Gallery Championship March 27 and 28 in Arvada.

In duty hours, MTU personnel are conducting automatic rifle classes and Trainfire ranges for 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) soldiers and supervising practice for Carson and division matches.

GED Tests To Be Ended At Carson

The American Council on Education announced that the College Level General Educational Development, better known as GED, Test will be discontinued and completely retired as of June 30, 1965.

Personnel stationed at Ft. Carson who have not completed one year of College are encouraged to contact the Army Education Center, located in Building 2217, Ft. Carson, prior to June 30, 19651, regarding the administration of the college GED test. This test is administered daily between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

For military personnel, constructive credits equivalent to the completion of the first year of a standard college course is granted under all Department of the Army regulations or directives requiring college credits for qualification. Twenty-four semester hours of credit is also granted toward the Department of Army two year college certificate.

Twenty - four semester hours of college credit is granted toward a baccalaureate degree requirements by those colleges participating in the degree completion (Bootstrap) programs.

Longest hole-in-one made in 1964 was 400 yards, reports Golf Digest. It was made by Thomas D. Cheatwood of Oklahoma City on the sixth hole at the Lake Hefner Golf Club.

Shea Reports On General Fund

DENVER (UPI)—State Controller Con F. Shea said Friday Colorado's general fund stayed in the black last month by virtue of $5 million transferred from the capital construction fund last August.

Without the $5 million, a report by Shea showed, the general fund would have been about $90,000 in the red on Feb. 28.

The report showed available general fund revenue of $125,838,241 so far this fiscal year, with the $5 million, and expenditures of $120,928,234, leaving a balance of $4,910,007.

Last year's temporary transfer was authorized by Gov. John A. Love under terms of a "money management" law passed by the Legislature in 1964.

IS TATTOOING INTELLIGENT

The tattooing craze among young men is greatest in war times. Sailors regard it as a tradition of the sea or a souvenir of their travels. But 99 out of 100 never would do it again if they had a choice. Many studies have been made to determine the motivation. In addition, the type of design offers clews to spychologists and psychiatrists about the personality of the individual.

A man gets drunk and wakes up the next morning with a dagger on the arm or a ship on the chest. It is difficult to believe that, in this condition, he selected the dagger or ship because of a personality defect. In other words, many normal, stable persons are tattooed because of group pressure while in service or at school. These men learn their lesson and rarely want an encore.

But the maladjusted go for this kind of decoration or status symbol. A weak or small man gets a boost from such embellishments because he unconsciously associates them with stronger men. The neurotic aspect is shown by the frequency of tattoos among criminals and individuals with neuropsychiatric problems. The person with several tattoos often has personality characteristics that reflect his choice of design. Those with passive or effeminate traits try to make themselves look supermasculine.

There is much to suggest that tattooing represents an overt rebellion against authority. Tattooed draftees during World War II had a higher rate of emotional problems than did other service men. Criminologists are aware of the significance of these decorations. One authority said tattooing is "a reversion to the savage instince in the criminal himself."

Dr. Robert E. Edgerton and Dr. Harvey F. Dingman studied the tattooed patients at a California institution for the mentally retarded. The 12 of 21 per cent of the inmates were above 50; the others, below.

This hopsital has a self-styled elite group and a requirement for memberships is tattooing. These home-made marks are produced with a safety pin and India ink. A "sharp doll" must have her boy friend's name tattooed on some part of the body; the men like the pachuco tattoo in the web of the hand to show they are "tough guys." This in-group at the institution represents the trouble-makers and the violations they commit are calculated and not impulsive. Their I.Q. usually is lower than those of nonmembers of the gang.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

HEREDITY AND HERNIA

E. G. writes: Do hernias run in the family?

REPLY

Yes, in that many generations of fathers and sons have inguinal hernia. This is understandable because, long before birth, the stage is set for the development of a hernia. The tistues in the groin do not form properly, leaving a weekness that gives way later in life.

HOW TO TAKE ASPIRIN

G. B. writes: When a person has a headache, is it harmful to take aspirin on an empty stomach?

REPLY

It is better to take the tablet with a little milk when the stomach is empty, because occasionally aspirin causes bleeding.

FURROWED BROW

M.. S. writes: Can furrowing of the brow, between the eyes, be removed by planing?

REPLY

I doubt it, but other procedures are available to eradicate these lines. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on aging skin.

2 Coloradans Die in Crash

PHILIPSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Two Denver-area men were killed and another injured Friday when their twin - engine plane attempting an emergency landing crashed and burned near a mountain - top airport in a driving snowstorm.

The dead were identified as John R. Hopkins, president of the Protecto Wrap Co. of Denver, and John Hunt, the pilot, of Aurora.

Howad Scudder, vice president of the Denver firm, was taken to Philipsburg State Hospital. Representatives of the company in Denver said they understood his condition was not serious.

Vote Registrar Does Not Budge Easy

By REX THOMAS

FORT DEPOSIT, Ala. (AP) — The voter registrar who told Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., "it's none of your business" how the Lowndes County board operates is a man who doesn't budge easily.

Legislators who served in the state Senate with rugged Carl Golson will long remember him from the hectic adjournment night in 1961 when a filibuster blocked passage of an appropriation bill to keep the state government running.

It was the same strong-willed south Alabama businessman who stood in the hallway of the Lowndes County courthouse at Hayneville Monday and withstood a challenge from King and other civil rights members.

The integration leader, accompanied by members of his staff, had driven to Hayneville to protest that no Negroes are registered to vote in the small rural county whose northern border lies between Montgomery and Selma.

Golson, 59, a wealthy automobile deaier and landowner, shook his finger in King's face and told him that people in Lowndes County want nothing to do with civil rights "agitators."

The husky six-footer had fought desperately along with a majority of the state Senate in 1962 to resurrect a vetoed congressional redistricting bill.

They had the numerical strength to override former Gov. John Patterson's veto, but a filibuster which ran day and night for 96 hours prevented it from coming to a vote.

Golson and his colleagues kept the huge general appropriations measure bottled up until the redistricting issue could be settled.

Time was running out and, in a frantic effort to settle the differences before the session came to an automatic end at midnight, Senate leaders asked for unanimous consent to stop the clock.

Golson stood firm and, in the absence of unanimous consent, the clock kept going. It took a special session to appropriate funds to run the state government for the next two years.

The adjournment killed the reapportionment measure, too. Some senators accused Golson of being stubborn. He defended his action as a matter of principle.

Golsen, as Lowndes County registrar, told King bluntly, "Our Negroes will make more progress without you."

When King asked him if he would like to see a federal court suit filed against the board, Golson shot back: "I don't care what you do."

Golson ran for another term in 1962, but a federal court order reapportioned the legislature.

Alleged Fraud Being Probed

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A United Steelworkers Union (USW) spokesman said Friday that postal authorities in Puerto Rico are investigating the case of the missing ballots which kept about 3,000 workers from voting in last month's USW presidential election.

The spokesman said the matter was being handled as one of the many "protests" that have been filed with the union's international tellers who are conducting an official tabulation of the Feb. 9 election.

"We have never received an official protest from there on the missing ballots but we sent investigators there when we learned of the matter," the spokesman said.

He added that it was his understanding that about 1,000 steelworkers in the Bayamon area of Puerto Rico actually did vote. The Bayamon area is in USW District 36G which has its headquarters in Tampa, Fla.

Steelworkers representing about 23 locals in Puerto Rico were prepared to vote in the election, in which USW President David J. McDonald was opposed by union Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel, when they found they had no ballots.

Charles Cowl, legislative representative of the Gulf states organizing area, said the locals had received campaign literature instead of ballots.

Muslims Say Shots Fired

The Negro nationalist leader was in Chicago, where he maintains another home.

Guards at his home here said they chased briefly a late-model car from which the shots were fired. They said it looked like two white men inside.

Police Capt. Richard Harrington said several police officers found fresh lead shavings and nicks in an outside wall of Muhammad's brick house in southeast Phoenix, apparently fired from a small-caliber weapon.

A detail of Phoenix police officers has been assigned to watch Muhammad's home when he returns, but police said Friday they understand he may remain in Chicago for some time.

Muhammad has expressed belief that attempts on his life may be made in reprisal for the recent slaying of Malcolm X, the former Black Muslim suspended by Muhammad.

Nagging by Wives Said Bad for Driver

LONDON (AP) — An inquiry into the psyche of British motorists has disclosed that in some homes wives find themselves playing second fiddle to the family car.

The report added, however, that nagging wives can have a bad effect on their husbands' driving.

"Frustration, anger, depression and fatigue all affect driving and add to the sense of danger," said the report.

Mine Union Asks Stockpile Usage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers has urged the Senate Armed Services Stockpile subcommittee to back legislation to loan 100,000 tons of government- stockpiled copper to industry producers.

Alfred J. Petit-Clair, executive board member of the Denver-based union representing the middle and North Atlantic states, testified at a hearing on the metal shortages.

He said a loan of copper would contribute to price stability in the industry, lessen the threat of substitution by other materials, and, in the long run, promote increased use of copper.

Man Injured In Two - Car Accident Here

Mulitple injuries were sustained by a Colorado Springs man Friday evening in a two car accident, police reported.

Wilbur Glenn Dockins, 37, of 2018 E. Kiowa St., was found by police lying in the roadway after his car which had been traveling south in the 100 block of North Meade Avenue, struck another car parked parallel to the curb.

According to the report, Dockins was travelling at between 25 and 30 miles-per-hour when the right front end of his car strucked the left rear of the parked vehicle, pushing it 24 feet. He was taken to the Ent Air Force Base dispensary by E&E Ambulance. From there, following first aid treatment, the victim was taken to Penrose Hospital and placed in the Intensive Care ward.

He told police he was traveling at 25 to 30 miles-per-hour when he "blacked out." Doctors at Penrose say he has a possible fractured nose, a frontal fracture on the right side of the face, bruises on the head and lacerations to the face and forehead.

Red China, Soviet Bloc At Odds Again

Moscow said earlier Chinese criticism of Russian policies had pushed a meeting of 19 Communist parties into adopting a tougher line on the Moscow-Peking dispute than originally planned.

The parties ended a meeting here Friday that was boycotted by China and its allies in the divided world Communist movement.

About 2,000 students — few of them Europeans — attacked the U. S. embassy Thursday to protest bombings of North Viet Nam. A few hundred of them returned later and battled Soviet police and troops on guard there.

The Chinese protest said 30 of these were injured, nine seriously, and accused Soviet authorities of evicting them from the hospital where they were taken.

The Chinese protest reportedly defended the stoning of the American Embassy as a legitimate reaction to U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

More than half the elected Kerala Communists are in jail on accusations of revolutionary plotting. The state has been under federal rule since last September.

The pro-Peking Reds won 58 seats in the 133-seat legislature, 9 short of an absolute majority. But Nambudiripad's threat to start demonstrations indicated they felt confident they could form a coalition.

Police used tear gas Friday night to disperse a huge crowd of leftist students in the city of Ernakulam. The students had tried to disrupt a victory celebration by a Congress party candidate.

At least 132 top Kerala Reds have been in jail since December. They were jailed during a national roundup that resulted in the arrest of some 900 Communists throughout India on charges of plotting violent revolution.

The Communist victory was an embarrassing setback for Shastri's Congress party, which had hoped to regain control of the state. The pro-Peking Reds also dealt a blow to the pro-Moscow Communists who managed to get only two seats.

The Communists won their first victory in Asia through a democratic ballot box in Kerala in 1957. They held power for 27 months until they were thrown out by New Delhi following riots touched off by a Red move to take over all private schools.

With a population of 17 million, Kerala is one of India's smallest states. It is also one of the poorest but its literacy rate of about 47 per cent is one of the highest in the nation.

Race March Will Not Take Place, Wallace Warns

conduct. "I told you to quit cursing and I mean it," Baker said as the heckler was led away by two police officers.

The citizens group, led by the Rev. Joseph Ellwanger of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Birmingham, stopped at the courthouse steps for about 15 minutes while the minister read a statement outlining the group's aims.

Among these was to stop alleged police brutality and intimidation—which officers have denied — and to make it easier for Negroes to register to vote. The voter registeration drive began Jan. 18.

On another corner adjacent to the courthouse a group of about 900 Negroes voiced their support for the citizens group while the Rev. Mr. Ellwanger read his statement. The group sang "America the Beautiful," then walked the mile and a quarter back to the church.

King had said earlier that Sunday's major march was designed to place emphasis on the right-to-vote campaign in Alabama.

He was not immediately available for comment after Wallace's stop-the-march announcement, but one of his aides said King will be here to march.

The aide, the Rev. C. T. Vivian, said: "We still plan to march. I don't know what he—Wallace—plans to do to stop us, but he has several alternatives. He can beat us, he can arrest us, or any other number of things he might choose."

Another of King's aides, Andrew Young, said the marchers would have two alternatives if stopped by state troopers.

"One is to go back and get a court order permitting us to march. And the other is to sit down wherever they stop us."

County Democrats Reelect John Bennett as Chairman

to serve on the County Executive Committee. They were Vera Kester, Margaret Dieffenbach, Charles Bickley, Shirley Roberts, John Donlon, Harriet Beals, and Paul Bechtol.

There was no opposition to any of the nominations; Democrats nominated the exact number called for, no more and no less, and all nominees were elected unanimously.

Bennett noted that the committee is in "reasonably good financial condition."

"We have $988.48 in the treasury," he said, "and we owe $500 to the state for our part in last November's campaign."

He also said the Demo Fund Drive, which replaced the old "Dollars for Democrats Drive," has raised $5,600, of which $450 was raised at the last gala held at the Dublin House.

Co-chairmen of this drive were Mrs. Foote and Mrs. Larsen.

On a serious note, Bennett commented briefly on the death last Thursday of Dr. Edith Bramhall, professor emerita of political science at Colorado College.

"This was a great personal loss to me," Bennett said, "as Dr. Bramhall was largely responsible for getting me to become a Democrat."

"She was universally loved and respected by everyone she came into contact with," he said, "and she was tireless in any cause she gave her efforts to."

State Sen. Joseph Donlon of the 11th District and Rep. Donald Brinton of the 21st District made brief talks and answered questions on the two billboard bills in issue now in the Colorado Senate.

Donlon said he favored Senate Bill 140 which is a regulatory bill. Brinton said he didn't care for billboards on any state highways, but he would have to wait until the two bills get out of the Senate where they've been undergoing amendments, for his final decision.

Mrs. von Stein announced that Monday is El Paso County Day at the state legislature in Denver, and requested those present to call her if they want to visit the House and Senate Monday.

The meeting was held in the east courtroom which had been decked out with posters of the President labeled LBJ for the USA" and one of the President and Vice President that read "Johnson - Humphrey for the USA."

The Rev. Richard I. Peterson gave the invocation to open the meeting.

Florence Gets Good Snowfall On Watershed

March was ushered into Fremont and Custer Counties with the traditional roar of the lion as snow and chilling temperatures gripped the region.

City Manager Frank Carochi reported that nine inches of new snow fell this past week on the city's watershed south of Florence bringing the total of snow now on the level above Newlin Creek and Mineral - Adobe to over 30 inches with about two inches of water content.

Carochi also noted that last year at this time his street crews had spent seven hours on snow removal in the city while this year the total has already passed the 47 - hour mark.

Reports from Wetmore in Custer County indicate that the latest snow has ranged in depth from a foot to two feet with a high moisture content.

Forest service personnnel are currently taking snow readings on the Lake Isabel and Ophfer Creek snow courses, which have both received welcome moisture since Jan. 1.

Pakistan Says Red China Will Finance

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — Finance Minister Mohammad Shoiab said Saturday this country hopes to get substantial Communist Chinese aid in the next few years.

He told reporters: "Pakistan hopes Communist China will play an active role in financing our third five-year plan."

Dixon Funeral Rites Set Here Monday

The manager of the meat department for an area super market, Mr. Dixon was born April 13, 1917 in Colorado Springs. He attended grade, junior high and high schools here during his lifetime.

Survivors include Mr. Dixon's widow, Patricia; daughter, Miss Donna Dixon,, and son, Bill Dixon,, both of Colorado Springs; one brother, Russell B. Dixon,, Oregon City, Ore. and father, Claude W. Green of Colorado Springs.

A Navy veteran of World War II, Mr. Dixon attended Colorado College and was affiliated with Mountain View Chapel.

Fact, Fantasy Of West to Be Pageant Theme

"The West, Fact and Fantasy" has been chosen as the theme for the Pageant Parade of the Rockies.

Sandra Matthews, 10, 1027 Adams Dr., submitted the winning theme. She will ride in the parrade, according to Vern Johnson, president of the Pageant Parade Board. She and her family will also receive four reserved box seat tickets for an evening performance of the rodeo. There were over 100 entries, Johnson said.

Two runners-up were named. They are John Lovell, 10, 1031 Adams Dr., and John Light, 9, 1448 N. Foote Ave. They will receive tickets for themselves and their families for the matinee performance of the rodeo, Capt. Virgil Irwin, executive manager for the parade, said.

The contest for next year's theme will be announced the evening of the parade, and the winner will be announced the first night of the rodeo, Irwin added.

Man Injured Saturday in Family Argument

An argument between a husband and wife was climaxed Saturday when Mrs. Glady Charlot, 24, of 605 E. Willamette Ave., hit her husband ,Clifton, on the head with a glass coffee jar.

Charlot, who is 25, sustained several facial cuts as a result.

According to police, the argumen began when Charlot told his wife how he felt about the house not being cleaned and his dinner not being cooked. Also, the victim stated that during the argument he noticed their 13-month-old baby with something in her mouth, "and this made him madder.

The victim then told police that he walked into the kitchen and told his wife that "all she wanted to do was watch television all day." With that, he slapped her, knocking her against the sink. Mrs. Charlot then picked up a jar and hurled it at her husband, causing the cuts.

Investigating officers reported that Charlot sustained a one-inch cut on the left side of the face, a one-inch cut on the upper left side of the forehead and a half-inch cut on the lower part of his forehead. He was taken to the Ent Air Force Base dispensary where he received 12 stitches and was released.

Mrs. Charlot had a different story for police. She told officers that she had told her husband she was hurrying as fast as she could in the preparation of his dinner. He then started hiting and choking her, said Mrs. Charlot, until she picked up the jar and hit him with it.

Officers were also told by Mr Charlot that her husband had threatened her with a gun on several occasions. She has been released from custody, pending further police investigation.

Pythians Slate Annual Speaking Contest Here

The Section 6 final contest of the 20th annual Speaking Contest sponsored by the Knights of Pythias will be held in Colorado Springs June 19, Allan "Scotty" Russell, grand vice-chancellor of the Colorado Knights of Pythias, has announced.

State finals will be held in Manzanola May 2.

Russell is directing a committee to plan entertainment for the Section 6 finalists, who will come from nine western states, including Hawaii. Visits are planned to such points of interest as the Garden of the Gods and Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun. Contestants and their families will also be honored guests at a banquet following the afternoon contest.

The six sectional finalists will compete for $5,000 in scholarships to any college or university they may choose. The International Finals will be held in August in Birmingham, Ala. All necessary travelling expenses to the state, sectional and final contests are paid by the order.

The Knights of Pythias Public Speaking Contest is open to any boy or girl regularly enrolled in public, parochial or preparatory high school. Colorado students interested in entering should contact State Chairman Allan Russell, 321 E. Platte Ave.; or Herbert Smith, secretary of the Colorado Springs Lodge, 632-5388.

Burglars Take $60 From Service Station

Harry's Conoco, at 1626 E. Pikes Peak Ave., was burglarized over the weekend, police reported. A bank deposit bag, containing $60.50 in cash, was the only item stolen.

Entry was made through a door after the window had been broken out. According to the report, the burglary occurred either late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

D'ana Cox Set To Crown Explorer Queen

Dancing will be from 8:30 till 11:30 p.m. to the music of Floyd Frame and his band.

Highlight of the evening will come at the intermission when Miss Cox will crown the 1965 Explorer Queen. This year the queen will be selected from among all of the young ladies attending the dance with a registered Explorer or Senior Scout. Three girls will be chosen, a queen and two attendants. A committee of guests will make the selection.

Tickets are on sale in every Explorer Post in the Pikes Peak Council or at the Scout office. All Explorers, Senior Scouts and their guests are encouraged to take part in this Explorer activity.

Additional entertainment during the intermission will be presented by the "Double Trio Minus One" from Palmer High. Refreshments will be served. Among the invited guests to attend the dance are the nine U.S Air Force Academy cadets who served as instructors during "Operation Short Ration" last November. This was a survival training program for Explorers.

The Explorer Ball will be held in the main ball room of the Broadmoor Hotel.

Volcano Erupts Again on Hawaii Island

HILO, Hawaii Islands (AP)—Tempestuous Kilauea volcano erupted again Saturday, spewing a fountain of molten lava 50 feet high inside Makaopuhi crater.

The activity broke out about 100 feet from where the volcano erupted 24 hours earlier, creating a river of lava that flowed into trees outside the crater at one point.

Volcano observatory scientists said there was an increase in tremors at the Makaopuhi station Saturday indicating that lava was moving down in the volcano's plumbing.

Kilauea belched forth with a lacy 1,000-foot curtain of fire Friday and put on a spectacular show for more than nine others. Then the activity began sputtering out.

Red-hot lava still continued to flow into the wastelands of the Puna Rift zone Saturday on the east cape of Hawaii Island.

Teachers Jobs Are Outlined In New Handbook

Information about teaching opportunities, certification and salaries in Colorado is contained in a new publication, "The Teacher in Colorado: A Handbook for New Teachers."

Prof. Robert C. McKean and Associate Prof. Bob L. Taylor of the University of Colorado School of Education are co-authors of the handbook, published by Pruett Press of Boulder.

The $1.50 paperback answers questions for elementary and secondary school teachers just finishing teacher training in Colorado or coming in from outside the state.

The handbook also contains information on fringe benefits, seeking a teaching position, teacher organizations and legal provisions.

McKean teaches principles, methods and curriculum for secondary education students. He came to the CU faculty in 1958.

Taylor came to CU in 1963 and teaches courses in principles and methods of secondary education and social studies.

Dock Workers Work Again In Galveston

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — West Gulf Coast District longshoremen Saturday started returning to their jobs after voting overwhelmingly to accept a new contract.

Most piers in Galveston idled since Jan. 11, were humming with activity by midafternoon and all other ports from Brownsville, Tex., to Lake Charles, La., were expected to be back in full operation by Monday morning.

Ralph A. Massey, district International Longshoremen's Association president, said returns from the some 7,000 longshoremen in the district were "98 to 99 per cent in favor of accepting the contract."

Republicans Close Ranks, Elect Officers at Meet

State Central Committee from El Paso County: Mrs. Arlene Cotton, Mrs. Joan Marriage, and Norman Olson, and Phil Long.

Rep. Harrie Hart, elected last fall to his first term to the state House, gave the local Republicans a fighting talk to stir them toward action for next year.

"We Republicans must get out and tell our story," he said.

Hart said there is a general lack of information on the part of the public about the Republican Party program in this state and that all members of the El Paso County party must get busy and "tell the people about the fundamental principels of the Republican Party."

"We must start now if we are going to re-gain what we lost last year, he told the Republicans.

"We have a sound program, and we don't want to wait until 1966 to do something — we've got to get going now," he declared.

Sen. William Lennox, who served 14 years in the House before moving up in last fall's election., told the Republicans:

"We will have the issues next year. We need more help from everyone than we got in 1964. With that help, and I know we will win next year — we will have control of both houses after next year, and hold the governorship," he predicted. (In the election last fall, the Republicans held onto control of the Senate, but lost the House.)

Lennox explained the seeming confusion in the Senate over the issues of billboards along the freeways.

Two bills were introduced and passed, he explained, and now both have been sent to the Committee of State Affairs, which has as chairman, Sen. Lawrence Skiffington of Manitou Springs.

One bill, No. 95, would remove all billboards from right-of-ways as well as 690 feet beyof-ways as well as 690 feet beyond the right-of-ways, he explained. The right-of-way extends 25 feet beyond the edge of the surface portion of the road, he explained.

The other bill, supported so far by Lennox, is No. 140, and it has been amended 43 times.

He said that is a regulatory bill that does not wipe out property rights as does No. 95.

James Braden gave a report on the Republican Legislative Information Program that the local party puts on KRDO-TV every Saturday afternoon.

He said that he has received many letters commenting favorably on the program..

Mrs. Hester Carey, Mrs. Betha Clausing, Clinton Cole, Roosevelt Collins, Cortland N. Cool, and Mrs. Virginia Dyer.

Dirksen Blasts Plea for Soviet, U. S. Canal Plan

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Presss Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois today ridiculed a proposal by Sen. J. W. Fulbright for joint U.S.Soviet foreign aid ventures, including operation of a new middle American canal.

"How splendid it would have been if Sen. Fulbright's proposed policy had been available in 1961," Dirksen said in a statement. "We could have helped the Communists build the Berlin Wall."

The wall was erected by the Communists between East and West Berlin to halt the flow of Germans fleeing into the Western zone.

Fulbright explained his proposal differently.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said joint aid could "convert assistance to the under-developed countries from an investment of rivalry to an instrument of reconciliation."

He said any reasonable arrangement would leave no threat to canal security because of Soviet participation.

Fulbright's proposals were in a speech he planned to give at Pennsylvania State University Friday night. Bad weather forced cancellation of the trip.

Fulbright said a cooperative aid program and joint canal operation might reduce tensions and pave the way for ultimate settlement of such issues as disarmament, German unification and Soviet refusal to pay U.N. assessments for peace-keeping operations in the Middle East and the Congo.

In a divided world, Fulbright said, there is little promise and considerable risk in trying to force a settlement of major issues dividing the two countries. But he said, the advancement of a great many projects of practical cooperation could, when taken together, "have the effect of shaping revolutionary new attitudes in the world."

Fulbright's proposals followed by a day demands of the Senate-House Republican leadership for a harder line toward the Soviet Union — described by GOP spokesmen Thursday as a "no-concession, no-deal policy."

Fulbright said Soviet-Western cooperation on a scale beyond limited projects appears unrealistic for the foreseeable future, but that "an initial, tentative venture" and in turn to Communist membership in an international lending agency and a "globalization" of aid.

Fulbright suggested the United States propose as an initial step that the two countries cooperate under the auspices of an international agency "in a particular development project that both favor, in India or another country."

"There is no overriding reason why the Soviet Union, as a user, should not be encouraged to participate in a Central American canal consortium," he said.

Bob Wagner May Move Over for John Lindsay

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Mayor Bob Wagner of New York is giving a magnificent performance these days in a revamping of the old movie serial, "The Perils of Pauline." But the biggest cliffhanger of them all will confront him if — or, as some of the insiders insist, when — Congressman John Lindsay announces that he will be the Republican candidate for mayor against Bob Wagner in next autumn's election.

A Lindsay candidacy would do much to negate the recent Wagner success in getting Governor Nelson Rockefeller's help in electing Wagner Democrats to the controlling jobs in the New York State legislature. The word went out that Wagner and Rocky had decided to share the state between them, with Wagner getting a free hand in New York City for guaranteeing a "stumblebum" Democratic gubernatorial candidate as an opponent to Rockefeller in 1966. But if Lindsay decides to run for mayor, it will be a tip-of that no such "sweetheart" agreement was ever made.

In any event, it could be argued that it was simple realism for the Republicans to discombobulate the Democrats by throwing their weight to Wagner's men, Zaretski and Travia, for the top Albany legislative posts.

Lindsay may deny any intention of running for mayor, but point, it is the only move he can make that promises an enhancement of his prestige and "image." If Rockefeller is to run for governor again in 1966, this avenue of advancement is closed to Lindsay and he can't run for the Senate or six years unless Javits decides to call it quits and run for governor, which is hardly in the cards. The report from the Rockefeller camp is that Rocky has every intention of being a candidate to succeed himself in 1966.

The build-up for a Lindsay mayoral candidacy is already shadowed forth in metropolitan newspaper stories picturing New York City as the last word in inept provision for its inhabitants. Heaven knows that the city has housing and educational and recreation and crime and transportation problems that almost defy any attempt at solution. And, since its city hall can't prevent thousands of new migrants from the South and Puerto Rico from crowding into the already congested tenements of Harlem and the Upper West Side, this columnist feels some sympathy for Mayor Wagner, who can't help it that his town is a magnet for people who feel they can't make it in the places where they happen to have been born.

However, nobody every pays off in politics except on a basis of "what is." And, since New York can be described in terms of strangulated business (the four per cent sales tax), and strangulated traffic (try to get a taxi in the rain), and minorities that have been bulldozed out of their rickety eyries, the scene is set for the charger on the white horse. Mayor Wagner may have to fight his last battle not against Bobby Kennedy for state Democratic party control (as has been hazarded) but against the attractive figure of John Lindsay, who could conceivably put him out of politics forever.

New Contract Is Sought in Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The muddled picture in the crucial basic steel industry has been clarified on one point — efforts to write a new labor contract will resume next Tuesday in Pittsburgh.

Negotiators for the 11 major steel companies and the United Steelworkers Union decided this Thursday at their first meeting in two months.

Left up in the air, however, was the question of when and if the union would extend its May 1 strike deadline.

However, union and management representatives decided to use that day for another preliminary session to lay the groundwork for the talks.

There had been speculation that the union, under pressure in recent days from the industry and other leaders in organized labor, was ready to extend its strike deadline which leaves only 53 days of bargaining once the talks start.

A tipoff on a possible change in the union's attitude would be summoning of the 170-member wage policy committee and the union's executive board.

Union sources say it would take at least two days to get these bodies together and that there has been no call.

One other phase of the confused picture was only partially clarified Thursday when The Associated Press learned that I. W. Abel polled 6,228 votes more than McDonald in the union election.

The union's international tellers, who must officially declare a winner by May 1, completed counting the votes last week. They are awaiting explanations from more than 100 locals on why their tally sheets did not jibe with membership rolls, but whatever the outcome this is not expected to alter Abel's lead.

However, the tellers must still hold hearings into some 150 protests of voting violations and this could affect the outcome.

Miss Gene Hagen of Alderwood Manor, Wash., was the fourth woman bowler to score a perfect (300) game this season. She averages 153.

Perry Como Does Not Plan Retirement

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP) — Perry Como, a grandfather with gray-streaked hair, said today that thoughts of retirement never cross his mind.

His comment came after a one-hour NBC-TV special which cost an estimated quarter-million dollars to stage in Boston's new War Memorial Auditorium.

"Yes, I'm 52 years old," Como said. "That's not too old for this business — or any business — as long as you feel good. And I feel great. I never think about quitting.

"Television is not strictly for the young performers," he added.

Singing star Lena Horne, 47, herself a grandmother, and Johnny Puleo, 57-year-old harmonica-playing comic — guests on Thursday night's Como show — listened and smiled approvingly.

Como continued: "I've got this big thing about golf. I like fishing and I'd like to spend more time with my three grandchildren. This is a demanding business, but I plan to keep going as long as the people still want me."

Belline says: "His voice is getting better with age. It must be his nice easy way of life. After each show, or rehearsal or business conference, he gets in his car and goes straight home to his wife and kids in Sands Point (N.Y.)

"People may see Perry with a pretty girl on his arm. Don't for a minute think that's some front-running sideline with him. The only pretty girl you'll ever see with him socially is his wife Roselle. They've been married 31 years and they're still madly in love with each other."

Mrs. Como is Belline's sister.

Can't anybody say anything unkind about Como, a reporter asked.

"I can," said Glass. "He hasn't recorded a song from his own music publishing firm in the past year."

"I can too," said lovely Miss Jewel Baxter, who handles the Como account from publicist Harry Sobol's New York office. "He won't take me out on a date."

When Como heard the newsman was trying to find a dissenting voice, he called him aside and whispered: "I'm really a big heel."

In the big auditorium there were no backers for that statement. There were only 5,000 devoted fans of all ages and a panel of big executives who want Como's signature on another multimillion dollar contract.

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — The Greater Jackson Chamber of Commerce was taking members and guests on a tour of Jackson to look at progress. But the group's progress was halted abruptly. The merchant-owned Jackson Public Transportation bus broke down.

Anti - Litter Week Coming

The Izaak Walton League is sponsoring "Anti-Litter Week" in Colorado Springs, March 8-14.

The Garden of the Gods Chapter of the organization has the Walt Disney film for children, "Litter-bug." Chapter members will also speak to children's groups on litter and trash strewing.

The chapter will have the films for the first three weeks on this month and at a later date. Films are available from Mrs. Helen Stammen, chapter president.

The Walton League is also sponsoring two anti-litter contests. The anti-litter pledge contest is being introduced into Colorado Springs schools with the litter-bug film. Each school signing 100 per cent of its enrollment on the pledge forms will receive a year's subscription to the Walton magazine, "Outdoor America."

The slogan contest, for writing a 10-word or less anti-litter slogan, has a $10 prize. Entries may be submitted to Mrs. J. F. Stammen, 406 N. 31st St. They will be judged in June at the National IWL Convention in Cody, Wyo. The league requests that entries be sent in during the first week of April.

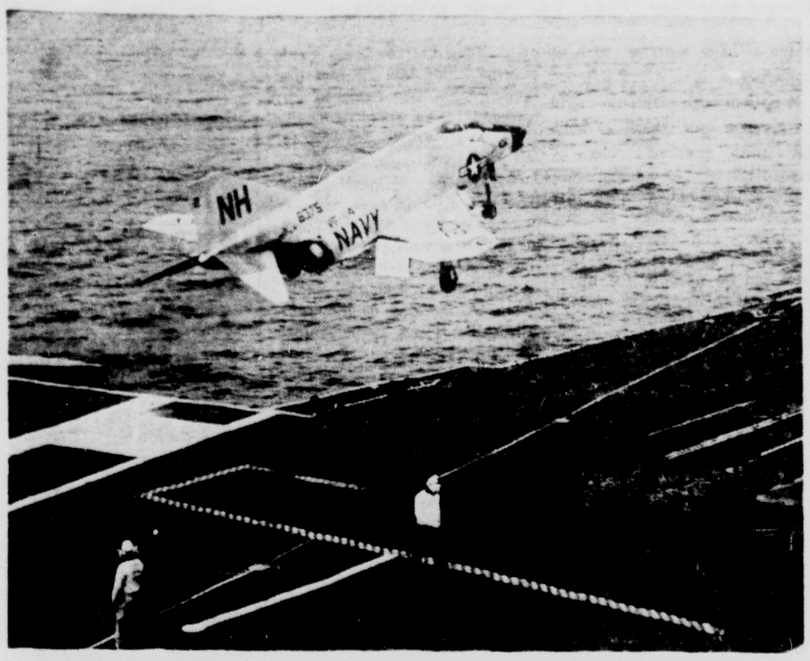
COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
COLORADO SPRINGS—SUNDAY, MARCH 7, 1965 SECTION B



WORLD'S FASTEST — A Navy F4B Phantom II, the world's fastest fighter bomber of Fighter Squadron 114 takes off from the attack carrier Kittyhawk. Phantoms from Fighter Squadron 114 and 213 will be participating in Operation "Pony Express" — live-fire close air support strikes at Ft. Carson.

Ft. Carson to Be Bombed by Navy In Simulated Air-Strike Mission

Navy fast attack carrier task forces operating in troubled spots of the world are ready to subdue any "brush fire" war. To handle a mission as vital as this, carrier - based squadrons need training . . . and because of this need, a combat simulated air strike mission will be held in the Pikes Peak Region next week.

Today, in southern California, air intelligence and operations officers of five Navy fighter and attack squadrons are evaluating aerial reconnaissance photographs taken of Ft. Carson Today, these squadron pilots and air crews are being briefed on combat close air support strikes on possible targets at the Army post.

Five fighter and attack bomber squadrons attached to Carrier Air Wing 11, carrying live bombs and rockets, will fly from West - coast Naval air stations to provide close air support to the First and Second Battalions of the 11th Infantry in this training operation on March 9, 11, and 13.

Dubbed as operation "Pony Express" this live - fire training exercise is a joint service venture — possibly the first of its kind in the United States. Tactical air force ground forward air control team controllers attached to the Fifth Infantry Division (Mechanized) will control the Navy aircraft in the strike zone.

The Navy plans to send 12 to 16 aircraft on each of the three missions. General purpose 250 pound bombs and high velocity air - to - ground rockets will be used.

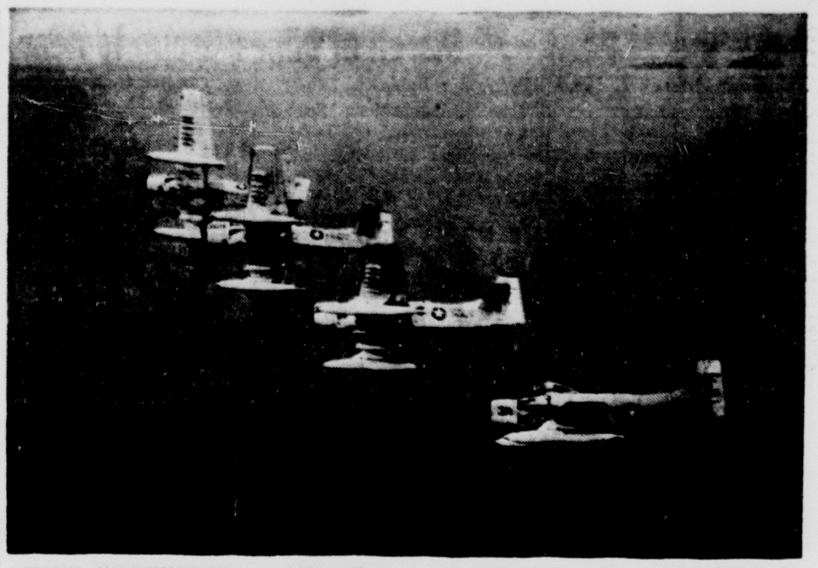
Navy aircraft participating include the world's fastest all-weather fighter - bomber F4B "Phantom II" from Fighter Squadrons 213 and 114; the A4C "Skyhawk," the jet carrier attack bomber which carries the largest wing load of fire power, from Light Attack Squadrons 112 and 113, and A1H "Skyraider" propeller aircraft from Attack Squadron 115.

These squadrons are units of Carrier Air Wing 11, temporarily shore - based at the Mirimar, California, Naval Air Station. The Air Wing is commanded by Commander W. T. Laws. All strike missions are "Operation Pony Express" will be flown from Naval Air Stations, Lemoore, California, and Fallon, Nevada. Normally this carrier striking group operates aboard the attack carrier USS Kittyhawk.

Plans call for aerial refueling en route to the target area. In 1½ hours after takeoff, the Navy jets will be in Air Force ground controllers' hands at Ft. Carson. It will take about four hours for the propeller aircraft to make their taget strikes. After completion of these missions, the jet aircraft will land at Buckley Field in Denver in lieu of a second aerial refueling; while the propeller aircraft will land at Peterson Field for pilot debrief and strike evaluation.

As in combat missions, the Navy pilots will recognize their targets from aerial photographs and complete the close support strikes with the aid of ground controllers. Since late February, Navy reconnaissance "Crusader" F8A jet aircraft have been photographing the Ft. Carson terrain. No familiarization flights are being made by these squadron pilots prior to this training operation . . . as far as the mission goes, it's a realistic training exercise.

The idea for this Navy air support mission of Army troops came from Navy Captain Hoyt D. Mann, Commander Naval Forces, Continental Air Defense Command. Through the coordination of Army General Autrey J. Maroun, Commanding General, Fifth Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Ft. Carson; and Air Force Lieutenant Col. Clyde W. Strain, Tactical Air Command liaison officer for the Fifth Infantry Division, this tri-service close air support live-firing exercise became possible.



NAVY WORKHORSE — A1H "Skyraiders" which carries a greater bomb-load than the famed World War II "B-17's", will be participating in the live-fire, tri-service, close air support training exercise this week at Ft. Carson. Dubbed Operation "Pony Express" these aircraft, guided by Air Force ground controllers, will help Army infantrymen pave the way to their objectives.

NAVY ATTACK BOMBERS — A4C "Skyhawks" will participate in this week's live-fire close air support training operation at Ft. Carson. These jet carrier attack bombers carry a larger wing load of explosives than any other Navy jet fighter bomber or attack bomber. These aircraft will refuel enroute by aerial tankers before hitting their Ft. Carson targets.

Foreign Students Stage Show Here

Colorado College foreign students in their national costumes presented a comedy skit at the Friday meeting of the Rotary Club of Colorado Springs at the Acacia Hotel.

The program, a parody on foreign students' experiences in coming to the United States was entitled "A Happening."

Participants included Cecil Gill, Nicaragua; Mohammed Lebbady, Morocco; Yoichi Saji, Japan; and Cornelius Van Slooten, The Netherlands. Linda Brekke, a CC student from Kansas City, Kan., substituted for Anne Margret Luther, Germany, who was unable to come because of illness.

Egon Wieselmann, chairman of the club's foreign student committee, arranged the program. Program chairman was Robert Spurgeon. Prof. Carlton Gamer, CC foreign student advisor, introduced the students.

Purple Marlin Invasion Means Just One Thing to Some -- Spring Is Here

Griggsville, Ill., (Special) Attention all Spring wishers, birdlovers and mosquito-bite scratchers! An urgent request has come from the Jaycees of Griggsville, Ill., for all citizens — wherever they may be — to keep their eye on the sky, the nearest telephone line or, even, a martin house that might be in the neighborhood. The moment any persons sees a glossy, blue-black bird measuring approximately eight inches in length and sporting a forked "swallow" tail, either swooping gracefully through the air or perched on the aforementioned phone line or martin house, please telephone this newspaper AT ONCE!

Immediately upon receiving this report of a purple martin sighting, this paper will let its readers know that: (1) Spring is really here! (2) Spring will not be silent! (3) Mosquitoes BEWARE — the purple martins are here!

How do the Griggsville, Ill., Jaycees fit into this important spring event and what in the world are purple martins, anyway?

It seems that two years ago the Jaycees of Griggsville, a west-central Illinois town of 1200 population, located near both the Mississippi and Illinois Rivers, and prey to an insufferable number of river-bottom mosquitoes regardless of which direction the wind blew, decided to take steps to rid their community of these pests, and to do it without fog spray equipment, so popular in many towns.

After consulation with Dr. T. E. Musselman, a well-known naturalist of nearby Quincy, Illinois, it was determined that purple martins — birds that feed entirely on flying insects and must eat their weight in such pests each day — might very well turn the trick. So the Jaycees took it upon themselves to install dozens of multi-story aluminum martin houses. Before long there were 115 martin houses in the village offering nesting compartments for enough purple martins to provide a pair of birds for every man, woman and child.

The success of the Griggsville Jaycees' program quickly received the attention of the news media and national publicity has resulted. The press has called Griggsville "the purple martin capital of the nation" and the Jaycee chapter of that town has accepted the responsibility of acting as a clearing house for questions concerning their program and the part played by the purple martin.

One of the most frequently asked questions, according to Richard Curry, president of the Griggsville Jaycees, is "When do the purple martin scouts appear in my area?" It seems that this information is vital because of two reasons: (1) The arrival of the purple martin scout is, according to many naturalists, the most accurate evidence of spring there can be. Purple martins eat only flying insects and cannot exist more than 48 hours without a plentiful supply of this food. Therefore, when the martins show up we know the weather will be mild enough to send clouds of such insects into the air.

Second, the appearance of the martin scouts is the clarion call to purple martin "hobbyists" to get their houses installed and hang out the for rent signs. Their purpose, of course, is to entice the martin to spend the summer in their yard and feast upon the myriad mosquitoes, beetles, flies and other flying pests that could and would, if allowed, mess up many a cookout, patio party or other summertime outdoor activity.

So, the Griggsville Jaycees are asking this newspaper to ask our readers to join the Operation Purple Martin Alert! You let us know when the very first purple martin scout makes his appearance and this paper will gratefully spread the word SPRING IS HERE!

Institute Set at CC for Teachers OF Gifted High School Students

A new kind of interdisciplinary summer institute for teachers of gifted high school students has been established by Colorado College.

The four week institute, supported by a $23,230 grant from the U.S. Office of Education, gets under way at Colorado College June 14.

Dr. Thomas K. Mauch of the college English department, will direct the program, believed to be the only one of its kind in the country.

Unusual features of the new institute are that it is restricted to teachers of high ability secondary school students and that it is a departure from the regular single subject institute.

It is open to 30 high school teachers of advanced placement or accelerated classes in literature and European history or prospective teachers of such classes, from a five state area including Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"We hope the participants will benefit as teachers and then will introduce elements of the interdisciplinary approach to their own courses for gifted students," Dr. Mauch said.

He said the summer institute would cover four periods of literary and historical significance appropriate for high school courses. They are the Greek World, the Medieval World, the Renaissance and the Enlightenment.

"The periods have been selected," Dr. Mauch said, because "we have found that high school teachers of advanced placement and accelerated classes for gifted students feel that their most limited knowledge and experience are found in the earlier periods of our culture" and because the four periods make "striking contributions to the development of the modern world and represent the foundation for an understanding of works and events of later times."

During the institute, the 30 teachers will take a course in literature, a course in history, a seminar in either literature or history, and attend weekly lectures in the art and music of the period under discussion.

In addition, a distinguished scholar will be brought to the Colorado College campus each week to meet with the teachers and to deliver a special lecture on a topic related to the period under study.

The participants will meet as a group on Saturday mornings with the five institute faculty members to discuss principal issues raised during the week.

The institute is open to teachers of literature or European history who have taught for three years in high schools, who have a bachelor's degree, and who have taught advanced placement or accelerated classes, or who are potential teachers of such classes. They will receive full tuition, a stipend and allowances for dependents.

Fifteen history teachers and 15 literature teachers will be selected for the institute. Dr. Mauch said the deadline for applications is April 15.

Wakin to Give Seminar Address

The complex (and vitally important) inter - relation of scientist and philosopher will be examined by Lt. Col. Malham M. Wakin, Air Force Academy assistant dean for social sciences and humanities, at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, in room 6H26, Fairchild Hall.

The seminar, fourth in the spring series sponsored by the Department of Electrical Engineering, is open to the public.

A special invitation to attend this, and other seminars in the series, is extended to educators, technical personnel, and scientists in the Colorado Springs-Denver areas.

Col. Wakin will make an analysis of the methods employed by the scientist and by the philosopher with special attention given to the problem of induction.

The colonel holds that the distinction between philosophy and science so easily made today is not a healthy one.

He defends the thesis that the functions of the two are so essentially related that for either to ignore the other is a crucial error, an error which impedes intellectual progress and which could have disastrous consequences for the future of mankind.

Shell Gives $1,500 Grant To CC Here

Colorado College has received a grant for $1,500 from the Shell Companies Foundation of New York.

The grant was divided into three parts. One is an unrestricted gift to be used at the discretion of the president. A second is to be used by the dean to encourage further professional development of faculty members. A third is for the departments of chemistry, mathematics and physics.

Colorado College was one of five private colleges and universities in the eight-state Rocky Mountain region receiving Shell grants. This marks the fifth year Shell has made grants to the 91-year-old college.

WHO'S STRONGER? — Bobbie Slattery, Red Cross Monitor, helps Danny Aragon, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Aragon, 416 W. Van Buren, at the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center. Bobbie and his sister have been Monitors for almost a year and serve at the Center every Friday afternoon.

They Use Challenges and Nursery Rhymes in Work With Handicapped

"You feel like you're really doing something worthwhile when you help these children with their therapy."

This was the observation of Red Cross Monitors, Connie and Bobbie Slattery, children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Slattery, 1136 Royale Dr. Every Friday afternoon, right after school, they hurry to the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center where they help others help themselves. They have been Monitors for almost a year now, and have given over 125 hours each in their volunteer service.

As soon as they arrive at the Rehabilitation Center they find many jobs waiting for them. With the small children various exercises are done in conjunction with simple nursery rhyme songs.

Meantime, Bobbie, her brother is involved in a conversation with Danny Aragon as to who is the stronger. Danny is working weights with his legs.

"Kick, Danny," says Bobbie. "I'm stronger than you are," Danny laughs back, "I can kick higher than you can."

It's fun, its a game as their muscles get stronger and stronger. It's fun for the Slatterys, too, as they watch these children improve, as they know the wonderful feeling of satisfaction of helping others. As soon as Danny and Julie are finished there are more children waiting. Bobbie and Connie will be busy every minute they are there.

There are one hundred of these Red Cross Monitors, giving more than 5,000 hours of service a year to handicapped children in private homes and in local agencies.

The Monitors are teen-agers of at least 14 years of age, headed by an adult committee of more volunteers.

"It is due to those who give to the United Fund that this and other Red Cross Programs are possible," said Maggie Houston Aro, founder and Chairman of the Monitor committee. "March is Red Cross month and our opportunity to thank those on behalf of the children and the volunteers who are benefited in many different ways by this program."

THE KETTLE'S ON — Bobbie's sister Connie Slattery, also a Red Cross Monitor, helps Julie Moore exercise with a little weight. Julie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moore, 220 N. Custer.

Milt Plum, Detroit Lions' quarterback, is a plumbing firm representative during the off-SEASON.

Cancer Society Awards $18,920 Grant to CU Dean

The American Cancer Society, through its Colorado division, today announced a grant of $18,920 to Dr. John H. Githens, associate dean of the University of Colorado School f Medicine, to dontinue his long-term studies on bone marrrow.

This year's grant — a renewal for the sixth year — brings total ACS support of the project to $100,135.

Dr. Githens' study is entitled "The Effect of Tissue - Cultured Hematopoietic Cells from Fetal Liver and Spleen for the Protection Against the Effects of Total Body Irradiation."

Under the grant, Dr. Githens is investigating various aspects of bone marrow transplantation, with mice as the principal experimental animals. Bone marrow transplantation is not yet feasible in human beings on a cnsistent basis, according to Dr. Githens.

It is hoped that these studies will lead to improved mehods for the preservation of bone marrow and the evaluation of the marrow cells for their ability to achieve transplantation. If effective methods of bone marrow transplantatin can be achieved, the advance would have major implications in cancer research. It might then be possible to treat various diseases of bone marrow, such as leukemia.

A patient with leukemia might be given a new supply of healthy bone marrow cells by transplantation to eradicate the disease. Or transplantation also might make possible the use of larger and more effective dosages of drugs or X-ray than now can be used in the direct treatment of cancers because the drugs or radiation in high dosage are fatal to bone marrow cells.

These studies could hav far reaching effects since a patient with cancer might be given massive doses of drugs or radiation which would kill the cancer cells. Bone marrow cells would also be killed but the fact that they could be replaced by transplantation would make this type of treatment feasible for the first time.

One of Dr. Githens' major interests, in this research, has been the study of different methids for preservation of bone marrow in storage so that it might be put in a "marrow bank" either by freezing or by maintaining its life in tissue culture solutions.

In the course of the continuing study, Dr. Githens and Dr. William Hathaway, assistant professor of pediatrics, have evaluated the use of a special stain called acridine orange to determine which cells remain living and which ones die after storage by freezing in liquid nitrogen at minus 196 degrees. Fahrenheit.

More recently Dr. Githens has been studying the effectiveness of some drugs, notable azathioprine, used in kidney transplants, and the relationship of these drugs to the immunology of marrow cells.

WYOMING, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Rosena Kremers, 56, was taking her driver's test. Patrolman George Isler, the testing officer, said she put her car into drive instead of reverse and it jumped a concrete bumper and hit the police station. Damage was slight. Isler said Mrs. Kremer's learning permit was renewed for two months.

Crime Rate Down So Far This Year

There have been less offenses known to the Colorado Springs police department so far this year than during a comparable period last year.

Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick said there were 703 such offenses during the first two months of this year and 706 for a comparable time in 1964.

The more serious or Part 1 offenses show an 11 per cent increase from 361 last year to 401 so far this year. However, the majority of that increase was in the category of larceny cases involving under $50 in value; the increase was from 212 to 243.

McKissick also reported that the number of offenses cleared by arrest in February was more than double that of a year ago. The number of offenses cleared by arrest last month was almost 30 per cent and 24.2 per cent so far this year.

Compared with February of a year ago, there were slight increases last month in the number of rape cases, robberies, aggravated assaults and burglaries.

In the "other offenses" category, there were less cases of arson, assault, disorderly conduct, indecent exposure, molesting, assault and battery in the first two months of this year than in 1964. Increases were noted in bad checks and malicious mischief.

GOODWILL WORKER OF THE YEAR—Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs has named Terry Booker, 23, the Goodwill worker of 1965. As aresult of his selection by the staff employees of the local group, he will be nominated for the National handicapped Goodwill worker of the year. Booker started with Goodwill in December, 1962 and remained with the organization until Aug. 10, 1964 when he began employment at Ft. Carson and has been there since. Afflicted with cerebral palsy, Terry is mentally retarded also. Although handicapped by these disabilities, his Goodwill training, his own drive and motivation, have made him a self-supporting member of the community. Booker lives at 1132 W. Cucharras St., and is employed at installation maintenance at Ft. Carson.

Canvas Bag With $40,000 Missing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —The Philadelphia office of Brink's Inc. says it is missing a gray canvas bag containing $40,000 in cash from one of its armored trucks.

A Brink's spokesman said the armored truck was never left unguarded Tuesday when the bag was discovered missing after the truck had made two stops. The announcement of the missing money came Friday.

The spokesman recalled an incident in January 1961 in Los Angeles when a bag with $240,000 dropped from a truck. It was found by an unemployed handyman who turned it over to police.

Taylor Runs For GOP Post

DENVER (UPI)— Former Adams County Republican Chairman Charles A. Taylor Friday announced his candidacy for Colorado GOP secretary.

Taylor, state Republican campaign co-ordinator for last November's general election, said he was running for the job to expand it and work for party harmony.

"It would be disastrous for the party to widen antagonisms existing today," Taylor said, "and I believe that my election would be useful to our common goal of party harmony."

Taylor, a Brighton accountant, announced his candidacy in a letter to State GOP Chairman Paul Wolf.

Taylor is opposing incumbent state Republican secretary Cy Wells of Jefferson County. Wells recently was defeated for Jefferson County GOP chairman.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

Editor's Note: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—For the past two years I have claimed a $600 dependency exemption for my father whom I support. Last year he became 65. Do I get another $600 for him because of age?

A—No, you do not. There is just one $600 exemption for a dependent, regardless of age.

Q—When the new rules on travel and entertainment expenses went into effect they had travel for business and pleasure. I understand last year's tax law changed some of them. Just what is the story now on deductible travel expenses?

A—Here are the basic rules for travel within the U. S. based on the 1964 law. If the trip is soley for business, the reasonable and necessary travel expenses may be deducted. If the trip is undertaken primarily for pleasure, traveling expenses will not be deductible.

Travel expenses include fares, meals and lodgings incurred while away from home overnight on business and are deductible to the extent that they are not lavish or extravagant under the circumstances.

If a taxpayer engages in both business and personal activities on a trip which is taken primarily for business, he may deduct only those travel expenses he would have incurred had the trip been totally for business.

The 1964 provision on traveling expenses removed the need for allocating under certain circumstances, expenses between business and non-business travel within the U. S. The allocation provision remains in effect, however, for travel outside the U. S. Any taxpayer who had allocated travel expenses within the U. S. for 1963 may file amended returns for that year because the 1964 provision is retroactive to cover that period.

Q—I filed my return last week When can I expect to receive it?

A—Generally a refund can be expected in about 6 weeks. Several factors are involved, however. First, if your return is selected for a pre-refund audit, your refund will be delayed. Second, the date the return is filed has a bearing on the processing time required. A return filed early in the filing season will be processed in less time than one that comes in with the last-minute flood of returns. Also, any errors or imperfections can delay a refund.

Q—Why is it so important to use the pre-addressed tax forms we got in the mail?

A—By using these forms, it will assure that your return is properly identified. It will help ensure the correct crediting to your account of tax payments and expedite a refund if you have one coming.

Q—For each of the past few years, I have ended up owing more tax when I file my return. Is there anything I can do about this?

A—Yes, there is. Ask your employer to withhold additional amounts from your paycheck, or consider dropping some of your exemptions for payroll purposes. You can always claim all the exemptions you are entitled to when you file your income tax return.

Q—Can I have tax forms mailed to me?

A—If you filed a return last year and haven't moved, you should have received your 1965 tax forms in the mail. Copies of major tax forms also are available at any Internal Revenue office and at most post offices. In addition, many banks and other commercial establishments have tax forms available.

Q — I sold my house last year and moved into an apartment. The price I received was more than I paid for it. However, I did make some improvements in the house while I had it. Do I have to pay tax on the difference between what I paid for it and what I sold it for? If I do, how do I figure it?

A—You have to pay tax if you received more for the house than you paid for it. In figuring what the house cost you, you can include the cost of permanent improvements you have made, purchase commissions, title fees, and the like. From your selling price you can deduct selling commissions, "fix-ing-up" expenses, advertising fees and other costs incurred in transferring the property. This is explained in detail in "Your Federal Income Tax," which costs just 50 cents. Also available at Internal Revenue offices is Form 2119, "Statement Concerning Sale or Exchange of Personal Residence," which will be of great help in calculating the tax liability on a home sale.

Dirksen Tells Tales of Requests at Stratton Trial

CHICAGO (UPI) — The defense rested in former Gov. William G. Stratton's income tax evasion trial Friday after Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told a federal court jury a politician faces extraordinary demands on his pocketbook.

In a move that caught government attorneys by surprise, defense attorney William A. Barnett announced that no more witnesses would be called to bolster Stratton's contention that he reported all taxable income and paid his tax bills in full.

U. S. District Court Judge Hubert L. Will, who had planned to hold an unusual Saturday court session to speed completion of the trial, recessed the trial until Monday to give the government time to round up its rebuttal witnesses.

Friday's developments indicated that the trial, which entered its third month Friday morning, would be placed in the hands of the jury sometime next week.

Dirksen, who said he had known Stratton since the ex-governor was 14 and had been associated with him in at least 15 political campaigns, testified on behalf of the one-time "boy wonder" of Illinois Republican politics.

Stratton is charged with evading $46,676 in taxes in his last term as governor by failing to report nearly $85,000 in income, much of which the government contended came in the form of campaign contributions.

"The demands on a politician are many," Dirksen testified.

"I got curious on my own and decided to check over a six months' period," Dirksen said. "Generally requests for donations ran over $100 a day. Some were political. Some where non-political. One church wanted an organ, another wanted to send a girl's basketball team back east."

Dirksen said he received requests for donations that exceeded his salary.

Barnett, explaining the defense's decision to rest, said any testimony after the veteran Illinois senator's would be "anti-climatic."

"The jury is tired, and everyone is tired," Barnett said. "The point has been made."

TOOK TOO LONG

VIENNA (AP — A parcel mailed 32 years ago finally reached its destination this year, but the addressee had been dead for six years.

The journey of the parcel came to light when it was returned to a Viennese who posted it in 1933. The heirs of the addressee in Dornbirn, Western Austria, had refused to accept the parcel, containing a book commemorating the 80-year-old anniversary of a detective union.

The Austrian Post was unable to explain why a parcel took 32 years from Vienna to Dornbirn.

Fanfani Takes Cabinet Post

Fanfani, like Moro a Christian Democrat, joined the Cabinet along with Democratic Socialist Edgardo Lami Starnuti, who took over as minister of commerce, replacing Christian Democrat Giuseppe Medici.

Saragat had been foreign minister until his election as president last December. Since then Moro had held the post on an interim basis.

Political Haggle Prevents Curing Of Old Farm Mess

By JOHN CHAMBERAIN

In Indiana, where the hogs are so fat that they look rather like mastodons to the unaccustomed eye, you can get a simple answer to the farm problem.

Hassil Schenk, who was head of the Indiana Farm Bureau for twenty-one years and who, at the age of 72, lives on his 210-acre farm not far from Lafayette, says it is just a matter of retiring seventy million acres from production instead of the fifty million that is presently in the so-called conservation reserve. At Purdue University the figures they give tend to back up Mr. Schenck in his comprehensive general statement of the case.

The total bill handed to the taxpayers each year for taking care of the Department of Agriculture and its works is approximately seven billion dollars. Some three billion of this, according to Mr. Schenck, is legitimate expenditure. But four billion goes out the window in one way or another in the currently rather hopeless attempt to solve the problem of the surplus.

Not enough land is taken out of production under the wheat and feed grain programs to stabilize farm prices and income at a point that would bring about the progressive elimination of the excess corn and wheat that so taxes our storage facilities. But we know from past experience that whenever the acreage reduction approaches the seventy million mark, the surplus starts to shrink and farming tends to be quite profitable to those who are still growing crops on the remaining 390 million acres of U.S. plow land.

What Mr. Schenck suggests is that the federal government offer sufficient incentive to poor and elderly farmers to rent seventy million acres to Uncle Sam for conservation purposes. He figures that an average of twenty dollars an acre would do the trick. Seventy million multiplied by twenty would come to an annual rent payment by the government of 1.4 billion dollars. This would be 2.6 billion cheapter than the present bill of four billion for coping with the surplus. What is more, it would return every producing farmer to a happy free market.

Why isn't it done? According to the Purdue agricultural experts, is that other people besides farmers have become beneficiaries of the present way of dealing with the farm problem. If an incentive price were offered to the marginal farmer to rent his acres to the government, it could easily result in an almost wholesale evacuation of certain areas in the western states. What this would do to the merchants of the small towns in the deserted areas would create entirely new islands of poverty. Furthermore, it would also deprive some congressmen of their constituents.

It is this short of thing that prevents the large simplicities from taking over in Washington, D.C. The impasse could be solved if the non-farm representatives in Congress would only take the bit between their teeth and decide to act without paying any attention to the ordinary amenities of log rolling.

So what seems simple in Indiana, where retired farmers tend to stay put in the pleasant neighborhoods in which they have lived their lives, still remains a complicated mess insofar as the frontier uplands are concerned. Still and all, the farm problem is going to be solved one of these days, and the easiest way to accomplish this might be to follow Hassil Schenck's formula.

Hungarian Night Club Man Admits Corruption

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Lajos Onody, former manager of a state-owned restaurant and nightclub, has pleaded guilty to embezzlement, fraud and corruption charges against him, the Communist party newspaper Nepszabadsag said today.

Onody, 44, and nine associates were put on trial 12 days ago. Nepzsabadsag said he "revealed a kind of cynicism which shocked the audience at the court.

"He seems to have dealt with public property as if it had been his own. He made gifts of furniture, clothes, and other goods and arranged feats and parties out of such funds for himself and his friends."

(Reports which had reached Vienna said Onody organized orgies highlighted by nude, chocolate-covered airline hostesses.)

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Good-natured John, proprietor of a grocery store, kept a can of free tobacco on the counter. One day, just for kicks, he sprinkled a little gunpowder into the tobacco.

Sure enough, the first customer to use the mixture set off an explosion in his pipe. Result: injury to the customer's eyes, and a successful damage suit against John.

It is well worth remembering, when you feel playful that "I was only joking" is seldom a good defense in a court of law.

"One who plays dangerous practical jokes on others," observed one court, "takes the risk that his victims may not appreciate the humor."

Of course, if there is no reason to foresee harm, you are on safer ground. Thus, a prankster who wore an outlandish costume was held not responsible for the fright which his appearance caused in the woman next door.

But add enough cruelty or recklessness to your sense of humor and you may have to pay for costly consequences. For example, courts have imposed liability on:

1) a joker who gave a hot foot to a man too drunk to realize that he was suffering a third degree burn;

2) a grocer who packed a dead rat into a bundle of groceries;

3) a wag who informed a woman, falsely but convincingly, that her husband had had both legs broken in a smashup;

4) a card player who, while bending down for some money, flipped a fellow player backwards out of his chair.

In fact, in addition to liability for damages, you might even face criminal charges.

A man had an old revolver containing a jammed cartridge. Confident that the gun wouldn't shoot, he playfully brandished it at a visitor and pulled the trigger. To his horror, the gun fired a shot that killed the visitor.

Booked on a manslaughter charge, he pleaded that it was a pure accident — "all in fun." But the court found him guilty.

"Human life" said the court grimly, "is not to be sported with."

Blue Gill Splashes In Politics

By AL SANDER

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The tiny bluegill made a big splash in the Michigan House of Representatives Friday.

Lawmakers played for nearly 40 minutes Friday with a bill to make it the official fish of Michigan before it shook the hook and darted back to committee.

Rep. Bobby Crim touched off a fight when he moved to amend a bill by striking out bluegill and inserting perch.

Rep. Stanley Davis sponsor of the measure, congratulated Crim for "casting his line in the piscatorial deep and fishing for an official fish of Michigan."

But, he insisted, the bluegill shows commendable family traits while the perch ignores its young. His "noble character" makes him worthy of the title, Davis said.

Rep. Joseph Swallow asked for, but was denied, permission to talk about a new state bird. The official state bird is now a robin.

Sources indicated that the bird he had in mind was undoubtedly the swallow.

Rep. Harry Demaso proposed laying the matter over for a year "so Rep. Davis and Crim can cross the two fish."

Since the fish travel in schools, Rep. E. D. O'Brien proposed that the question be sent to the Education Committee.

The bill finally was sent to the House Conservation Committee.

Even if the House passed the bill, the measure faces trouble in the Senate. Sen. Terry Troutt has introduced a bill calling for a state fish — the trout.

Mike Richardson, 9, of Wendell, N. C., was the youngest male getting a hole-in-one in 1964, says Golf Digest. He aced the 157-yard third hole at the Lakeside Country Club.

Julie Wetch, 10, of Billings, Mont., was the youngest female registering a hole-in-one during 1964. She got it on the 130-yard seventh hole at Lake Hills.

Federal Tax Tips

By ROGER E. WARD
Internal Revenue Service

Editor's Note — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I worked as a salesman for an appliance store last year. I now work for another employer, but my former employer has not sent me my W-2. What should I do?

A—Have you moved? Maybe the W-2 was sent to your old address. In any event, contact your former employer. He can prepare a duplicate W-2 for you if necessary.

Q—Changes have been made in the provisions on capital loss carryovers. Can you tell me how they will affect the investor?

A—Under the previous provisions, capital losses could only be carried over for the next five years. Further, whether the loss was long term or short term, when it was carried over it was identified as a short term loss. Under the 1964 law, capital losses may be carried over indefinitely. These losses also retain their original character. In other words, a short term loss is carried over as a short term loss — a long term loss is carried over as a long term loss.

The new treatment of capital losses will apply to such losses incurred in the 1964 tax year and thereafter. Capital losses being carried over to 1964 will continue to be treated as short term losses but can be carried over until used up.

Q—I smoke a carton of cigaretts a week. How much can I deduct on my tax return?

A—Under the new law, state and local taxes specifically imposed on cigarettes are no longer deductible. Check the instructions you received with your tax return to find the taxes which are still deductible.

Q—I took a winter vacation this year. As a result, I didn't cash my December paycheck until after I returned in January. Should I include this money with 1964 or 1965 income?

A—The December paycheck is 1964 income and has been included in the totals listed on your W-2. The general rule for checks is that they are taxable in the year they are received, regardless of when they are cashed.

A—You may round off your figures to the nearest dollar. Items under 50 cents can be listed as the next lowest dollar. 50 cents or more to the next highest dollar.

While such rounding off of dollars amounts is permitted, estimates of expenses, deductions and income are not acceptable. Items listed on a return require proper substantiation.

Q—There isn't enough room on the tax form to list all my employers last year. Should I list them on a separate piece of paper?

A—This year you do not list your employers on your tax return. Just total the amounts shown on the W-2's and enter the total on the return. Don't forget to include the W-2's, however.

Q—Are students exempt from income tax?

A—No. Students are like any other taxpayer group. While most scholarships are exempt from tax, students must report and pay tax on any other income they receive — $600 or more gross income.

Q—Recently we gave away our piano to our church. It had been used by our daughter who is now married and living some distance from us. Is there anything we can deduct as a charitable contribution for the piano?

A—In such cases, the fair market value of the articles or merchandise donated may be taken as a charitable contribution when deductions are itemized. Check the instructions on contributions for donations of property.

Q—I recently received a statement from my bank listing the interest that had been credited to my account for the year. Should I file this with my return along with my W-2?

A—No. A copy of this record was also sent to Internal Revenue. Your copy serves as a reminder of the amount of interest credit to your account by a particular bank or savings institution so that you can report it correctly.

Bud Wilkinson, former Oklahoma footbal coach, heads the new Lifetime Sports Foundation.

Installed in a area constructed especially for such space age equipment, this amazing data processing system is demonstrating its great versatility and accuracy.

You'll now receive much faster, more efficient, simplified and streamlined handling of all transactions, free from any possible human error.

Individuals and business firms interested in new and better ways to raise productive efficiency are invited to inquire how this equipment can be of particular benefit. And, of course, we will be happy to give you a tour of this new facility.

NEW IBM 1240 DATA PROCESSING SYSTEM

Robert S. Dunham of Evanston, Ill., has been appointed director of public information for the off - campus centers of the University of Colorado.

Dunahm, 34, is now public relations director for the Million Dollar Round Table of Chicago. He will come to CU April 1, succeeding Wallace Lovelace, who recently was named postmaster of Boulder.

Dunham will have offices in the University's Denver Center and will be in charge of public information programs for that center and for the University's Colorado Springs Center.

He is a 1951 journalism graduate of CU and was news director of radio station KVOR in Colorado Springs from 1951 to 1953. He also worked on radio stations in Shreveport, La., and Alliance, Neb., before returning to CU in 1956 as assistant director of the news bureau in Boulder.

Dunham moved to Illinois in 1959 and spent three years as a reporter for the Evanston Review. He also worked as an industrial reporter for the Packaging Corporation of America before joining the Million Dollar Round Table, a voluntary association of life insurance underwriters who sell a million dollars of life insurance a year.

Dunham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland W. Dunham, 553 Mapleton Ave., Boulder. His father is a retired dean of the CU College of Music.

H. L. Hunt Writes

A majority of the people in South Viet Nam know little difference between communsim and the profit motive system. Probably less than one-fourth of the people there oppose communism.

Those who are for freedom may not approve of the United States civilian or military leadership in charge of the assistance the United States government is offering them.

Many know of General Douglas MacArthur rebuilding wartorn Japan. They know of MacArthur's dismissal and our State Department's part in this tragedy. Many of them have heard of the known communists Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White and their co-workers who would have delighted in destroying MacArthur, had his greatness not made him indestructible. Many of them know the participants of the betrayal of China into communist domination by requiring Chang Kai-Shek to set up a supposed neutral administration like the governmnet Averell Harriman established in neighboring Laos.

They cannot concede that any Americans ever suspected of softness toward communism belong in the class with General MacArthur.

The Vietnamese might be willing to trust the U. S. State Department if they were more impressed with the loyalty of the free world leaders to their own nations and to the free world.

If the Vietnamese possess the wisdom to make them valuable to the free world and in defense of their country against the communists from the North and Sukarno from the South, this same wisdom may cause them to question what we will do in their behalf in South Viet Nam.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER
For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

Apparently life in some form appeared in the way of plants, as soon as conditions of temperature was favorable. The green covering which spread over the earth from edges of the ocean and deltas of rivers and which followed all water courses and later rose to the highlands, probably consisted of small moss like plants which in the progress of time became larger plants much like ferns of our day and these types developed into shrubs and they gradually developed into trees. By the beginning of Devonian period, all these forms including trees constituted the prairies and forests of the time. The colors of vegetation were probably green, brown, yellow and black; no striking colors such as red or blue were seen until a later period.

There were no flowers to break the monotony of the dull colors. There must have been a great silence over the world at that time, for there were no birds or butterflies, bees or flies humming through the air. The only sounds which broke the quiet were the croaking of small reptiles and the buzz of gigantic dragon flies. The sky was cloudy all the time and warm all the year, no change of seasons. During the Permian period, a change of plants took place. Conifers appeared and other plant life, large reptiles called the dimetroden, eight feet tall and spines, four feet long, lizards and salamanders were giants. Many trees appeared such as cypress, sycamores· palms, magnolias and figs.

At Florissant Colo., there existed a small lake, a deposit at the bottom the shales formed, largely volcanic. Many thousands of plant fossils belonging to at least 250 species have been found there and thousands of insects, remains of fish and shells. From deposits in the Danube valley near Vienna, geologists gather that the flora was alpine for there was found Violet, primrose, saxifrage, and cinquefoil and rhododendron.

Wheat perhaps originated in Egypt. Grains have been found with Egyptian mummies. Barley and Rye are old world plants. Oats was known in ancient Greece. Corn is an American plant. It was quickly introduced into the Old World. Cotton came from southern Europe and was not introduced into America until long after. Coffee of course came from Africa. Potatoes came in the New World and soon introduced into the old world. The grape and fig goes back to antiquity. Man has created new varieties of fruit, vegetables and flowers which will be far-reaching for new generations. The plant world will changed in the course of the past hundreds of thousands or millions of years. The ancestors of our modern food plants were scraggly with small uninviting fruit. But there had to be a beginning.

Demos Set Up Electronic Election Aid

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrats have set up a personalized electronic information service to help their lopsided congressional majority weather the 1966 off-year election.

Getting special attention are the 71 freshmen members of the House. Most of them are from closely divided or normally Republican districts and they are likely to be the chief targets of the GOP.

Using a relatively small staff and a few telephones and tape recorders, the Democratic National Committee has left the Republicans far behind in political communications.

The Democrats can get comments from representatives and senators into the hands of radio and television stations in their districts almost simultaneously with the passage of legislation or the announcement of government contracts.

Recordings of comments by President Johnson and other top administration officials are available daily.

In contrast, the Republican National Committee has just started a weekly five-minute broadcast, available thus far only through state and county GOP chairmen. The GOP has no service at all to compare with Democratic efforts on behalf of individual congressmen.

Dictating the Democratic drive is the history of midterm elections.

In 1938, two years after President Franklin D. Roosevelt's landslide victory, the Democrats dropped 75 House seats. Other midterm declines have been less severe, but 1934 is the only time in the last half century that the party in power gained.

Of the 295 Democrats in the House — there are 140 Republicans —45 may be especially vulnerable in 1966, running as they will have to, without the benefit of Johnson's coattails.

To keep the congressmen in touch with their districts, the Democratic committee supplies radio and television scripts and material for newsletters, transmits statements by teletype to newspapers and distributes recorded events to radio and television stations.

Five contact men at party headquarters have been assigned specifically to the 71 House freshmen to give them ideas and show them what services are available. One of them, Jonh Meek, said his main job is "to save them a lot of time."

The biggest innovation is the actuality service, directed by Jerry Huard, the National Committee's radio-television chief.

"People have been sending stuff to radio stations from mimeograph machines," Huard said. "That's of no use to them at all."

A congressman need only call the National Committee and have his statement taken over the telephone. Huard, or one of his two assistants, then calls the radio and television stations in the district, offering the recorded statement.

Huard says the service has been useful especially to congressmen from sprawling, rural districts.

"What better way has he got of reaching his constituency?" he asked.

Smog Getting Worse in State

DENVER (UPI) — The State Health Department said Friday Colorado's smog problem is getting worse.

The department said in its annual report on the findings of the new Colorado Air Monitoring network Pueblo and Denver smog was as severe as ever, and air pollutants now were beginning to show up in Boulder, Grand Junction and Colorado Springs.

Only Durango among the six stations on the monitoring network all year long was well below the legal limit of 120 micrograms of suspended particles per cubic meter of air.

Denver and Grand Junction air was at illegal haze levels at least half the year, the department said, and Denver also probably exceeded the limits set for ozone.

Colorado's anti - smog act, passed in 1963, outlaws high levels of pollutants but has no strong enforcement clause for violations.

Negro Woman Gives Up Neighborhood Battle

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I've had enough trouble to last me the rest of my life," said Mrs. Elnora Walker as she moved into an apartment in an all-Negro neighborhood.

The 28-year-old Negro mother of five had tried twice unsuccessfully to occupy a rented row house in an all-white section of Baltimore.

The first night all the windows were broken with rocks and she was forced to flee.

The next evening, as she tried to take possession again, a crowd of white teen-agers stoned her and she left.

"I'm no blockbuster," she said Friday. She said both she and the landlord, Raymond Weinberg, thought the neighborhood was integrated.

"It was an ignorant situation," she said. "They could have knocked on my door and asked me if I knew it was an all - white neighborhood. We could have talked about it. I don't think the neighborhood is worth all the trouble."

Baltimore Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin publicly apologized "on behalf of the city of Baltimore for the outrageous treatment she has received for exercising one of her basic human rights — the right to choose the place where she wises to live."

Big Names of West Germany Go to Leipzig

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) — West Germany's industrial giants have ended their boycott of the Leipzig fair, East Germany's commercial showpiece.

The big names of the Ruhr — Krupp, Mannesmann, Thyssen, Hoesch and Rheinstahl — came back to the fair this year, which opened Sunday, with huge displays of their latest heavy machinery.

The electrical equipment firms of AEG and Siemens again are displaying their wares, ready to do business with all comers from East or West.

West Germany's chemical industry has also returned. Bayer, Hoechst, BASF — Badische Anilin und Soda Fabriken — Dynamit Nobel and Degussa have prominent displays.

All these firms heeded the West German government's call for a boycott three years ago to retaliate against the building of the Red Berlin wall.

The boycott was largely a symbolic gesture, although it may have cost West German firms some orders. West German exports to East Germany totaled $298 million last year, and $277.75 milion worth of East German exports came to West Germany.

One West German businessman who deals in chemicals said "Eastern Europe has been our traditional trading partner and we have been losing business to other Western countries such as England.

"Let's face it, the East Germans are not going to tear the Berlin wall down just because we don't show up here and we are just missing a chance at what could be a good market."

At official receptions, West German businessmen hovered around Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Polish Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz and top East German officials.

Ernst Wolf Mommsen, board chairman of Phoenix Rheinrohr, said after a talk with Kosygin that he was "personally very proud" to have good relations with the Soviets.

Mommsen said he had some new ideas about his firm's future dealings with the Russians, but he refused to elaborate.

The largest Western exhibitor at the fair is France, showing automobiles and machinery. Britain, Italy and Sweden also have large exhibits.

There are reports that U.S. firms are also displaying goods here, but this reporter has been unable to find a single American firm.

200 Unemployed Will Be Retrained for New Jobs

Training in the operation of high - speed heavy duty earth-moving machines will be offered 200 unemployed Colorado construction workers under a program announced by D. L. Frodine, Regional Director of the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training.

The Manpower Development and Training Act program will be conducted at Pueblo. Trainees will spend two weeks in the classrooms of Southern Colorado State College there, and four weeks in actual operation of equipment on the grounds of the Pueblo Airport and the Colorado State Fair Grounds.

Colorado Statewide Local Union No. 9, International Union of Operating Engineers, AFT-CIO, will conduct on-the-job training, utilizing expert operators who are also qualified job instructors.

The Colorado Department of Unemployment will select the trainees, from a pool of unemployed construction workers with some experience in similar occupations. The Department also will administer payment of training allowances.

The program was developed in coperation with the Colorado State Board for Vocational Education, which will supervise the related instruction.

Most of the training will be carried out on the Pueblo airport, where drainage and appearance will be improved on a 400 - acre tract. All work done there and at the Fair Grounds will follow plans furnished by the agencies managing those properties.

Of the 200 trainees, 60 each will be trained in the operation of late - model graders and will learn to operate heavy bull-mammoth road scrapers; 40 will learn to operate heavy bulldozers, and 40 will train on the newest in bucket loaders.

The U.S. Labor Department will reimburse Operating Engineers Local Union No. 9, for on - the - job training costs, $167,610, and the Colorado Department of Employment, for training allowances and subsistence of trainees, $95,750. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will reimburse Southern Colorado State College $34,614 for classroom instruction.

Socialism Faces Vote Test in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chileans elect a parliament Sunday which will decide whether the country is to introduce considerable socialism into its free enterprise economy.

Christian Democrat President Eduardo Frei, who took office last November, has called for reforms that would revolutionize Chile's social and economic life. Parliament rejected all of his major proposals. He then decided to go to the people.

Frei's reforms include nationalization or major government participation in a number of utilities and government participation in three U.S.-owned copper companies. He also proposed a 38.4 per cent wage increase for workers, land reforms, school expansion and the establishment of a state bank.

The National Archives and Records Services, created by the federal government in 1949, preserves valuable records, laws and Presidential documents.

Large Draft Call Issued by Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has announced its largest draft call in more than a year.

A quota of 15,100 men was set Friday for May. That's 1,400 more than the April quota, and the largest since the 16,100 in January 1964. The lowest quota last year was 3,300 in August.

Enlistments have decreased amid speculation the draft system may be ended.

The major agricultural produce of Thailand is rice, the national food and leading export item. An estimated 16 million acres are under paddy.

Lengthy Session Awaiting County Planning Group

A lengthly session appears in store for the El Paso County Planning Commission at 2 p.m. March 10.

Five petitions, two final and two preliminary plats, a request for location of a sewage packing plant and four vacation plats will come before the commission in the County Office Building auditorium.

One petition, previously tabled, is by John B. Jiron to change an R-2 Residential District to a C-2 Suburban Business District. It involves lot 8 of block 7 in Eklund's Addition to Oakview.

New petitions to be heard by the commission include two by Don H. Wilson and the First National Bank Trust Department. Their first petition is a request to change an A-2 Farming District to a C-2 Suburban Business District located northwest of 30th Street and containing about 10 acres.

The same zone change is requested in the second petition for about 8.14 acres located north and west of intersection of Garden of the Gods Road and 30th St.

Leo A. and Clara G. Prever have petitioned to change an A-1 Garden Home District. The R-2 Residential District. The property contains close to 21,-882.2095 square feet and is located east of and adjacent ot County Highway and west of old routes 85-87.

The fourth new petition is by R. M. McCollom to change an A-4 Agricultural District to an R Residential District located west of Pleasant View Estates, Filing No. 2 and containing about 73.93 acres.

Final plats to be heard are by Falcon Forest Subdivision Filings No. 1-2, represented by Norman B. Bodinger, agent for Henry W. and Musette E. Danley.

Filing No. 1 contains approximately 47.55 acres and is located on the north side of Shoup Road, about 1½ miles east of State Highway 83. Filing No. 2 contains about 75.928 acres and lies north of Sun Hill Subdivision No. 3 and west of Pleasant View Estates Filing No. 2.

A plat by Wildwood Ranch Estates, presented by Wildwood Land and Cattle Co., Inc. also will be considered. The land is an unzoned area located north of Swan Road and between State Highway 189 and Vollmer Rd., containing 1,280 acres.

The Sewage Package Plant, presented by Willowbrook, Inc. and Floyd L. Stanley, is requesting approval of location. It lies east of Academy Blvd. and south of Brookwood Dr.

Vacation plats that will come before the commission are:

Petition to vacate a portion of the Cul-de-Sac at the south end of Hulda Lane, presented by the Bilburn Investment Co. The area is located south of Cheyenne Road.

Petition to vacate a portion of Darmouth St., Brown St. and an alley in the Assembly Grounds of the National Chautauqua Association Re-Subdivision, presented by Melvin H. Olsen.

Petition to vacate a portion of Iliff Ave. in part, in Block 2 of the town of Brookside and the Re - Subdivision and addition to Block 1, Brookside, presented by George L. and Fay E. Doan, Harold and Thelma Kitchen, Orville and Raymond Seal, Larry L. and Rose M. Doan. The area lies between Arvada St. and Bookside and east of Tejon St.

The Bureau of Customs enforces the export control program for the government through clerical checking procedures and sometimes by actual inspections.

Help Enterprises Now Open For Business

A new concept for home-owners has become a reality for H. Lee Bale, owner of Help Enterprises, which opens for business today.

Bale, a former radio announcer for KSSS in Colorado Springs, stumbled across the idea a few months ago and since then has researched and developed it to its present state. His plans for the business are to help home-owners, or for that matter almost anyone, with work around the house.

At present, he is providing just maid service, but in the future he plans to expand the business to include yard workers, chauffeurs, butlers and almost any other type of domestic help. His aim is to provide "help" around the house.

Help Enterprises will have a staff of workers on salary, ready on about a day's notice to go to work at any home in the region. Workers may be hired by the hour, day, week, or for that matter, month.

Maid service may include general housework, babysitting and even cooking and sewing if specified. Charges for hired help are prorated on the length of time and type or types of work done.

Bale's survey, which covered a number of months before today's opening, showed there was a definite need in the area for this type of business. He now plans to expand as business volume warrants it.

Bale is married and has an 18-month-old daughter.

Udmurt, autonomous Soviet Republic in East Central Europe, has a humid continental climate. The 42,100 square mile area was known as Votyak prior to 1932.

Burlington Set To Operate Student Tours

Colorado's spectacular Rocky Mountains and scenic attractions surrounding Denver are major features of Burlington Railroad's educational tours for Chicago - area students, scheduled every day from Mar. 15 through June 15.

Tours leave Union Satation at 5:00 p.m. on the Vista - Dome Denver Zephyr. At Denver the following morning, students board chartered buses for a tour of the city and University of Denver campus.

Next stop is Colorado Springs, locale of Colorado College, Pikes Peak, U.S. Air Force Academy and world - renowned Broadmoor Hotel. A visit to a restored western ghost town is included.

South Cheyenne Canyon, Garden of the Gods, Seven Falls, Manitou Springs and Cheyenne Mountain Zoo will be seen by students before returning to Denver, where accommodations are reserved at the new Hilton, in the heart of the Mile High city.

After Sunday breakfast there are visits to Red Rocks Amphitheatre and the one - time gold rush town of Central City, home of the "Face on the Bar Room Floor." Teller House and festival Opera House. Mt. Vernon Canyon, Squaw Pass, Echo Lake Chicago Creek and Clear Creek Canyon are included on the return route to Denver Union Station.

The waiting Denver Zephyr will deposit the young midwesterners in Chicago at 9:15 a.m. next morning (Monday).

For groups of 25 or more, cost is $60.90 for adults; $45.-15 for students under 12. Special rates also are available for smaller groups. Tour cost includes round - trip rail fare, meals, sightseeing, escort service, hotel accommodations, lecturers and guides.

Tickets and further information are available at Burlington Travel Headquarters, Adams & Clark Sts. Telephone: WA 2-2345.

Billie Sol Estes Goes Back to Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — The barred doors of the federal penitentiary shut behind Billie Sol Estes Friday and he became just another number among the 2,250 inmates there.

Estes spent two years fighting his conviction for mail fraud and conspiracy in a deal that involved about $24 million worth of mortgages on fertilizer tanks that did not exist. He was sentenced to 15 years.

The United States Supreme Court in January refused to hear his appeal from the conviction that was handed down by a federal jury in El Paso, Tex., March 23, 1963.

Estes also was convicted in a Tyler, Tex., court on state charges of swindling. His eight-year sentence on that conviction is being appealed.

On Wednesday, a jury in Dallas acquitted him in a third trial of lying in his financial statements to procure government grain storage contracts.

Retraining Program Okayed by Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee has approved a five-year extension of the manpower retraining program, despite administration pleas that it be made permanent.

The committee, in its action Friday, also authorized $465 million for fiscal 1966 for the program with future amounts to be set as the need arises.

The House Labor Committee already has acted on the bill, but its version covered only two years.

The program is designed to train unemployed workers. Sponsors say the three-year program already has affected 360,-000 persons.

TOO MANY ELEPHANTS

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Uganda is suffering a glut of elephants and hippos. At least 2,000 elephants are to be shot in the Murchinson Falls National Park to prevent them destroying their own habitat.

The Scientific and Technical Committee of the East African Wildlife Society, after a meeting in the park, has confirmed the necessity of the slaughter.

The 10,400 hippos living along a 50-mile stretch of the Nile which runs through the park are also overgrazing their habitat. They are to be reduced by about one-third.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HEDDA GOES OVERBOARD ABOUT 'SOUND OF MUSIC'

HOLLYWOOD — For years I've yapped about our pictures being made abroad, but I'll go on record as saying "Sound of Music" could never have been done here. It's laid against the Austrian Alps, and the camera pans down to the beautiful town of Salzburg into part of Max Reinhardt's estate. The picture is superb — dramatically, musically, cinematically. Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer were born for their roles. They do one of the most beautiful love scenes since Gabo and John Barrymore in "Grand Hotel." The seven children, you could die over. All children — from 7 to 90 — will love it. Bob Wise did a magnificent job, and Twentieth Century-Fox will hear nothing but the sound of money for years to come.

My San Francisco pals, Phyllis Tucker, Nini and Fran Martin and I took in the big race at Santa Anita. Everybody was present — even Bob Hope, who hadn't been to the track in 15 years, with wife Dolores and Anita Colby. Also Bing and Kathy Crosby. Elizabeth Arden hoped her Gun Bow would win, but they loaded him down with 131 pounds and he couldn't make it. When Santa Anita was built, I was working for Elizabeth in New York. I had a note saying they had one share for $5,000 put aside for me, but I didn't have that kind of money. I could live off that share today. My tablemates were Evelyn Sharp and Mrs. George Langley, whose English husband used to breed horses.

My pals went on to the Hunt ball; I went to Aggie Moorehead's party for newlyweds, Janet Gaynor and Paul Gregory. Her home, decorated by Tony Duquette, is beautiful. Jimmy Stewart made a bee line for me to say thanks for the General Curtis Lemay story. I asked Roger Edens how Ethel Merman fared in Australia. "A thousand were at the airport to greet her. She was a sensation, as she was in London. Those people knew her only from records and magazines." Roger says he's begging Ethel to do "Gypsy" in London.

Janet Gaynor's son Robin and lovely wife were present. I asked what happened to his nurse, the Great Dane dog that wouldn't let any of us go near the cradle when he was a baby. His wife looked at him and said, "You never told me you had a dog for a nurse."

Next day had a luncheon wtih Bill Frye at his hilltop home for many friends from San Francisco. Had a nice huddle with Bob Miller, president of the San Francisco Opera. He and Betty will be in New York on March 19 when Maria Callas sings at the Met.

Jennifer Jones has two weeks of rehearsals in "The Man with the Perfect Wife" in New York before her one week engagement in Palm Beach, and two weeks in Miami. Barry Morse co-stars as her husband. Jennifer and Rita Hayworth have become chums, which I think is lucky for them both. Rita's in New York with daughter Princess Yasmin; has two offers awaiting her return.

A Hollywood tipster writes: "Remember last year when Academy Nominee Leslie Caron tried to hide her coming divorce? History seems to be repeating this year. I learn one Oscar nominee and husband have already signed the paper."

"Ordeal and Triumph," new book about Gen. George S. Patton Jr., bought by an English newspaper. Patton's feud with Marshal Montgomery put a big price tag on the British rights.

Morton DaCosta was here working with Sidney Carroll for their musical, "Song of Love," when he had a call from Peter Cookson in London asking him to come over for three days to see the play, "Right Honorable Gentleman." DaCosta may restate and re-cast it for Broadway. CBS wants him to develop a half-hour series called "Daphne." He stopped by my house and had me in hysterics with stories about Tallulah Bankhead, who helped him when he first started. Taloo liked entertaining people and once literally held him prisoner in her home: "When Tallulah tells you to stay put, you stay." He recalled the day when a delivery man, in the process of unloading an antique, wandered by the spot where Taloo was sunning herself in the nude. He was stunned and dropped the treasure smack beside her.

Steve McQueen and John Sturges have merged by marrying their companies for "The Cruel Sport," which Robert Daley wrote about the great automobile races. I asked Sturges why men courted death in racing cars. Said he, "I read a line once that said most men wrestle with their demons on the edge of infinity."

Dean Chance of the Los Angeles Angels expects to reach a pitching milestone this season — 1.000 innings. He needs 249 innings to reach that mark. Last year he worked 278 frames.

Free China Official Dies

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Vice President Chen Cheng, 67, who became the No. 2 man in Nationalist China after a long military career, died of cancer Friday night, leaving Chiang Kai-shek's son the obvious heir apparent.

Chen, who resigned as premier in December 1963 because of failing health, had cancer of the liver. He had been confined to his home since October.

Chen's death was not expected to cause a political crisis, although Nationalist China's constitution makes no provision for succession to the vice presidency. His post is expected to remain vacant until elections in February 1966.

Chiang elevated Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, his 54-year-old son, from deputy defense minister to defense minister last January in a move apparently intended to prepare him for eventual leadership of this island nation.

It is still unknown whether Chiang will step aside when his third six-year presidential term expires next year. He is 77.

Chen, a devoted follower of Chiang for more than 40 years, also was the deputy leader of Chiang's ruling party, the Kuomintang. As one of the key architects of a land reform program, he was a popular and highly regarded figure.

Chen stood only 5 feet 4 and weighed 124 pounds. He was a quiet but ambitious man who rose to fame swiftly as a soldier. During World War II, Chen led the expeditionary forces assigned to link up Burma with Allied forces in India. He became minister of war in 1944 and chief of the general staff two years later.

In 1948, Chiang sent Chen to Manchuria in the hope of preventing a Communist takeover there, but the situation was beyond saving. Chen resigned as chief of staff the same year because of stomach ulcers. But Chiang called upon him to take over the governorship of Formosa just before the island was to become the new home of the Nationalist government.

Chen won popularity among native Formosans when he replaced a warlord and began his program of agrarian reform.

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources said today there has been no indication that Indonesia plans to take over the operation of U.S. oil companies.

The three American companies with substantial oil investments in Indonesia — Standard Vacuum, Caltex and Pan-American Indonesia — have a profit-sharing arrangement with the government. It is this built-in safeguard that may be protecting them against seizure.

Authorities at the Commerce and State Departments said it is difficult to estimate the U.S. investment in the stormy South east Asian country because of fluctuations in Indonesian currency and the nature of the oil enterprises.

For instance, a State Department official said, total U.S. investment may be as much as $500 million, with petroleum enterprises accounting for $375 million or more. On the other hand, the Commerce Department listed U.S. investment at $167 million in "book value" at the end of 1963.

The "book value" is the amount the company lists for its properties and in many cases is far below the market value.

The Commerce Department listed only $19 million worth of investment in manufacturing industries.

The Indonesian government said last week that U.S.- operated rubber plantations valued at $80 million to $110 million would have to be operated by Indonesians, although it denied government confiscation.

The government moved in similar fashion some years ago when it took over British rubber operations. The estates were never returned.

The U.S. rubber operations in Indonesia have been declining, while oil enterprises have been expanding.

Goodyear Rubber Co. said rubber it produced in Indonesia was sold to other countries and that none of it was consumed by its U.S. plants. Synthetic rubber rapidly has been replacing natural rubber in the United States since World War II.

The U.S. Rubber Co., the other major rubber firm operating in Indonesia, said there has been no profit from its operations in the country for several years.

Standard Vacuum (Esso Standard Eastern Inc.) and Caltex, which is a subsidiary of California Texas Oil Corp., own most of the American-operated oil enterprises in Indonesia. The operations of Pan-American, a subsidiary of American International Oil Co., are primarily exploratory.

The Shell Oil Co. also is believed to have extensive holdings in Indonesia. It is primarily a Dutch and British company, although its operations extend over the world and it has many U.S. investors.

First deed of Indian land to English colonists was by Samoset, who transferred 12,000 acres of his tribe's land to John Brown, a settler.

PRACTICALITY PAYS — S. Sgt. Edmond J. Arceneaux (right) accepts a check for $100 for an idea which will save the Air Force $122,122.10 annually. Col. Howard H. Cloud Jr., Ent Air Force Base commander presents the money and congratulations to the Non-commissioned Officer in Charge of Airman Classification, Consolidated Base Personnel Office. By thoughful questioning of existing regulations, Sergeant Arceneaux found that two unrequired pages of AF Form 7 were being reproduced on the records of individuals slated for change of station. Through submission of his management suggestion, savings to the Air Force were realized. Sergeant Arceneaux, his wife Kathleen, and three children live at 1548 Glacier Dr. (USAF Photo)

Shutting Down VA Hospitals Is Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A union representing government employes contends the proposed shutdown of 31 Veterans Administration hospitals, homes and regional offices throughout the nation would be "unwarranted and unwise."

The opposition was voiced by the National Executive Council of the American Federation of Government Employes, which has been meeting here this week.

The planned closings involve 11 veterans' hospitals, four soldiers' homes and 16 regional offices which the VA is consolidating with other offices.

Carrying out of the proposed closings would be "bad for the nation's veterans and bad for the career federal employes who staff those installations," the council said.

The group claims more than 150,000 members and says it is the largest federal employe union outside the Post Office Department.

Despite its criticism of the proposed VA cutback, the council made Veterans Administrator William J. Driver Jr. an honorary member.

A spokesman explained that this was done in recognition of Driver's ability as a career government employe who has earned advancement to the top in his agency. The spokesman also pointed out that Driver took office early this year and that the closure decision had been reached prior to that time.

NO MORE UNITED STATE

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP) — P.M. America sued his wife, Mrs. D.J. America, for divorce in the Cape Town Supreme Court.

Judge Hall was told that before her marriage Mrs. Ameirca's name was Miss Africa.

"This is the first time I have heard that America has lost interest in Africa," said the judge.

Mr. America was granted the divorce.

Robbers Hunted On Beaches

By KEN DAVIS

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina (AP) — Four fugitives from Britain's great train robbery are being hunted by international detectives among the plush beaches and gambling casinos of Argentina and Uruguay.

Tipped Friday by Britain's Scotland Yard that the men might be at Mar del Plata or Punta del Este, Uruguay, Interpol — the International Police — and local police searched both cities for:

Charles Frederick Wilson, 32, an ex-bookmaker and the reputed brains in the $7-million robbery who was sent to prison for 30 years among the 12 convicted in the great train robbery of 1963. Last Aug. 16 he slipped out of prison.

ruce Reynolds, 32, son of a labor union official, who dealt in cars and antiques as a cover for underworld dealings. He slipped through Scotland Yard's fingers with his pretty Irish wife a week after the robbery.

Ronald Buster Edwards, 32, a florist and club owner, an ex-boxer with a scar on the left side of his nose. He was believed to have a special knowledge of railway techniques, a vital factor in the gang's elaborate planning.

James White, 34, an ex-paratrooper and a skilled locksmith. He and his wife were living on a trailer site south of London. Soon after the robbery, police raided the trailer and found some cash, but not the couple.

The latter three, unlike Wilson, have never been brought to trial. They vanished, as did more than $5½ million still missing from the loot.

A source close to Interpol said Scotland Yard cabled the alert but, "There's no sign of them yet. If they're here, they surely entered the country under assumed names."

34 at Ent Get Promotions to 'Supergrades'

"Off with the old and on with the new," becomes the favorite expression April 1 when 34 non-commissioned officers at Ent Air Force Base will replace old stripes with new.

Thirty - four supergrade stripes have been awarded to 26 new senior master sergeant. Air Defense Command promoted 113 to chief and 226 to senior master sergeant. ADC also selected 31 seniors and 47 masters who will compete at Air Force Headquarters for promotion to the next high geants.

Those who receive a pay raise, locally, to the E-8 plateau are Odis C. Cunningham, Mel Shreckengost, James G. Losinger, Norman W. Heyl, Donald M. Billingly, James R. Corey, Julian G. Wood, and Clyde Lamp. These men have jobs at Hq., ADC.

The 4608th Support Squadron will find these seven new seniors on the roster next month: Hunter W. Crowder, Lawrence Kusmierczyk, Charles E. Newton, Louis A. Steffens, Solly Tobin, John F. Vose, and Gaston M. Williams.

Three NCOs, Lawrence Cone, William T. Joy Jr., and Glen A. Olston, of the 4600th Civil Engineering Sq., join the supergrade club in April.

George R. Thompson, 4600th CAM Sq.; Barlow M. Westcott, 4600th CAM Sq.; and Preston B. Brewer, 4600th Transportation Sq. make the transition to E-8 also.

Four 47th Communications Sq. master sergeants become seniors next month. They are: Euclid Blanchard, Roderick G. Davis, Arthur Gilbreath Jr., and Billy R. Veteto.

Top rung in the enlisted men's promotion ladder has been reached by new chief master sergeants: Robert N. McCabe, William L. Whitacre, Marvin H. Flinn, Harold Sandler, (all of Hq., ADC), Charles W. Amos, Bernard A. Femia, Curtis E. Goodwin, (all of 4608th SUPPORT Sq.), and Alvie E. Myers, (47th Communications Sq.).

Wells Named To Head Institute

The United States Office of Education has appointed William P. Wells, School District 11 director of Audio - Visual Services, as the director of its summer institute in educational media.

The institute will be held on the campus of Oregon State University in Corvallis, June 21 - August 13. About 50 teachers and librarians from the northwestern states, Hawaii, and Alaska will attend.

The instructional program with work in computer technology, language laboratories, instructional radio and television, and programmed instruction is to train specialists in the uses of educational media.

Wells joined the staff of School District 11 in September, 1964. Previously he was director of audio - visual education at Eastern Oregon State College at La Grande and assistant director of the Audio - Visual Department at Washington State University in Pullman, Washington.

Engine Falls Off From Airlines Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — The right outboard engine of an Eastern Airlines DC8 jet fell off Friday night after the airliner landed on a runway at Kennedy Airport.

There were no injuries to the 75 passengers or 6 crew members on the plane, flight 808 from San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Lack of Driver Courtesy Biggest Cause of Accidents, Officer Says

And he should know because he has been in the department's traffic bureau for the past 10 years and investigated many accidents.

"If you insist on taking the right-of-way, whether its yours or not, you may wind up being dead right-away, too," he said.

Because of his knowledge in these matters, Coster was selected to give some of the lectures at the driver training course now in progress for city employes.

"You may have the right-of-way, but why argue about it," he said in pointing up the lack of courtesy and consideration on the part of some drivers.

Coster said most drivers know the rules and regulations, but often good driving habits are carelessly forgotten or a driver is aggravated into doing something he knows he shouldn't.

One example of this lack of courtesy is the scramble which often occurs for a parking space.

Another contributor to the "hit parade" is tailgating, or following too closely. Such action causes about one third of all city accidents.

Coster said there is no set rule on how many feet one vehicle should be behind another, but one car length for every 10 miles per hour is a good rule of thumb. Many other factors enter into the picture, too, such as condition of the street, traffic, congession or physical condition of the driver.

Coster cautioned city drivers they have to match speed with road conditions. Ability to control a vehicle is the determining factor, and this is especially vital when streets are icy or snow-covered.

Coster said drivers should keep a safe distance for road conditions.

Another good rule for passing, Coster said, is "when you see the left front headlight of the car you passed in your own rear view mirror, then it's time to move back to the right and into the proper lane."

He also reminded that drivers on the left yield to drivers on the right at uncontrolled intersections. All drivers should slow to 10 miles per hour at "Yield" intersections, then proceed as conditions permit.

All signals should start about 200 feet from the actual doing, but drivers should be especially alert at all times around schools and keeping an eye out for pedestrians.

Coster further advised city drivers that the caution light on traffic signals is to clear the intersection, and not for streaking through at the last minute or jumping the gun to cross. Another reminder was that funeral processions have the right-of-way.

"But it is the responsibility of each of you to make driving safety a personal thing at all times when you are driving," Coster told the city drivers.

Norman Vincent Peale Heads Church Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale was elected president of the 1,700-church Protestant Council of the City of New York Friday, despite some criticism that he has been silent on civil rights issues.

The protest against Dr. Peale, author of "The Power of Positive Thinking," came from a small group of clergymen and laymen.

William Stringfellow, an attorney and Episcopal layman, charged Dr. Peale had been "consistently silent about the racial crisis while so often appeasing the complacencies of white Anglo-Saxon Protestants."

In his acceptance speech, Dr. Peale said he hopes the council will "continue to expand its effort in behalf of the stamping out of racial discrimination in New York City in every form."

Carson to Host German Cadets

Ft. Carson will host some 54 German Air Force cadets Wednesday, it was announced by Col. A. H. Smith Jr., chief of staff, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Ft. Carson.

The cadets from the Offizerschule der Luftwaffe, Neubiberg, Germany will observe a parade at noon Wednesday at Post Headquarters and will be served lunch at the officer's club.

In the afternoon the cadets will observe numerous types of weapons firing on ranges 11 and 13, a mountaineering display at the Leadership school and after a coffee hour, will proceed to the Air Force Academy.

Col. Smith said a similar program is planned for 177 United Kingdom Air Force Cadets from Cranwell and Henlow Royal Air Force Colleges near London when they visit Ft. Carson on Mar. 30.

PINK STAMPS INTO PEDAL BINS

LONDON (AP) — British housewives redeemed approximately four billion pink stamps during 1964 and acquired more than two million merchandise items.

One of the most favored articles was a kitchen pedal bin, better known in the U.S. as a step-on garbage can.

Other fast-moving articles were casseroles, fish fryers, mops and bathroom scales.

The Sperry and Hutchinson Company, distributers of green stamps in the United States, introduced pink stamps in the United Kingdom in October 1963. The company estimates that more than one-third of British housewives save stamps

He coaches the Rotary Club sponsored team.

Rebels Are Reported Killed in Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Five Shan rebels were killed and a large quantity of arms, ammunition and dynamite was recovered by government troops, the newspaper Guardian Daily reported today.

The paper said the clash occurred Friday 500 miles northeast of Rangoon when troops attacked a Shan rebel base.

Dissident elements among the Shans — second largest ethnic group in the country — have been up in arms against the government for the past 10 years seeking secession from the union.

Couple Asks For Sons Back

BRIGHTON (UPI) — An Adams County couple convicted of child beating has asked Brighton Distrirt Court to return their two sons to them, it was learned Friday.

Dist. Judge James Delaney said he told the couple he would consider returning the children to their custody only if it can be proven they "could be proper parents."

John P. Hansen, 26, the father is serving a 3½ to 5 year prison term in Colorado State Penitentiary for assault with a deadly weapon. The mother, Patsy, 25, served a 90 day sentence in Adams County Jail and fined $100 for endangering the life and health of children.

The two Hansen children are James, now 3, and Douglas, now 22 months old.

ONLY THE NAMES ARE CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP) — The comic strip characters are the same, but you might NOT recognize their names unless you understand Spanish.

Springs Historians Have Sketches in Anthology

Two Colorado Springs historians are authors of biographical sketches of early Rocky Mountain trappers and explorers in "Mountain Men and the Fur Trade in the Far West," a 397-page book just published by the Arthur Clark Co.

The authors are Mrs. Janet

* * *

MRS. JANET S. LECOMPTE

* * *

S. Lecompte and Prof. Harvey L. Carter of Colorado College. The book is the first in a planned six-volume set, edited by LeRoy R. Hafen, former state historian for Colorado.

Mrs. Lecompte, known for her contributions to "Colorado Magazine," is an authority on the early history of Colorado, particularly on the history of the fur trade along the Platte and Arkansas Rivers and the relations of these areas with Taos and Santa Fe.

Her contributions to "Mountain Men and the Fur Trade" are on Abel Baker, Jr. and Charles Town. Baker spent six years, from 1834 to 1840, in the Rocky Mountains. He was in charge of Ft. Hall, in the Snake River Valley, and Ft. Jackson, on the South Platte, near present Denver. He was also employed by Bent, St. Vrain &Co., before returning to the East. Charles Town, an early mountain man, was a member of John C. Fremont's second exploration, 1843-44, after which he was married and settled in Taos. When the Taos rebellion brok out in 1847, Town was the only American to escape and give warning in Santa Fe. A year later he was killed by Apache Indians in a fight in which Lucian Maxwell and others were wounded.

Professor Carter has contributed to the present volume a sketch of Jimmy Daughterty, an early trapper from whom Jimmy's Camp, ten miles east of Colorado Springs, on the Banning-Lewis Ranch, takes its name. Daugherty was murdered there, at the spring, about 1841.

His second sketch is of Mark Head, whose reckless exploits with Indians and grizzly bears attracted wide attention. Head trapped with Kit Carson and Joe Meek and was killed in 1847 by Mexicans, who had risen in support of the Taos Rebellion against American control.

Professor Carter, whose 'Far West in American History" recently went into a second edition, holds a Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin.

A member of the faculty for 20 years at Colorado College, he is Campbell Professor of American History and Curator of the Archer B. Hulbert Memorial Collection of Western Americana. A frequent reviewer of Western History books and a contributor to the Encyclopedia Britannica, he is listed in who's Who in America.

Second Oak Leaf Cluster Given To Col. Birch

Col. Thomas H. Birch, who has just been appointed staff judge advocate of the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM), has been awarded a second Oak Leaf Cluster to his Army Commendation Medal for duty in his previous assignment. The cluster represents a third award of the medal.

Colonel Birch was staff judge advocate of Ft. Leonard Wood,

Mo., for two and a half years before arriving in Colorado Springs last month.

Colonel Birch served as an infantry company commander with the 2nd Infantry Division in the European Theater of Operations during World War II, and during the Korean War he was assistant staff judge advocate of the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea.

Among other assignments, he has been chief of the Military Justice Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General, Department of the Army, Washington, D. C.; and assistant staff judge advocate of Southern European Task Force, Verona, Italy.

He received his Juris Doctor (law) degree from State University of Iowa in 1940, and is a member of the Iowa and Montana state bars. He belongs to Gamma Eta Gamma, professional law fraternity.

Colonel Birch's wife and three younger children are at Ft. Leonard Wood and will join him here later. Two older children are attending college.

New Crayon Line Introduced by Whitman Co.

An all-new line of crayons has been introduced by Whitman Publishing Company, Racine, Wis., world's largest publisher of children's coloring and activity books.

Announcement of the new product was made by James B. Lyle, president of Whitman. He said:

"Whitman crayons will be available in a wide variety of colors and assortments, and are designed for both home and schoolroom use. They are nontoxic and non-flaking, and feature maximum resistance to breaking or bending. They will be sold through retail drug, variety and department store outlets across the nation."

The product introduces a new concept in learning for children by means of color coding on each containers. Numbered color guides to help improve a child's use of crayons are printed on the back of the package, corresponding to crayon colors.

Ten assortments are offered in quantities of six to 64 crayons, regular or giant sized, with a price range of 10 cents to $1.

Six of the assortments are encased in colorful cardboard tuck boxes, and the remaining four in see-at-a-glance plastic crayon keeper boxes. The durable plastic containers are reusable.

The crayons will be marketed in conjunction with Whitman coloring books. Recommendations as to which crayon assortment should be used will be printed on the backs of the Company's new coloring books. Stores will feature the two products in side-by-side juvenile art center displays.

The crayons will be available at leading retail outlets after March 1.

Palmer High Commencement Activities Set

The schedule of commencement activities at Palmer High is now definite, but at Wasson High the size of the graduating class and the uncertainty of Colorado weather make a definite schedule impossible until a few hours before the ceremony.

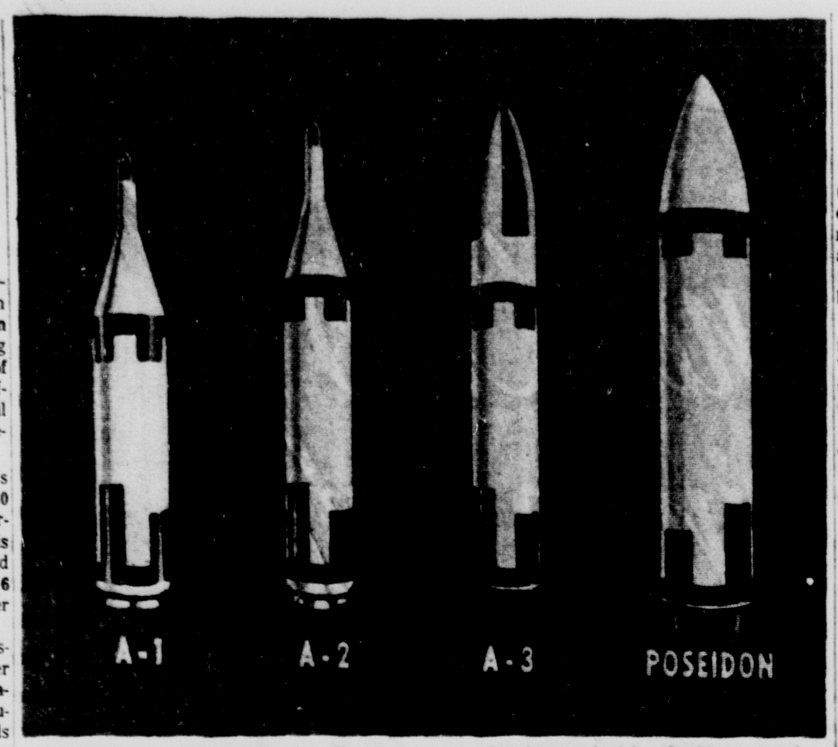
Commencement for Palmer's Class of '65 will be June 10 at 8 p.m. in the City Auditorium The senior sonvocation is set for June 4 at 2 p.m. and the vesper service for June 6 at 4 p.m., both in the Palmer High auditorium.

The graduating class at Wasson is expected to number over 800, and the only facilty capable of handling the graduates, their relative and friends is Wasson Stadium. This means that weather becomes a consideration.

With that in mind, Principal W. H. Preston has set up a tentative schedule with provision for postponements. The commencement is originally scheduled for June 8 at 7 p.m.; or, if the weather is bad, it will be June 9 at 9 a.m. or 7 p.m. There is also a possibility for postponement to June 10.

Preston, however, is taking no chances on the weather. He has also arranged for the City Auditorium on a standby basis but holding the ceremony there will sharply limit the attendance.

Earlier this year Preston sent a questionnaire to seniors and their parents. By a large majority they favored the outdoor ceremony with provision for postponements.



PROFILE OF POSEIDON — The Department of Defense Friday released this artist's conception of what the new, powerful follow-on to Polaris, the Poseidon 03, will look like. Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., prime contractor for the Polaris missile system, has been asked by the Navy to submit a proposal for development and production of Poseidon. The Poseidon would be launched from present fleet ballistic missile submarines with minor modification of launch tubes used for Polaris missiles, it was reported.

Sam Cooke's Widow Marries Guitarist

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The widow of singer Sam Cooke was married Friday to guitarist Bobby Womack.

Barbara C. Cooke, 29, mother of two daughters, Linda, 11, and Tracey, 4, had to wait until Womack reached 21 Thursday before obtaining a marriage license.

Cooke, 32, was killed three months ago by a motel manager, who later was cleared of any blame.

Rangers Join Battle Against Cong Forces

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Fresh units of Vietnamese rangers reinforced government fighters Friday in a battle against the Viet Cong 40 miles southwest of the big costal air base at Da Nang.

On the diplomatic front, Red China made a new attack against the United States, in effect calling U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk a liar who uses "gangsters' logic."

Rusk said in a New York speech Thursday night that U.S. forces are in Southeast Asia "to help independent people resist aggressions. Our troops could come home tomorrow if the aggressors would go back North and stay at home," Rusk added.

Rusk also said that the Communist relied on infiltration of trained men across national frontiers because they fear the "suicidal risks" of open atack.

In a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, NCNA said that, "Rusk spread the lie that 'Hanoi, with the backing of Peking,' had launched its increased guerrilla aggression and Thailand has already been proclaimed as the next target of Peking."

Treasury Tells Gold Purchases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States sold $405 million worth of gold to France last year while purchasing $617.7 million from Great Britain and $200 million from Italy.

Authorities previously had announced that the U.S. gold stock declined by $125 million last year.

An additional $600 million is believed to have been sold this year, although figures are not available. The United States now has $14.8 billion in monetary gold plus an unspecified amount in a fund used for trading.

France converted some $180 million worth of its dollars to gold in January and reportedly plans to convert a similar amount soon.

Former Commandant To Visit Academy

Maj. Gen. H. R. Sullivan served as Commandant of Cadets from 1959 to 1961. He is presently senior representative for Strategic Air Command in Europe to the Joint Strategic Target Planning Staff.

With Gen. Sullivan will be four foreign officers: Col. H. W. Schumacher, Germany; Col. Enrico Bassi, Italy; Wing Commander Ulf L. Burberry, Britain; and Lt. Col. Jacques G. Hourbier, France.

Also visitors include the U.S. Canada Joint Region Continuing Committee, a cross - border emergency planning group, Mar. 18; and Brig. Gen. Aquiles Savagna Sanchez (Ret.), sub-secretary for Aviation, Chile, Mar. 21 and 22.

AFA Falfins Are Tops In Competition

Looking for the Air Force Academy dependent's swimming team, the Falfins? You'll find them in first place (most of the time).

The Falfins recorded a decisive 290-165 victory in their latest outing against the Pueblo City Park Dolphins.

In a Denver relay meet with 15 other teams, the Falfins earned the fourth place trophy.

During the past 18 months the Falfins have earned a rating as one of the strongest units in the Rocky Mountain AAU conference competing against over 100 other teams.

The next meet is scheduled for 9 a.m. Mar. 13 at Palmer High.

Martinez Gets Engineering Scholarship

Jesse M. Martinez has been awarded a $100 scholarship by the Pikes Peak Chapter of Professional Engineers.

The Palmer High School senior, who hopes to become a civil engineer, was selected as the best applicant based on scholarship, extra - curricular activities and financial need.

At Palmer, Jesse participated in football and track and is a member of the National Honor Society and Letterman's Club.

Active in the Boy's Club, Jesse has also held several class offices.

He has received special recognition awards from the Kiwanis Club, and the Daughters of the American Revolution. He hopes to enroll in a Colorado college next fall.

Date-Line

By Ele and Walt Dulaney

Know what's guaranteed to panic the Dulaneys? Folks who come up and smilingly ansmilingly announce, I always read 'Date-Line,' and I want you to know that I agree with everything you say!"

Such uncritical acceptance makes us want to turn in our typewriters and head for the hills. It indicates that we're not doing the job we set out to accomplish. Our purpose in writing this column is to stimulate readers to think for themselves: not to do their thinking for them!

We want Dale-Line to be the nudge that starts you meditating, not the "last word" that gives you a ready formed opinion to adopt and clutch to your bosom.

Instead of just accepting what we say is good, we want you to examine our thoughts critically. Check our thinking in the light of your own learnings, observations and feelings. If we make sense, fine. If not, squawk loudly!

Propaganda, press agent exaggerations and outright lies nestle side by side with the gospel, shining truth. It's up to you to weigh them, and decide which to believe and which to reject.

If you're to discern fact from fable, you must read questioningly. If a statistic is given to swing an argument, ask where the figure came from and what proof there is that it's a valid count. And even if the statistics check out, remember that numbers don't outweight individual conscience. There will be times when the rest of the population may be out of step with what you know to be right.

Watch out for unsupported assumptions. If we say "everyone knows that. . ."and you don't agree, question our right to say, "everyone." The same goes for phrases like: "It's a proven fact," "the experts say," and "sociologists say" and similar all-encompassing statements.

There are very few subjects that present just one profile. If occasionally we offer only one side of a question, in this space, let it stimulate you to do some independent research to uncover the missing pros or cons.

Now and then we can only suggest our views and leave it to you to gather facts on the opposition viewpoint. Don't shirk this responsibility, for only when you've viewed both sides can you possibly form a meaningful opinion.

As far as we can evaluate ourselves, we've never tried to con you. Granted that we've been wrong several times, but never purposely phony.

Ideas can be changed by new experiences, new information and new insights; they are not rigidly fixed. We say what we think now, but are willing to reverse ourselves if later learnings require it. If you find yourself in disagreement, write in and document your reasons. We'll be happy to offer other readers a wider choice of ideas to stimulate their thinking.

We have great respect for folks who read us critically. Their probings keep us on our toes, and forge a better column. As we indicated at the start, the people who panic us are the "completely accepting readers."

Even if we were certain that we'd never columned a mistake, we still wouldn't want you to swallow our words whole. Such unquestioning action is nothing more than stooging! You can't carbon another person and still remain an individual in your own right.

So lend a questioning eye whenever you scan our column and we'll be pleased. Remember we're writing to stimulate you to think things out for yourself, not to do your thinking for you. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

CO Says Killing Filipino Justified

MANILA (AP) — The commanding officer of two U.S. Marine sentries charged with negligent homicide in the death of a Filipino testified today that he thought the sentries had acted properly.

Col. Donald Hubbard, commander of the Marine barracks at Subic Bay Naval Base, told a general court martial that the two would have acted improperly had they done otherwise. He praised their behavior.

The defendants are Lance Cpl. James B. Thomas of Martins Ferry, Ohio, and Cpl. Jesse A. Edwards of Sebastopol, Calif. They are charged in the death of Gonzalo Villedo at the naval base magazine Dec. 13.

A Marine Corps major who helped write the sentries' orders also testified for the defense that he considered the defendants' actions proper.

Both Edwards and Thomas said they had been informed that four intruders were caught inside the magazine the morning of the killing and more intruders were erpected that night.

The sentries testified they fired warning shots at a small boat approaching the shore, never aiming closer than eight to ten feet from the boat. A ballistics expert testified earlier that he believed the fatal wound came from a fragment of a bullet that had ricocheted.

Raspberries were mentioned in history as far back as Pliny, Roman writer of A.D. 61, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannnica.

CHANGE NEEDED — Carroll L. Olson of Independence, Mo., found the weather was colder than he had first thought when he went into Kansas City Friday. Having just returned from a business trip to Minnesota he had a winter cap with him, so stopped on a street and changed. (AP Wirephoto)

City Council Faces Adoption Of Controversial Building Code

Adoption of the 1964 Uniform Building Code is on the agenda for Tuesday's Colorado Springs City Council meeting.

The council was going to consider adoption of the code several months ago, but complaints were voiced to a provision requiring enclosure of open stairwells.

Three dozen items will be considered when the council meets in regular session at 9:30 a.m. in city hall. New business will include:

Appeal of former County Judge Simon's decision of Nov. 27 that sections of the city code regulating delivery of flammable liquids were unconstitutional.

Report of Colorado Springs Coach Co. for last year.

Resolution to keep city clerk's office open 8 a.m. - 8 p.m. Mar. 26 for registration for the city election.

Changes in the city code regarding left turns by vehicles.

Authorization for city manager to request the Federal Aviation Agency to ask the U.S. Air Force for release of government at Peterson Field to facilitate a proposed revenue bond issue at the city airport.

Liquor license change of Frank and Jacks Liquors from 511 N. 20th St. to 525 N. 30th St., by Harold W. Wagner.

Three water requests, petition for public improvements, second hand store licenses and reports and notice of injury.

Unfinished business will include:

Public hearing to consider the request of Marion W. Neece to change the northeast corner of Uintah Street and North Circle Drive from the R-5 to the C-4 zone.

Request by F. N. Dwyer to change 1523 - 1611 N. Union Blvd. from the R-2 to PBC-1 zone (third reading).

Request by Heating and Plumbing Engineers to vacate portions of Tremont and Fillmore Streets (second reading).

Request by Robert S. Erickson to change rear of 1418-1450 E. Fountain St. from the R-4 to the R-5 zone (second reading).

Request by Real Estate Management Corp. to change 4.8 acres southwest of Sawyer Way and Murray Boulevard from the R-2 to the R-5 zone (second reading).

Request by Real Estate Management Corp. to change 6.5 acres southeast of Sawyer Way and Murray Boulevard from the R-2 to the R-5 zone (second reading).

Request by Real Estate Management Corp. to change 1 acre southeast of Murray Boulevard and Rock Island Railroad from the R-2 to the R-5 zone, with a conditional use to allow construction of a medical-dental building (second reading).

Request by Real Estate Management Corp. to vacate a portion of a 17 acres southwest of Murray Boulevard and Sawyer Way (second reading).

Petition by Robert E. Carlton and George M. Sery to annex an unplatted tract northeast of Chelton Drive and Chelton Road (second reading).

Request by Westmoor Land Co. to vacate a portion of 66 acres northwest of Dent Ave. and 30th St. (second reading).

Request by Pikes Peak Lodge No. 38, IOOF, to change 1.56 acres west of Eastlake Boulevard and Airport Road from the C-4A to the R-5H zone.

Request by Beryl Ritchey to change 30 acres northwest of Academy Boulevard and Airport Rd. from R-2 to the C-5 zone.

Request by Valley Land Sales Co. to change 15 lots located about 600 feet south of Airport Road and about 600 feet west of Academy Boulevard from R-2 to the R-5H zone.

Request by Albert M. Knight requesting annexation of four small building sites in the 2100 block of East St. Vrain and East Boulder Streets.

Final plat of Crestmoor Park Subdivision, first filing, by Faith Realty Development Co. 30.3 acres bounded by Mount View Lane on the north and Alabama St. extended east.

Appointment to fill vacancy on Drainage Board.

Salvation Army Donations Are Deductible From Taxes

Sizeable tax deductions can be taken by many people for contributions of old household articles given to the Salvation Army, according to Salvation Army Brigadier Carl Andreasen, manager of the Men's Social Service Center here.

"This tax deduction is sometimes overlooked because people do not think of donations consisting of old clothing or furniture in the same was as monetary donations when they figure taxes," Andreasen said.

The allowance for contributions to the Salvation Army benefits both business men and individual taxpayers. Any person may deduct the full amount of the true current value of articles contributed. Businesses can also deduct the full current cost of any merchandise that is outdated or unsalable when it is donated to the Salvation Army.

"Acutally people can help themselves by giving to the Salvation Army. Most articles they give have little worth to them and usually just take up needed space. Being able to deduct their value from taxes makes contributing very worth while," he said.

Articles needed most at the present time are items of furniture such as chests of drawers, beds, tables, chairs, or upholstered furniture. However, Andreasen said almost anything imaginable can be used. Clothing, toys, dishes, appliances and bedding, for example, are always in demand.

The rehabilitation work of the Men's Social Service Center for Southern Colorado is made possible by these discards. The only way of raising funds for the center, located here is through the sale of the articles in Salvation Army Thrift Stores such as the one at 17 W. Colorado Ave. They also furnish work therapy material which is vital in the rehabilitation program.

At the Center, homeless men, of whom 90 per cent have serious drinking problems, receive help. They are provided housing and food plus spiritual and psychological counseling, along with work therapy. According to directors, work therapy is a most important part of rehabilitation. Useful work in repairing the discards and making them ready for sale helps the men gain confidence and return to normal lives.

Contributiions of household items for use in the program can be made by calling for at the door pickup. The number to call is 633-4697 in Colorado Springs.

Arnold Society Searching for Former Members

All former and present members of the Arnold Society and Angel Flight are being sought by the newly - elected officers of the Arnold Air Society Alumni Division, Air Force Association to bolster the ranks of the relatively new organization.

Recently sworn in to lead the AASAD in 1965 - 66 are 2d Lt. Terry D. Miller, president; Capt. Paul A. Pepe, vice president; Capt. Lawrence R. Cotter, treasurer; Capt. William L. Sparks, secretary; and Maj. Elvin I. Doane, information officer. All are stationed at Ent Air Force Base.

Formally organized in 1959 at the University of Pittsburgh, the alumni association became officially chartered by the Air Force Association in 1961. Those who join the alums automatically become AFA members.

The division endeavors to help carry out specific objectives of assistance for the college Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight programs and to promote aerospace education.

Lieutenant Miller was graduated from the University of Nebraska. Captain Pepe holds a degree from the University of Buffalo. Captain Cotter attended the University of California at Berkeley. Captain Sparks claims the University of Denver as his alma mater. Major Doane is a graduate of the University of Wichita.

Those persons wanting information about the alumni division should write a postcard or letter to: Arnold Air Society, Alumni Division, Air Force Association, Box 4023, Colorado Springs, Colorado 80909.

Oldest male getting a hole-in-one during 1964 was Fred Leidig, 84, of Carmel, Calif., reports Golf Digest. He made it on the 110-yard first hole at Pacific Grove Golf Club.

Peak Council Of Churches Opposes Lottery

The Social Action and Education Committee of the Pikes Peak Council of Churches went on record against the proposed legislation for a state lottery.

The committee, made up of lay and clergy representatives of several denominations, expressed the fear that not only would a state lottery not pay for itself because of the social ills caused by legalized gambling and that the records from other states such as Nevada show that legalized gambling is often still controlled by the underworld, the committee also felt that a state lottery encourages a poor stewardship of money from a Christian point of view, a spokesman said. It encourages a poor principle of life, that of getting something for almost no effort, and it is a form of taxing the poor who are the ones most likely to attempt to win or get ahead by gambling, he said.

The committee made up of twelve representatives plus the chairman Rev. Richard Peterson of the Stratmoor Hills Methodist Church voted unanimously to oppose the State Senate Bills 204 and 227 to make legal a state lottery.

New York City Tries to Oust School Chief

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Board of Education has placed Dr. Calvin E. Gross on a three-month leave of absence with pay as the first move in a drive to force him out of his $45,000-a-year job as superintendent of city schools.

Gross has rejected a request for his resignation, made nine days ago. He called the request "shocking and unexpected" and said it was made "peremptorily."

The board Thursday stripped Gross of his authority and appointed Dr. Bernard E. Donovan, executive deputy superintendent, as acting superintendent.

Gross told the board in a letter delivered before its meeeting Thursday that he had retained Herbert Brownell, former U.S. attorney general and Republican national chairman, as his counsel to represent him "in all further steps relating to this very unique situation."

A total of $180,000 salary for the remaining four years of Gross' six-year contract with the board is at stake.

In a statement on his educational credo attached to the letter — released to newsmen by Gross while the board was still meeting — Gross said in part:

"I cannot — and I will not — yield to nonprofessional pressures, any more than a doctor would agree to prescribe the wrong medicine in order to placate the nonprofessional board of a hospital."

After the board placed Gross on leave, newsmen asked him if he was denying the board. He would not go beyond the letter and statement delivered to the board.

T. James Donovan — no relations to Bernard Donovan, the acting superintendent — was asked at a news conference about Gross' letter and credo.

"So far as I know," Donovan replied, "We agree with every principle and his objectives. It is not a question of his principles or his objectives — but his performance."

Asked about the possibility that the city might have "two school superintendents," Donovan said the board had not "prohibited" Gross from going to headquarters. Donovan added: "He has a right to a hearing and a trial if we choose to suspend or dismiss him."

Donovan was the chief negotiator in the release of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners from Cuban jails. He also has negotiated prisoner swaps with the Soviet Union.

Donovan said the board does not believe the school superintendency here is Gross' "dish of tea."

For the past year, members of the Board of Education have privately expressed dissatisfaction with Gross, who came here less than two years ago. Gross, 45, had won high praise during five years as head of the Pittsburgh schools.

A statement by the board Thursday said the members were convinced that Gross lacks "administrative qualifications" for the job.

One of the board's complaints against Gross is reported to be his failure to come up with a fresh school integration program based on recommendations made 10 months ago by State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr.'s integration committee.

Judges Set Appeal Deadline

DENVER (UPI) — The Colorado Supreme Court Friday gave attorneys for both sides until about March 15 to submit arguments on whether the fourth trial of accused murderer Jackie Jones of La Junta should be moved out of the 16th Judicial District.

Jones has been twice tried and sentenced to death for the 1959 murder of hotel clerk David Powell. Both times the Supreme Court reversed the convictions and ordered the case back to district court.

A third trial ended in a mistrial last Dec. 11 in La Junta because of apparent prejudice prevented jury selection.

Another trial was to start Monday at Las Animas, but Dist. Judge William Gobin disqualified himself and asked the Supreme Court to set a time and a place for the trial.

Both La Junta and Las Animas are in the 16th District.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

It is perhaps all to seldom that we give much thought to our public protectors, our traffic officers, our policemen and our firemen. But, in our family for quite a number of years, we felt a keen interest in one of our local fireman, George May, who seemed like, almost one of our own. Following is the history of the May family.

GEORGE MAY

* * *

The James J. May family, was one of our early neighbors. Their house was dow nthe hill and across the creek from ours. It was a six room frame house which they had purchased some time in the early 80s. (I think from William P. Wilson who had decided to move back to his former home in Indiana. The place where the house formerly stood has since been washed away by some spring freshets, until only a portion of the land across from Camp Harding remains.

There were two middle aged ladies the Misses H. T. and A. A. Warren, who ran a boarding house at the corner of Nevada Ave. and Boulder St. These ladies being friends of Gen. William J. Palmer, suggested to him that he send for a Mrs. Anna Myers of New York City, to assume the management of his beautiful Antlers Hotel which had just been built. Mrs. Myers was a widow with a small son George, and she became the first matron of the hotel.

Mrs. Myers' late husband had been a fine man of German descent. And while sitting on the porch steps with his small son George in his arms collapsed and died at once from a heart attack.

Mrs. Myers was a tall, handsome Irish woman with smooth, black hair her dress always immaculate and her shrewd dark eyes, appraised the world with wisdom and frankness.

It was while she was working at the Antlers, that James May followed her here from New York City to again try and persuade her to marry him. She told my mother, that since James had come so far she thought she might just as well marry him. She soon found out that he was too fond of his bottle to be of much help to her at the hotel, so after several years she bought this place on Cheyenne road, where she kept a few summer boarders and served lunches and dinners to the elite from downtown. Among them the Kissells and Armits who drove out in their shining buggies and yellow tandems to enjoy her excellent meals, she often said that when a woman makes a mistake and marries a man who is not any help to her, the proper way to handle the situation is not to leave him, but to train him. Accordingly she took her small curly haired Irishman in hand, and put him in her kitchen. Eventually he became an excellent cook who was a big help to her and a fine sober man, whom everyone respected and liked.

I first remember seeing George May when a handsome brown-eyed boy came along a well-worth path from his house to ours and to our swing in the grove to play with us. I recall that he spoke often of his former home in town and of the New England kitchen, a kindergarten he had been attending. Many times on summer evenings after supper there would be George at our back door saying now for a game of hide and seek. I wished he would allowed us girls to play house, but he never wanted anything but a strenuous active game. His favorite game at school was baseball and his home runs were a specialty. He would bat the ball into John Wolfe's turnip patch and then head for that home base.

Those big Sunday dinners given for the northend visitors from downtown meant a big dish washing job for George. I can see him now with his sleeves rolled up above his elbows, a deep scowl on his face and a large number of black pots and pans to be washed before he could join us girls on our Sunday afternoon hikes. We never offered to help George with his work as we had already been dressed in our Sunday best, often waiting just outside of the back door to the leanto shed where George was.

Little red curly-haired Eddie May was about 2 years old when they came to their home here and a little later, on Sept. 6th (the year I have forgotten) Josie was born and how he was adored by us children. My sister Edith took Josie for a ride in his baby buggy every Sunday a.m. She considered him her very own charge, he was a sweet patient little fellow, who suffered a broken back by a fall from his baby buggy onto the bank of a small ditch that ran through their back yard. While working together over little Josie my mother and Mrs. May became like sisters. Mr. May made a couple of trips to New York to have casts placed on the childs back and it was through this task of removing and putting on new casts that Mrs. May came to depend on mother for her help. The doctors in the East had taught Mrs. May how to perform the necessary work. They would suspend Josie from a hanging lamp hook over the dining table and they did the work in that way, since a trip to the East was not to be considered every few months. On trips to New York, Mrs. May bought Edith and me pretty dresser scarfs made of linen, already stamped for embroidering and with them a lot of skeins of colored thread for doing the work. One winter she bought each of the three of us girls a pair of rubbers, the first we had ever seen. Black and shining with long flaps that kept the snow out of the eyelets in our laced shoes. Little Josie passed away when quite young.

Mrs. May had built a large square dining room at the east end of the house and in the winter after she had closed for the summer and moved into town she allowed my brother Mark to use the room for neighborhood square dances. One large stove heated the place and we were glad to have plenty of floor space for our two or three sets when we wished to have that many at one time.

Mrs. May rented two large brick houses on East Bijou where she kept roomers and boarders, a number of the town school teachers.

George not wishing to leave us and the Cheyenne School remained here and helped my brother with the dairy work, going to town only on the weekends. So he became like one of our family. One autumn afternoon after one of Mr. Mays infrequent visits to his house here, it burned to the ground, and George then gave up coming to school here.

We saw little of the May family for several years with only an occasional visit. George did not attend high school, but I know he had a girl friend a year or two older than himself. A plump blue eyed Irish maiden Nora O'Brien, who had a younger sister Mary in my class in the town high school. Eddie continued on in school and graduated from college as a chemist, a profession he followed for many years, even putting in his own laboratory in California when the rest of the family moved to live in Alhambra.

George eventually married a niece of his stepfather, Miss Louise May, who Mrs. May said was her right hand in the dining room..

Many year later Mr. and Mrs. May and Eddie returned to build a fine boarding house, now the present Mayhurst in the mesa above the flood waters of the creek and made a success of it. They sold it for $30,000.

Through the kind help of Carl Johnson of the Colorado Springs Fire Dept. we have this report of George May's connection with that department. He was appointed April 15, 1901 and was made lieutenant on June 4, 1904. He was sent to the North End Station, where he became captain Jan. 15, 1906. In May of 1905 he lived at 4363 St. Vrain St. On Jan. 16, 1906 he moved to 915 N. Corona. Ill health caused him to leave the department May 26, 1919. He was then getting $110 a month and lived at 733 North Weber. He passed away Dec. 17, 1922 in Denver.

Along with his mother and stepfather, George was laid to rest in the Evergreen Cemetery in Colorado Springs, not far from our own family plot.

COAL STAYS IN GROUND

BELGRADE (AP) — Deputy Ernest Rahten informed Parliament that Yugoslavia will have to import coal this year because of a lack of miners. Yugoslav mines are estimated to need 10,000 more miners. Two thousand quit the mines last year complaining of unsatisfactory pay.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

After my noon Bible Class on Sunday at the skyscraper Chicago Temple, Mrs. Elmes uses the same chapel to conduct a unique religious service for the deaf of Chicagoland at 3 p.m. But not a sound is heard, for she employs the sign language for prayers, responsive reading, and her inspiring sermon.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-430: Mrs. C. Elmes is a member of the Bible Class which I have taught for over 30 years in the skyscraper Chicago Temple.

This Sunday School class meets immediately after Dr. Robert B. Pierce concludes his sermon.

So we commence at 12:30 and conclude about 1:15.

Then Mrs. Elmes returns to the same chapel where my Bible Class convenes, and conducts a service for the deaf at 3 p.m.

She generously has devoted her time in this manner for many years.

Deaf men and women from all over Chicagoland will take the subway or bus or electric trains to the Loop so they can enjoy this Sunday afternoon sermon.

If you visitors to Chicago should drop into the rear of the chapel, you would not hear a sound.

Mrs. Elmes talks via the sign language, so all the members of the audience must keep their eyes glued on her hands.

And when she offers prayer, they also keep their eyes open, for they would otherwise not know what she said nor when she had reached the "Amen."

* * *

Various members of this little congregation will often participate, as by reading the Scripture (also done in sign language).

My own interest in this service for the deaf is two-fold.

First, I appreciate the inspiration and religious nurture which Mrs. Elmes so graciously makes possible for her little congregation.

Second, I spent three years working with the deaf at Gallaudet College in Washington, D. C.

This is a unique college where the graduates of the various state schools for the deaf can earn their bachelor's degree.

But the sign language is much faster for ordinary conversation, so the college students resort almost entirely to sign language on the campus and at the dinner table.

If one of you readers were to visit Gallaudet College, you would be introduced by sign language, except for your actual name, which would be spelled out via the manual alphabet.

Gallaudet College has its own football, basketball and other athletic teams and offers other small college aggregations a real battle.

Instead of orally calling signals, however, the quarterback in football makes a couple of quick signs to indicate the play.

And on the basketball court, the captain can speak the entire length of the gymnasium via signs!

However, sign language (and finger spelling) have one serious disadvantage, namely, all the other deaf within sight of you can also eavesdrop!

At formal parties, therefore, when seated in pairs along the wall, a boy will speak with one hand to his coed sweetheart but shield that hand with his printed dance program to keep his pals from knowing what he says!

And the deaf have their formal annual dance, importing an orchestra, for they can feel the orchestra's vibrations via the floor and thus keep in rhythm.

Printing is one of the specialties in which the deaf excel, but they make superb workers in any field where noise is distracting and spoken language is not necessary.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

CSU Slates Collequium On Theoretical Biology

Outstanding biologists, mathematicians, physicists and gio-ematicians, physicists and biogather at Colorado State University this summer (July 1-August 6 to attend a colloquium on a comparatively new area of research — theoretical biology, a field which is assuming increasing importance with the approaching explorations of other planets. Approximately 40 scientists, including several from CSU, will be selected by a national committee to attend this first colloquim.

Announcement of the American Institute of Biological Sciences-CSU colloquim was made by Dr. John Olive, executive director of the AIBS and Dr. J. Stanley Ahmann, academic vice-president of CSU. The program, supported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will be directed by Dr. Harold J. Morowitz of the Yale University Department of Molecular Biology and Biophysics.

"There is a feeling among biologists," Dr. Olive commented, "that their science has reached a stage where theoretical approaches may be extremely helpful in increasing our understanding of biological phenomena. The purpose of this colloquim is to stimulate interest initiate the training of researchers in the field."

Theoretical biology, the mathematical approach to the science, is important in the planning of exobiological (biology in space) experiments in environments, such as the planet Mars, about which we know little at this time. Theoretical biology is also essential in the search for new forms of biological systems by making possible predictions of the existence of such systems.

The AIBS-CSU program, which was termed by Dr. Ahmann as a small "summer school," will be unusual in that some of the noted scientists who attend as students are as well known and competent as the faculty which has been assembled for this colloquium.

The faculty of the colloquium to be announced in a future issue of BIOSCIENCE include: Dr. Mones Berman, of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Maryland; Professor Walter Elsasser, geology department, Princeton University; Professor Robert Rosen, committee on mathematical biology, University of Chicago; and Professor Walter Stahl, Oregon Regional Primate Research Center, Beaverton.

Junior Ski Race Set March 21 At Ski Arena

The annual Junior Ski Race, sponsored by the Colorado Springs Kiwanis Club under the auspices of the Sno-Jet Ski Club, has been slated for 1 p.m. March 21 at the Pikes Peak Ski Arena.

The race will be divided as before into three classes for boys and girls: advanced, intermediate and beginner. Final classification will be made by the judges from information on the entry forms.

The contest is open to students in the Pikes Peak Region. Entry fee is $1. Entry forms may be picked up at Lucas Sporting Goods Company, Blick Sporting Goods Company, Dave Cook Sporting Goods Company, or Sport Inc. Entries may be mailed to Pete Tyree, 625 San Juan Rd., and will also be accepted until race time.

The race this year will be held in conjunction with a Sanctioned Southern Rocky Mountain Ski Association race for Class IV and V racers (those under 12 years old).

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LrWIS

WASHINGTON — One of the reasons for President Johnson's delay in sending a voting rights message to Congress is the realization, within the Administration, that whatever he proposes will be highly controversial and produce more political trouble than gain. Hence, there has been an agonizing search for a formula that would hurt the LBJ "image" least.

Should he, for example, ask for crackdown - type of legislation to get Negroes the vote, he gets in bad with Southern Senators and Representatives at the very time he wants their support for his Great Society projects.

And should he propose a go-slow moderate program to eliminate all remaining barriers to Negro voting rights, Johnson is going to get in dutch with Martin Luther King and civil rights groups generally.

The moderate consensus type of approach also has another peril for Johnson. Congressional Republicans, out to win back the Negro vote, are ready to pounce on the issue and champion the strongest kind of bill on a party basis.

Notice of this was served last week when 31 GOP Representatives and Senators, plus five Governors, including Romney of Michigan and Scranton of Pennsylvania, urged the President to act promptly and forcefully.

In effect, they were backing King, who has prodded Johnson to get moving so that federal voting legislation may be enacted this year. Otherwise, thousands of Negroes in the South will remain disenfranchised in the 1966 Congressional elections.

The fact is, that while there has been an understandable delay on the President's part, the net result is that the controversial legislation is unlikely to be passed in the present session if present mid - summer adjournment plans stay intact.

In his State of the Union message Jan. 4, Johnson promised to send up his voting rights program within six weeks. Eight weeks have now passed since the President said he planned to ask Congress to "eliminate every obstacle to the right and opportunity to vote."

UNCERTAINTY ABOUT FEDERAL INTERVENTION

What was clearly not fully appreciated at the time were the intricate legal problems involved in that type of federal legislation. There is judicial uncertainty as to the Constitutionality of federal intervention aimed at erasing all barriers — that is, those involved in state and local elections as well as federal.

Some Constitutional authorities believe an amendment to the Constitution is required, but that approach would delay matters. Even if Congress submitted such an amendment to the states this year, it is admitted that it could not be adopted by the required three - fourths of the states until 1967.

So legislation is preferred, even if a voting rights law to be questioned in the courts. And one reason is that unless there is such a bill actively in the Congressional machinery, demonstrations such as that in Selma, Ala., are almost certain to spread.

A "draft" bill has already been drawn up by Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach for Johnson's consideration. this proposal has two main aims. It would first eliminate discriminatory literacy tests or palpably unfair discrimination of any kind by state election officials, as in Alabama.

GOP WANTS TAKE-OVER BY REGISTRARS

It would also provide for a federal takeover of the registration process in those localities where the percentage of registered Negroes is so small that obvious discrimination is demonstrated.

The guts of this proposed bill is the federal registrars proposal. It is also the most controversial. House Republicans have proposed that federal registrars take over whenever 50 or more persons in any area swear they cannot register because of discrimination. The Administration plan is based on a percentage, with no decision yet as to what percentage.

Neither does the Katzenbach proposal give the President himself the power to act if necessary as the GOP bill does. Both measures give federal court judges the power to crack down, but the Republican proposal lets the President take over if a Southern - minded judge fails to act in 40 days.

Whether it is possible for Congress, through legislation, to eliminate the literacy tests for voting — the main vehicle for disenfranchising by local and state officials — is also a complex problem. But it is generally agreed within the Administration that if the literacy test could be wiped out, the necessity of imposing federal election registrars on various Southern communities might not be required except in areas of flagrant violation.

WHAT THE CONSTITUTION PROVIDES

The basic problem is that in the First Article of the Constitution it is provided that the states shall determine voting requirements — specifically, that qualifications to vote for members of Congress shall be the same as those for the state Legislature.

On the other hand, some Justice Department officials think Johnson would have solid Constitutional grounds on which to propose elimination of literacy tests because of the 15th Amendment. This amendment says in part:

"The right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude."

Fundamentally, however, it is admitted, this clause more appropriately supplies a legal basis for imposition of federal registrars on communities found to be deliberately trying to keep qualified Negroes from registering to vote.

On the record, of course, as NAACP head Roy Wilkins said after conferring with LBJ today, the President has been consistently determined to protect "the right to vote."

Power Plant Proposed Near Coal Deposits

DENVER (AP) — Plans to build a 5 million kilowatt power plant in a Utah area convenient to major coal deposits were given Friday to the Upper Colorado River Basin Commission.

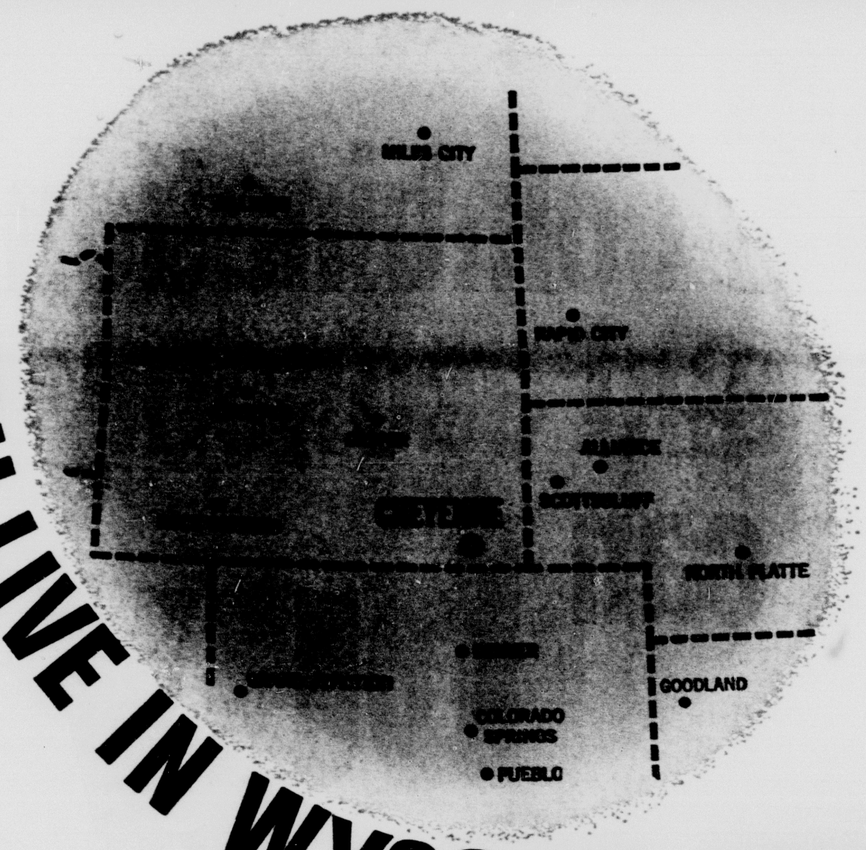
Jay R. Bingham, director of the Utah Water and Power Board, said the plant would be in the Kaiparowits area, near three deposits containing an estimated 11 billion tons of coal. Authorization for the plant would have to be obtained from the Utah state engineer.

Bingham spoke of the matter at a meeting of the river group because about 100,000 acre-feet of water from Lake Powell behind Glen Canyon Dam would be needed. The water would be pumped to an elevated site. Bingham said the prospective builder, Resources Corp., would return rights to the water to the state of Utah when the plant ceases to operate.

Enough coal is contained in the three deposits, it is estimated, to supply the plant throughout its amortized life of 35 to 40 years.

Resources Corp. is a firm combining interests of Arizona Public Service Co., Southern California Edison and San Diego Gas & Electric.

The plant would cost an estimated $500 million. It would have two 750,000 KW units back to back at the start. Two more such units would be added, and eventually two units of 1 million KW each would be built.



YOU LIVE IN WYCON'S GREEN LANDS!

All plants need nitrogen to grow lush and green. Yet many crops and grasses of our region deplete the soil of this vital element. We must enrich our soil with growth-producing nitrogen if our lands are to stay green. Wycon is here to produce a regional supply of nitrogen fertilizers...that's why we call our region Wycon's Green Lands.

WYCON is the region's first producer of nitrogen fertilizers, performing the seeming miracle of making anhydrous ammonia and ammonium nitrate by combining natural gas and air.

WYCON is a new and more convenient source of nitrogen fertilizers which will be distributed throughout the Green Lands shown.

WYCON is the region's newest industry. Its $6 million plant, west of Cheyenne on Highway 80, adds about $1 million annually to the region's economy.

Girl Scout -- Wagon Wheel Council To Observe Girl Scout Week

More than 6,000 girls and adults of the Girl Scouts-Wagon Wheel Council will join with almost three and three-quarter million Girl Scouts throughout the country in celebrating Girl Scout Week today through Saturday, March 13.

"Girl Scouting—A Bridge to the Future" is the theme of Girl Scout Week, and of the Girl Scouts' 53rd birthday which occurs on March 12. This date marks the anniversary of the first meeting of the first troup organized in Savannah, Ga., by Juliette Gordon Low, founder.

Since that first troop, more than 20 million members have made the Girl Scout Promise to do their duty to God and country, to help other people at all times, and to obey the Girl Scout Laws of loyalty, honesty, courtesy, cheerfulness, usefullness, kindness and thrift.

This year, Girl Scouts are paying special attention to the "bridges" which give continuity to their program. The program adapts activities related to the arts, the home, and the out-of-doors, to the changing interests and need of girls ages seven through 17, thus bridging the four age levels: Brownie Girl Scouts, 7 and 8, to Senior Girl Scouts, 15 through 17.

Special days are earmarked throughout Girl Scout Week to illustrate the various aspects of the Girl Scout program. They are: Girl Scout Sunday; Mon-

Three members of Junior Troop 133 are pictured working on the Girl Scout Press, a newspaper which covers activities of all troops in the area, with reporters in each troop submitting news. Original stories, poems, crossword puzzles and cartoons are also accepted. Left to right are Rose Myers, Barbara Bowen, and Sherry Scheffler. Another member of the staff not present is Kathy Meizner.

Displaying two of the flags made and presented to Colorado Springs by senior Troop 289 are Marcy Hueftle, Lilliam Smith, Helen Russell and Lorene Rioth. The troop made 68 flags representing member nations of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts and are for the use of organizations who need them. The flag staffs and standards were made by Sea Scout Ship 63.

Unwanted Hair Removed Forever

One of the greatest blemishes to feminine loveliness is hair which grows where beauty decrees no hair should grow. This problem is one which will disturb most women—4 out of 5—sometime during their lives. Most women decide properly that removal is the only way to deal with this un-pretty growth.

So hair removal becomes a "not - if - but - how" question in feminine grooming. Tweeze? Shave? Wax? Depilatory? Today's woman is revolting against these handed - down methods.

Women all over the country are turning to modern Electrolysis, developed by scientists, which overcomes the last feminine obection to permanent hair removal. It is gentle, so safe that physicians the world over recommend it, and it's within any budget.

To appreciate it, phone tomorrow to arrange for a free consultation and demonstration treatment. The number is 635-4540. G. E. Williams, Electrologist, 416 Burns Bldg., 23 E. Pikes Peak. Open Wednesday evening until 9:00. adv.

Personalines

Social activities in Colorado Springs are at a low ebb — partly because it is Lent, and partly because many Colorado Springsites prefer to take their vacations at this time of year. We'd like to talk about all the people we know who have taken off for far-away places, but most of them insist on waiting until their return to release such information.

Last week, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendee of 26 Elm Ave. returned from a month in the East. Mrs. Hendee went to Groton, Conn. to take care of her grandchildren while their daughter, Mrs. David Gillingham was in the hospital for gall bladder surgery. Mrs. Gillingham, wife of Lt. Gillingham, is the former Martha Hendee.

Mr. Hendee joined the family later and he and Mrs. Hendee went to New York City to visit their son, Dr. Robert Hendee Jr., resident physician at St. Vincent's Hospital, and Mrs. Hendee.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bland Cresap entertained Miss Geneva McQuarters who has been attending the Defense Seminar here. Miss McQuarters is a lieutenant colonel in the Reserve WACs.

Guests of the Cresaps were members, officers and past presidents of the Credit Women's Club of which she was a member. She is also executive director of the Credit Women's Clubs of North America.

Mrs. Kathleen Ward of 2030 N. Circle Dr. entertained a dinner last week complimenting a recent bride and a bride-to-be.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Donald F. Hinton, the former Merline MacFarland, who was married in February; and Miss Barbara Bollinger, who will become the bride of Jess Willoughby on April 3.

Guests were Mrs. Mary Glynn, Mrs. Mary Kay Steele, Mrs. Marjorie Smith, Mrs. Phyllis White, Mrs. Mary Carey, Mrs. Lucille Thomas, Mrs. Shirley White, Mrs. Dora Quintana and Mrs. Miriam Stover.

Colorado Springs students seem to be doing all right in colleges all over the country, according to many releases direct from the colleges which we received this week.

Miss Anne Haney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence O. Haney of 2016 N. Cascade Ave. has been initiated into Delta Gamma sorority at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

Miss Suan Antonides has been elected co-head of the social committee at the Emma Willard School, Troy, N.Y. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Lundberg of 26 Polo Dr., Broadmoor.

Initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta honorary at Denver University recently have been Sandra Lorenzen, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Virgil G. Lorenzen of 2016 Crest Haven Circle; Laurel Ann McLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. McLeod of 1214 Milky Way Dr.; and Stephanie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Joseph Smith of 22 Brentwood Dr.

Springs students on the Dean's List at DU are Nancy Claire Napoletan, daughter of Mrs. Eldrid R. Napoletan of 2023 N. Wahsatch Ave., Christine Johnson, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. D. B. Johnson of 40 Marland Rd.; Steven Bruce Hunt, son of Mrs. Ruth Hunt of 3122 LaSalle St., and Fredrik Wiant, son of James A. Wiant of 3106 E. San Miguel St.

At Colorado State, Ft. Collins, the following made the Dean's List: Gary R. Barta of 2918 Carlton; David H. Casler of 2507 LaSalle St.; Elmer Claycomb of Route 3; Richard Hovey, 1111 Logan Pl., Robert G. Lockyear 2417 Byers Ave., Hollings C. Renton III, 132 N. Dunsmore; and Roger J. Sams of 5406 Diamond Bar Ln.

On the Dean's List at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont, Calif., is Bruce Wacker, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William W. Wacker of 1327 N. Iowa Ave.

Frances Zenobia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Zenobia of 1006 Vega Dr. made the Dean's List at Pacific University, Forest Grove, Ore. where she is a foreign language major.

On the honor roll at St. Mary's University, San Antonio, Tex. is Thomas A. Bushu, son of Edwin J. Bushu of 2 S. 25th St.

Raised in rank to Cadet Corporal at the New Mexico Military Institute last week was Terrence D. Woodruff of Colorado Springs.

Carol Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Jensen of 2324 Valley Forge Rd. has earned the course grade "with distinction" in Spanish at Grinnell College, Grinnell- Iowa.

On the Dean's honor roll at the University of Wyoming is Miss Delores Jean Hayek of Colorado Springs.

Bob Burright has enrolled for the spring semester at Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock, Tex., where he is a Bible major, anticipating graduation in June, 1966.

Pamela Cline, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Cline, 1722 Wynkoop Dr., teaching in the fifth grade; Miss Paula J. Griffith, daughter of Paul Griffith, 1303 N. Iowa, teaching in the third grade; Miss Lucinda J. Harrold, daughter of Bailey S. Harrold, 317 E. Willamette, teaching social studies in junior high school.

Donald W. Higby Jr., son of D. W. Higby St., 2909 Chelton Rd., teaching art; Richard A. Hoge, son of Horace C. Hoge, 2319 W. Uintah St., teaching English in junior high school; Miss Diana J. Lapp, daughter of Conrad Lapp, 16 Hazel Ave., teaching English in senior high.

Miss Bonnie Gail McGrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McGrew, 22 Park Ave. Broadmoor, teaching in the second grade; Miss Donna M. Swan, daughter of Charles Swan, 2505 N. Farragut, teaching in the first grade; Miss Barbara M. Sweanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Sweanor, 2702 Marilyn Road, teaching biology in junior high school.

Robert S. Threlkeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Threlkeld, 1307 E. San Miguel St., teaching social studies in junior high school; Kenneth E. White, son of Johnnie R. White, Security, teaching music in senior high school, and Miss Elizabeth M. Porte, daughter of W. L. Porte, Cascade, teaching in kindergarten.

Coming as a surprise to their friends in Denver and Colorado Springs was the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson of the engagement of their daughter Mary Marguerite to Norman James Lester, son of Raymond J. Lester and the late Mrs. Lester. The engagement was announced at a family brunch at Lakewood Country Club on Sunday. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. Thomas H. Walker Executive Secretary of the Petroleum Institute of Colorado, and Mrs. Walker and the late Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Olson of Denver. Miss Olson attended Colorado State University and is a graduate of the University of Denver where she was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is a teacher in the Denver Public Schools. Her fiance's grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Franson and Mr. and Mrs. William Lester of Worland, Wyo. He is a graduate of Colorado State University and a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He is an engineer with Ideal Cement Company in Denver. A June wedding is planned.

MRS. JOHN LARRY HUFF
—Nee Linda Elaine Headington

John Larry Huff Weds Linda Elaine Headington

Linda Elaine Headington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Headington, Grand Junction, became the bride of John Larry Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Huff, Greenwood, Va., at 7 p.m., Feb. 27, in the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. Howard E. Hansen was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father amid church decorations of white mums and red carnations, white candles, and pew markers of white bows centered with lilies of the valley.

J. M. Jordan, cousin of the bride sang "Wedding Prayer."

The bride wore a full-length gown of satin du charme with scoop neckline, long sleeves, and bustle back with sweep train. Her illusion veil fell from a princess crown of pearls and crystal. She carried flowers of white orchid and roses on a rainbow Bible.

Miss Sharon Loudenburg, maid of honor, wore a white dull luster satin dress with scoop neckline, and short sleeves. Her heart and pearl necklace was a gift from the bride. Her headpiece of roses and lilies of the valley supported an illusion veil. She carried a white and red carnation colonial bouquet centered with white bells and streamers ending in tiny red velvet hearts.

Miss Jennifer Kirkland, bridesmaid, was attired similarly. The candle lighter, Miss Shonna Jordan, wore a red dull luster dress with long sleeves, high rounded neck ,and a bell skirt with a red and white peppermint carnation corsage. Flower girl, Kendra Jordan, wore the same costume and carried a basket of red and white roses.

Walter J. Kormarnicki was the best man. Groomsman was Larry Bleskin. Ushers were Richard Harbin and Howard Kern.

The mother of the bride wore capri-blue matte jersey with a matching pill box hat and black accessories. Her flowers were white crushed carnations.

The reception was held in Honnen Parlor. Assistants were Mrs. L. B. Dale, aunt of the bride, cake; Mrs. J. M. Jordan cousin of the bride, cake; Mrs. Irene Mason, aunt of the bride, punch; and Mrs. Ralph Granzella, guest book.

The couple will establish future residence in Stuttgard, Germany.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Headington, grandparents of the bride, Montrose; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jordan, Shonna and Kendra, Grand Junction; Mrs. L. B. Dale, Mrs. Irene Mason, Grand Junction; Miss Sharon Loudenburg, Mrs. V. H. Loudenburg, Miss Shannon Patterson, and Mrs. Gil Ganzella, all of Salida; Miss Sharon Dolgan, Pueblo; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ganzella, Delta; Mr. and Mrs. Forest Moon and Orin, Littleton; Richard L. Harbin, Cincinnati; Howard J. Kern, Adrian, Mich.; Richard Toranto, Fairlawn, N.J.; Robert Bella, Philadelphia; Robert Leskovan, Milwaukee; Larry Bleskin, Thomas J. Walsh, Walter Kormainicki, and Joseph P. Speauka, all of Chicago.

The bride attended Blair Business College and the bridegroom attended the University of Maryland, European branch.

RECENT BRIDE — Miss Katherine Irene Ham, daughter of Mrs. B. M. Durrett of 205 Mesa, Manitou Springs, and Walter L. Ham of Canon City, became the bride of Mickey Glenn Moulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Moulton of 102½ Canon Ave., Manitou Springs. The ceremony took place Feb. 21 at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Vance Moulton of Manitou. The bride wore a street length white dress with fur trim, and short veil with pearl crown. The bride is employed at the Hedeway Cafe and the bridegroom by Janitors Cleaning Service. They are living at 102½ Canon Ave.

Branham-Chess Ceremony Held in Baptist Church

Karen Elizabeth Chess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood G. Chess, 1923 W. Cucharras St., became the bride of Robert Ivan Branham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan L. Branham, 516 W. Dale St., at 3 p.m.., Feb. 14, in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Ward B. Hurlburt was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, amid church decorations of red and white mums and candelabra.

Nuptial music included "Whither Thou Goest," "Wedding Prayer," and "The Lord's Prayer." Bernice Owens was soloist and Judy Ellington organist.

The bride wore a two-piece dress of satin brocade, with sheath skirt, fitted bodice, scoop neck, short sleeves, and button trim.. Her short illusion veil fell from a pillbox of matching brocade. She carried red sweetheart roses and white stephanotis on a white Bible, gift of the bridegroom.

Julia Green., cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a short red dress with cap sleeves, cowl neckline, wide midriff, and matching headdress. She carried a colonial bouquet of red sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Larry Branham, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were: Dale Branham, and Frank Branhan brothers of the bridegroom; and Clyde Chess, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a three-piece suit of winter white and red with matching accessories and red sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy blue dress with matching accessories and red sweetheart roses.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Assistants at the reception were: Kathy Ditlevson, guest book; Gloria Branham, Sharon Branham, and Carol Roseman,, gifts; Alice Green, Marilyn Branham, and Corrine Kinkade, cake; Yvonne Kinkade, punch; Mary Kinkade, Kate Kinkade, Mable Yeatts, and Aldona Conover.

The bride's and maid of honor's bouquets decorated the punch table while the three-tier cake was surrounded by white carnations with red sweetheart roses in the center.

For the wedding trip to Carlsbad Caverns, N. M., the bride chose a three-piece knit suit of pink with red accessories and red sweetheart roses.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kinkade and family, Limon; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kinkade and family, Rush; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shoemaker and family, Mrs. Ida Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Canterbury, Canon City; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oehlschlager and daughter, Lamar; and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walton and daughter, Littleton.

The bride is a graduate of Palmer High School and has worked for the Colorado Springs National Bank for several years. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Palmer High School and is employed by the Colorado Interstate Gas Company.

About Face In Makeup Technique

The season's change of fashion pace calls for a corresponding change of make-up . . . and this spring is seeing a revolution in beauty techniques. It's the quiet look, calling all women to be their feminine, natural selves, rather than a blatantly made-up Someone Else.

This soft new look in make-up, perfectly complementing the soft look of spring fashions, is not to be construed as a casual look. On the contrary, it requires the utmost care in the doing and has brought out all the professional secrets of famous make-up artists out into the open.

Utilizing three basic ideas — minimal color, texture and professional techniques — the quiet look is seen at its best with hair set away from the face, allowing the features to be more readily apparent. It calls for a soft, muted foundation and eyes that look large and natural, clearly defined. Lips emphasize depth and are not brazenly colored.

Everything that goes into this natural look is put on with a brush; lips, eyes, brows, lashes, and cheeks are all brushed on for greater subtlety.

The first step to the new natural look is the application of a moisturizer. Then two neutral bases are smoothed on, the darker beige being placed under the chin. A third lighter beige is worked under the eyes to combat artificial light . . . under the brows, use an ivory or oyster tone shadow.

The final effect is a subtly stated, natural beauty that doesn't try to improve on nature but plays up your own naturally lovely features for all they're worth.

Remove muffins and popovers from their pans as soon as you take them out of the oven so their bottoms do not steam and soften. Serve at once!

Teeners Go Tame With Pretty Spring Shoes

Teenagers who know their fashions flipped this spring for the newest trend in footwear, the "pretty" look. Soft feminine styling in a variety of stunning, supple leather textures — smooth, suede, grained, patent, brushed and waxy — are turning the wildest teen tomboy into a junior league lady.

The young shoe look has never been lovelier, livelier or more leg flattering. From hand-sewn leather moccasins to sleek leather sling-backs, teen toes are shod in footwear delicately touched with graceful openings, tiny perforations, elegant bows and many other fashion details. Lightweight leathers make these spring shoes as airy in feeling as they are in appearance.

Easy to wear and easy to care for, lightweight brushed and grained leather flats, booties and strollers will saunter through the spring scene.

Glamorous pumps and sandals in smooth, suede, patent and lustre leathers grace the yearly springtime gambols. Late-day and evening footwear has a wickedly romantic air every woman will love. Exquisite examples: a pale suede leather pump with flower applique, multi - colored patent leather strips anchored to a sole lined in bright leather and a bronze lustre leather pump with oversize buckle.

Color is a cardinal element in this spring's wardrobes and shoe shades are especially important to the "total look." Pale tints that blend in with stocking ones are new and chic. Sharp, clear colors such as wildfire red, skybolt blue and acid greens add an electric charge to any costume. The natural leather colors — Amber, tan, chino — continue in popularity, as do the standards, black and navy.

After dark, young elegants are taking to dance floors in disco dresses that are bare and body-hugging or covered and cling. Wools, linens, chiffons and silks, sometimes ruffled, figure prominently in the disco look.

Corpus Christi Guild to Hear Defense Program

The regular monthly meeting of the Corpus Christ Guild will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday. A rosary will preceed the meeting at 7:45 p.m. There will be a short Civil Defense Program consisting of a film, "If Disaster Strikes," and a speaker, Mr. Phil Landes.

Plans will be completed for the St. Patricks Day Dinner on March 17. Reservations for the dinner may be made by calling Mrs. Al Weber, 632-4832, or Mrs. Frank Zeidler, 633-8147, no later than March 15.

BRIDE-ELECT — M/Sgt. and Mrs. Clemence J. Bugno of 158 Ithaca St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Heidi, to Kenneth Charles Lenhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lenhardt of Tigard, Ore. Both young people are students at the Oregon Technical Institute at Klamath Falls, where Miss Bugno is majoring in Medical Technology and Mr. Lenhardt in Highway Engineering. The wedding will take place May 15 at Klamath Falls.

Summer Dance Classes to Be Held at YWCA

Suellen Haney McAndrews is working with the YWCA on details regarding dance classes she will teach in the gym at the YWCA this summer.

Mrs. McAndrews is well known in Colorado Springs for her ability. She will offer classes in Modern Dance for girls and boys, 6 to 11 years. Separate classes arranged for each age group and ability and for teenage girls 12-17. An adult class in modern dance will also be offererd. This is a splendid opportunity for children and teenagers to receive concentrated instruction during vacation. Classes run for 10 weeks.

Mrs. McAndrews has taught modern dance in San Carlos, Calif., before entering the Peace Corps in 1962. She had her first dancing instruction from Barbara Smith in Colorado Springs, then continued at Scripp's College, Claremont, Calif., also at Dick Ford Dance Studio, San Mateo, California. She danced under the direction of Norman Cornick at Colorado College in 1960.

Mrs. McAndrews and her husband are at present recruiting for the Peace Corps but will return to Colorado Springs about the last of May. Classes will begin the week after schools close. For further information on how to receive a brochure, call the YWCA office, 634-5515.

Four Prominent Republican Women To Be Guests of Honor at Coffee

Mrs. John A. Love, wife of the governor, and other prominent Republican women, will be guests of honor at a membership coffee to be held by the Republican Women's Roundtable at 10 a.m. Friday, at the Colorado Springs Country Club, 3333 Templeton Gap Rd.

Mrs. Love, formerly program chairman for the Roundtable, will join Mrs. Judith Davies Bell and Mrs. Don W. Higby as honored guests at the affair. All three women are members of the Roundtable and outstanding in community affairs.

The coffee, for potential members, is open to the public and a 50 cent donation is asked. For reservations call Mrs. Roger Thornton, 633-3733; or Mrs. Don La Mora, 635-3991.

Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Higby and Mrs. Roy Long, Roundtable president, will all speak briefly to those attending.

* * *

Judith Davies Bell (Mrs. Willard Bell), the Roundtable's first president, will speak to the group concerning "Women's Political Responsibility."

Long known for her work with the Chamber of Commerce, in which she has a life membership, Mrs. Bell has been the only woman to serve on the Pike National Forest Advisory Council.

She has been state president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, has worked with crippled children, the Symphony Guild and has served on the Pikes Peak Hill Climb Committee.

Mrs. Bell has led Chamber of Commerce courses in practical politics for women and has taught Dorothy Carnegie courses. At present, she is secretary and registrar at the Fine Arts Center.

Mrs. Don Higby, vice-chairman of the Colorado Republican party, will also speak briefly at the coffee.

Active in Republican politics since 1948, Mrs. Higby has served two terms as the state's vice chairman. She has chaired various Roundtable committees and was state president of the Colorado Federation of Republican Women (1957-1959).

The local Republican Women's Roundtable was organized under the leadership of Mrs. Higby while she served as president of CFRW. She organized other clubs throughout the state during that time.

Mrs. Higby has also been Republican precinct committeewoman and is now public trustee of El Paso County, appointed by Gov. Love.

Mrs. Roy Long, Roundtable president, will explain aims and objectives of the Republican Group.

Mrs. Long has served on the executive board of the March of Dimes, has worked with the Heart Fund and for six years has served on the Parent Teachers Assn. Council. She is presently vice-president of Washington Irving PTA.

She is secretary of missions for First Methodist Church, a member of the National Parliamentary Assn. and is past president of the Navy Wives Club.

Regarding the coffee, Mrs. Long said, "We wish to invite any woman sincerely interested in playing an active part in determining our nation's course. We feel this is an ideal time to begin educating Republican women in politics."

Mrs. Rodger Thornton heads the committee in charge of arrangements for the coffee. Other committee members include Mrs. Sam Turner, Mrs. Henry Kates, Mrs. Victor Laushine, Mrs. Joe Seigel, and Mrs. B. E. Black.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Overrated!

DEAR ABBY: I keep looking to you to take up the fight against the topless bathing suits. I speak for mothers who are worried about their youngsters growing up in a society where people want to see males and females incited to a high degree of "desire" with no thought of the consequences. I recently read where there is a restaurant in Los Angeles which features a bare bosom fashion show during the lunch hour! Many businessmen lunch there and it is open to the public for men and women. All this started with the topless bathing suit. Can't you start a campaign against this sort of thing before it gets out of hand? —FOR DECENCY

DEAR FOR: I don't know where one finds this restaurant which features bare bosoms ofr lunch, but I'll be gl adto investigate it if you'll tell me. As for the topless bathing suits, although a few were sold, fewer were worn, and the wearers were arrested. So I'd say the whole scheme was a bust.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we buried our infant granddaughter. The doctor said she was normal and perfect in every way, but was strangled during birth by the cord. We were shocked and saddened to lose her, and her parents were reartbroken and wanted this little girl so much. We received some calls and notes from friends who said, "It was all for the best."

Abby, why are some people so cruel? How do they know it was "all for the best"? Who knows what joy that child might have brought into the world? Please print this for others who use that inappropriate expression of "sympathy." Or if I'm wrong, please tell me so. —Sincerely BEREAVED

DEAR BEREAVED: Friends who call and send notes of condolence do so in the spirit of thoughtfulness and sympathy. They mean to be comforting. Appreciate their good intentions and overlook their unfortunate choice of words. I shall print this for the benefit of those who do not know better.

DEAR ABBY: I have bee dating this boy for three months. He says he doesn't want to go steady. He just wants to play the field for a while. I am really crazy about him and have turned down lots of other dates because of him. There's this big dance coming up and I have already had two invitations to go, but I've turned them down hoping "he" will ask me. One of his friends said he heard that "he" was going to ask me—but he hasn't as yet. Should I wait? Or should I accept a date with someone else? All my friends think I am crazy for waiting, but they don't realize how much I like this guy. —WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Wait. If "he" doesn't ask you, you'll probably kick yourself fo rnot having accepted one of the others. But if you accept another date and "he" asks you later. I'm sure you'll kick yourself much harder.

CONFIDENTIAL TO 'D' In Philadelphia": If your child were suffering from a physical handicap, you'd spend your last dollar searching for a cure. So why, when your child is obviously suffering from an emotional handicap, do you prefer to "sweep it under the carpet" in hopes that nobody will notice? Or trust to luck that it will "disappear"? I urge you to take your child to a psychiatrist. Emotional illness CAN be cured. But sometimes it takes a little longer.

Zonta Club Sees Film On Refugees

Members of the Zonta Club were recently entertained in the home of Mrs. Winnifred McBroom, 926 N. Wahsatch Ave. The film, "Journey To Understanding," was shown by one of the members, JoAnne Conrad.

This film by Hugh Downs was made when he visited some of the United Nations Relief and Work Agency Vocational Training Centers in the Middle East for Palestine refugee boys and girls — the victims of the Arab-Israeli conflict in 1948.

The Zonta local club and International are sponsoring students at the UNRWA's Training Center for Girls in Ramallah, Jordan, which is ten miles out of Jerusalem. To date, Zonta has given a total of 112 individual $500 scholarships to Ramallah.

Mrs. Carrie Smith was cohostess.

Zonta Club will meet for dinner and business at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Swiss Chalet.

You may want to try some of the butter-type cake recipes using sour cream because the cream usually adds a rich, moist quality.

YWCA Spring Classes Will Open Monday

Special classes to be offered are: tailoring and knitting. They will start on Monday. Knitting will start at 7 p.m. and tailoring at 7:30 p.m.

Complexion Steaming

To clean and freshen the complexion, ease away crows feet and unwanted expression lines and put more life into your skin, try complexion steaming. With a towel over your head, steam over a basin of hot water in which a teaspoon of lemon juice can be added if available. Beforehand anoint the skin with oil of olay so when the hot steam clears the pores the oil penetrates. After steaming, tone with a lemon freshener and smooth the skin to youthful beauty with a film of olay.

Saucerman-Rowton Vows Read at Bethany Baptist

Joan Rowton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Rowton, 2548 Elvin St., and Paul Saucerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Saucerman, 223 N. Chestnut St., were married in February at the Bethany Baptist Church. The Rev. C. L. Moser performed the ceremony.

The soloist, Dennis Jones, sang "At Dawning," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer," amid church decorations of white giant snapdragons and mums. Candelabra, satin bows, and lilies of the valley completed the setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an angel-skin peau-de-soie gown in full-length sheath style with long sleeves and a petal neckline. The bodice and skirt front were trimmed in Alencon lace. The back was accented by a bow and detachable chapel train in triangular shape. The veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of pearls and aurora borealis. The bride wore heart-shaped gold earrings with a pearl, gift of the bridegroom, and carried flowers of gardenias and stephanotis on a tulle heart.

Mrs. Ralph Crawford, matron of honor, wore orchid taffeta brocade with a scoop neckline and a bell-shaped skirt. Her flowers were feathered carnations on a heart of tulle in a deeper shade or orchid.

Mrs. Dan Rowton, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Don Lacey were bridesmaids. Karen Burgess and Bobby Rowton were candlelighters. Fred Burgess was the ring bearer while Tammy Fallis and Jane Burgess were flower girls.

Carl Seay was the best man. Ushers were Willard McPherson, Jr., and David Unger.

The mother of the bride chose a willow-green ensemble with a floral hat, white accessories, and green cymbidium orchids. The mother of the bridegroom wore blue lace with navy accessories and white feathered carnations.

The reception was held in the church with Mrs. Helen Henson, Mrs. Juanita Moore, Mrs. Margaret Gordon, Mrs. Joyce Nelson, and Mrs. Joyce Bennet assisting at the table. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowell acted as host and hostess. Mrs. Betty McPherson sat at guest book and Mrs. Harvey Behrews played traditional wedding music.

Out-of-town guests were: Clarence Burgess, Garden City, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kraxberger Loveland; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rowton, Greeley; David Unger, Ft. Sam Houston; Mr. and Mrs. George Bennet, Estes Park; and others.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Wasson High School and attended Colorado State University. The bridegroom is a 1961 Palmer High School graduate.

Delta Gammas to Have Founders Day Luncheon

Delta Gamma Alumnae, members of Beta Delta chapter at Colorado College, and pledges of the collegiate chapter will celebrate the 92nd anniversary of the founding of Delta Gamma with a Founders Day Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at the Palmer House.

Delta Gamma was founded in 1873 at Lewis School in Oxford, Mississippi. There are 90 collegiate chapters on campuses throughout the United States and Canada. The Delta Gamma Foundation directs the special projects of the organizations which center around aid to the visually handicapped and prevention of blindness.

Mrs. William Helling and Mrs. Dennis Hayden are serving as co-chairmen of the luncheon. Candlelighting ceremonies are under the direction of Mrs. George Thatcher with Pam Thatcher, Carols Nowels, and Lynn Boyce representing the founders.

Miss Sharon Smith is in charge of the decorations. Working with her are Miss Mig Black, Miss Sharon Coit, and Miss Rickie Robbins. Programs are under the direction of Mrs. Gary Loo. Mrs. Verne Collier is serving as chairman of the invitation committee.

An original program honoring the founders will be presented by the members of the senior class of Beta Delta; Miss Sue Caudill, Miss Ann Doremus, Miss Cindy Pate, Miss Jo Heller, Miss Jane Humphrey, Miss Kathleen Clark, and Miss Sara Grogan.

Collegiate awards will be presented by Mrs. William Helling, chairman of the advisory board. Reports of the year's activities will be given by Mrs. Jack Westerdahl, representing the alumnae, and by Miss Becky Patterson, representing the collegiate chapter.

Mrs. Don Smith, Alumnae Chapter president, and Miss Ann Doremus, Beta Delta past president, will share the duties of toastmistress.

All members of Delta Gamma are invited to attend this Founders Day Luncheon. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Charles Nicholson, 2110 Wood Ave., 632-5157, or Miss Louise Buckley, 11 E. Monroe St. 634-7637.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ◇
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣

The dividing line between a good player and a great one is really too thin to be discernible. One of the distinguishing characteristics of the truly great player is the ability to divine what goes on in the mind of his opponent. He not only stops to consider the correct technique for the management of this combination of cards and that, but constantly takes time out to inquire "I wonder why he did what?"

Today's hand presented an interesting mental duel between East and South.

The bidding followed normal lines. North's double to reopen the bidding was routine. South took it easy on the first round to find out whether North's double was on the level or just made to prevent a cheap sale. When North bid two diamonds South realized that the double was sound and indicated his willingness to go on by bidding one more spade than was necessary.

Against the final contract of four spades, West led the four of clubs. East won with the jack and cashed the king. West followed with the three. Since the deuce has appeared from South everyone knows that West has no more clubs. On the surface it would appear that East should continue with the high club in the hope that partner will obtain an overruff. But East knows that declarer will probably trump high and when West is unable to overruff it will give away the location of the king of trumps. He, therefore, cashed the ace of hearts and continued with the suit.

With only nine trumps the natural play would be to finesse for the king. But South stopped to do some thinking. "Why didn't East try to give his partner an overruff?" It must be that he knew his partner could not get one, and the only way he could know it is by holding the king of spades himself. So reasoning, declarer abandoned the hope of the spade finesse and put up the ace on the long-shot chance that the king of spades was alone. Of one thing he was reasonably sure: West did not have the king.

That seems to me to be good card psychology!

Dammann-Emmons Nuptials Held at First Presbyterian

At a 7 o'clock candle light service on Feb. 20 in the First Presbyterian Church, Miss Jo Ann Emmons, daughter of the Joseph B. Emmons of Springville, Iowa, became the bride of John H. Dammann of Colorado Springs. Mr. Dammann is the son of the J. F. Dammanns of Pueblo. The Rev. Howard Hansen performed the double ring ceremony, before the altar decorated with white mums and red carnations, arranged in cathedral candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white brocade gown of imported peau de soie. The bodice was styled with a Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The floor length bell skirt had a graceful sweep of train. Her elbow length veil of imported silk illusion was held to Swedish crown of Alencon lace highlighted with seed pearls. She carried an arrangement of white gardenias and roses.

Mrs. Bernard McGrew of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, sister of the bride, was matron of honor; Miss Roma Link of Colorado Springs was bridesmaid; and Miss Tammy Tate of Lakin, Kansas was flower girl. They wore street length dresses of red velveteen with a fitted bodice and three-quarter length sleeves. A red satin sash and bow accented the waistlines of their semi-full skirts. Their circular veils were held to a red satin band and they carried white muffs accented with red carnations and green fern.

J. F. Dammann III, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Jim Crow of Denver, was the groomsman. Bruce Douglas, Denver, Harold Ingersol and Jim Thompson of Colorado Springs and Dana Counter and Ben Counter of Ft. Collins, were ushers.

Mrs. Harold Schlegel, organist, accompanied Monroe Bare, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

Mrs. Fred Insley presided at the guest book. Mrs. Robert Guthrie and Miss Margaret Farrer were in charge of the gifts. The cake was served by Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Mrs. J. Ray French and Mrs. Ben Counter. Mrs. Dorothy Nasisse, Mrs. J. Lane Brown, Mrs. John Park and Mrs. Roy Ortner poured.

The bride was graduated from Springville High School and attended the State University of Iowa. She is employed by Clifton Precision Products. The bridegroom, a graduate of Centennial High School and Colorado State University is manager of AAA Supply Compapny.

SUMMER WEDDING PLANNED — The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Durrant Yancey of E. TO BE JUNE BRIDE — Mr. Leslie J. Farrer of 2828 Airport Rd., announces the engagement of his daughter, Margaret, to Cadet First Class Joseph Michael Henderson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michael Henderson, of Charles Town, W. V. Miss Farrer's late mother was the former Annie S. Gordon of New York City. Miss Farrer attended Wagner College, Staten Island New York and the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs Center. She is employed by Clifton Precision Products. Cadet Henderson, originally from Knoxville, Tenn., will graduate from the United States Air Force Academy in June. The wedding will take place June 10, at the Episcopal Chapel of Our Saviour, Broadmoor. (Knutson Bowers Photo)

Great Books Group Will Discuss Work of Hofer

The Wednesday evening Great Books group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. March 10 in Mrs. Reid's office at the public library, 21 W. Kiowa St., for a discussion of "The True Believer" by Eric Hofer. Frances Doty will conduct the questioning.

Mrs. Doty will prepare questions of three types, for direct quotations, for participation is the reading of the text as assigned; attendance at any previous session is not required, nor is the reading of previous assignments considered necessary for preparation of this particular session on "The True Believer."

This is a project in adult education which is sponsored by the public library. Meetings are on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month. The assignment for March 24 will be a book on Lord Melbourne by David Cecil. That discussion will be led by Mary Brown. "Melbourne," published in 1954, is said to have been a favorite book of John F. Kennedy. It may be read in any edition. Purchase of the book is not required nor is there any other cost necessary for participation in this activity. Further information about the project will be given anyone who inquires at the library or who telephones Myrtle Allen, cordinator, 635-8540.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Hello, Gals:

Here's a discovery straight from my kitchen:

The other day one jar was almost empty so I poured hot water into it (you know . . . to save the last drop!) and when I poured the coffee out, I was amazed to see how smoothly the plastic paper adhered to the jar. Just take your hands and smooth over the little places that need it. It will form like a kid glove.

Evidently ths heat from the boiling water softens the adhesive backing and allows it to stretch.

From now on when I cover a jar, coffee can, bottle, etc., I am going to cover it, then fill it with hot water and let it stand for a few minutes before pouring out the water.

Be sure to cover it first, then pour in the water or it will be too-hot-to-handle. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Everyone is buying the small name and address tags that are so easy to paste on the corner of your envelope . . . but I think most of us buy too many of them.

I give my relatives and friends part of a pack of the tags, and they use them when they are writing back to me. Now we are exchanging them for each other's tags . . .

So simple. Saves addressing a letter and the postman can read it quickly. —Tess Baronoff

Dear Heloise:

I have just finished one of the beautiful nylon net tablecleths you mentioned in your column recently.

I also had some place mats with foam backing that always stuck to my polished table, so I took the net left from my cloth and cut it the size of my mats, then sewed it on the backs (by machine).

No more mats sticking our table. —Grandma Asbury

Dear Heloise:

My husband bought snap clothespins with hooks (ordinarily used for drying clothes in the bathroom) and snaps these to the end of the mat while it is wet, and we hang it by the hooks over our towel rod.

The mat will dry in a short time and we have a tub and mat that are mildew free, and all is ready and clean for the next bath. —D.B.S.

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

My family thinks I don't have a brain any more.

Every time I do "anything" different, someone is sure to ask "Heloise?"

Dear Heloise:

My husband is an accountant. Both he and his associate needed an adding machine. So he took the base of my old lazy Susan and placed it on his desk between them. When either needs the machine, he can turn it in his direction.

It works wonderfully . . . saved money and space.

I think he's real smart. — Mrs. Ellis Harrington

I think so, too . . . he was really "swinging" when he thought of that one! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Aren't our home freezers great?

I put all leftover bread (biscuits, corn bread, heels) in a plastic bag and freeze it.

When I get ready to make dressing, I thaw this bread and have plenty without all the extra baking.

Another thing, the dressing tastes better made out of old bread.

You can use a large plastic bag and keep adding to it instead of having several small ones . . . it's easier to find when needed. —Lee

Fire Destroys Freedom School In Mississippi

INDIANOLA, Miss. (AP) — Fire destroyed the "Freedom School" at Indianola early today hours after some 200 persons had attended a weekly civil rights mass meeting.

No one was in the one-story building but civil rights workers said records, books, equipment and school desks were destroyed.

Police and fire officials said they had no reports back yet from the fire four blocks from the Sunflower County Courthouse.

"The place was burning 30 minutes before I got there," said John Harris, Negro project director for the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO). "You could see the blaze from six blocks away."

Harris said it was the second fire at the school. He said last October a fire was confined to the front part of the building.

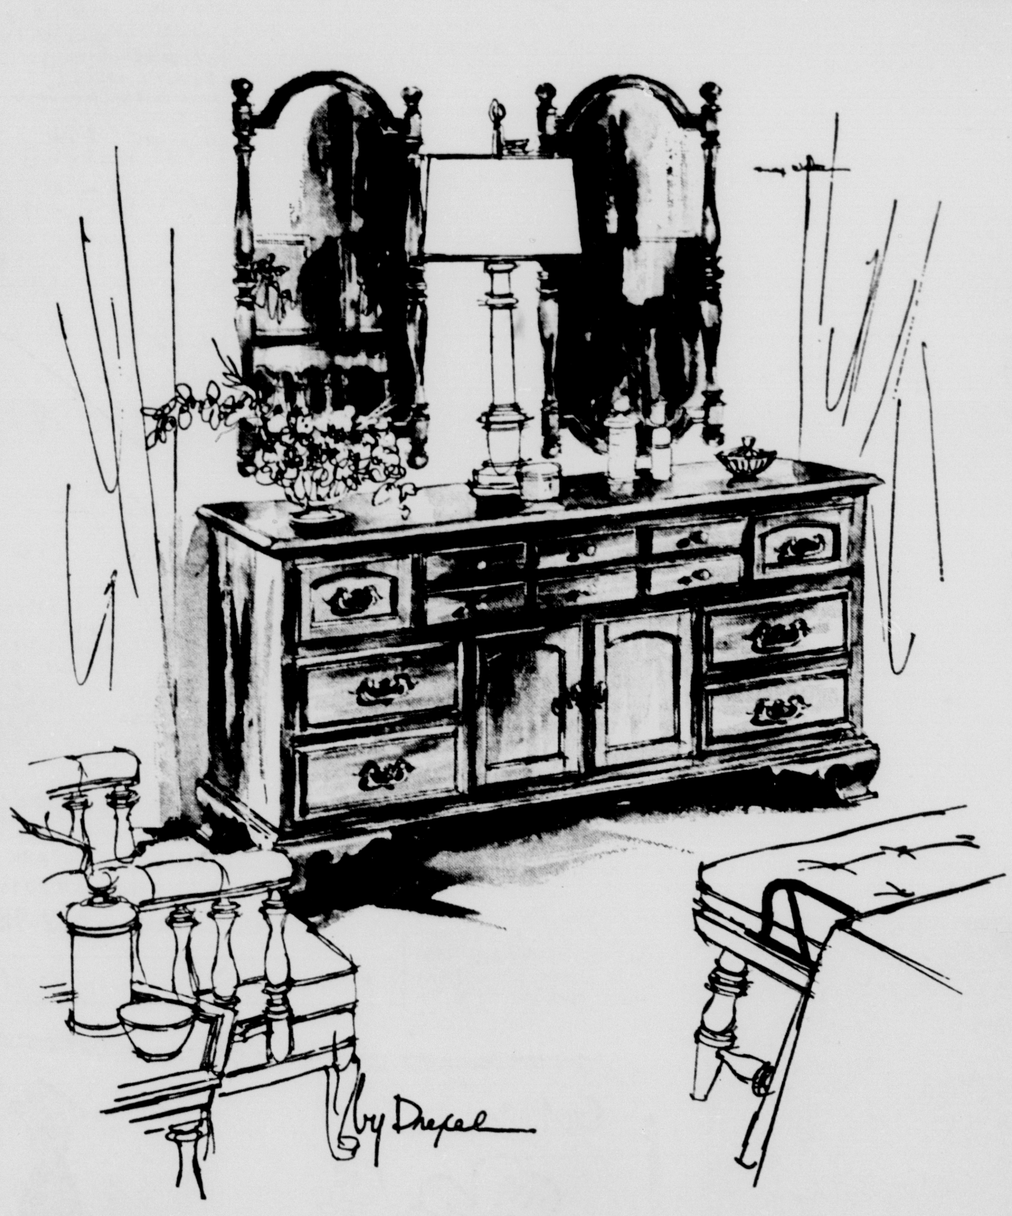
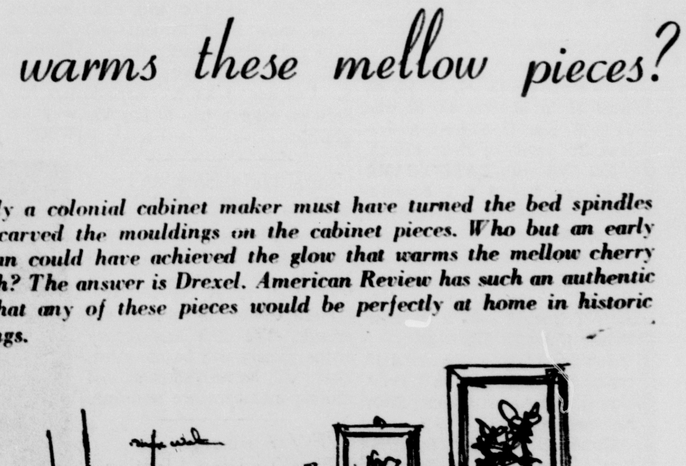
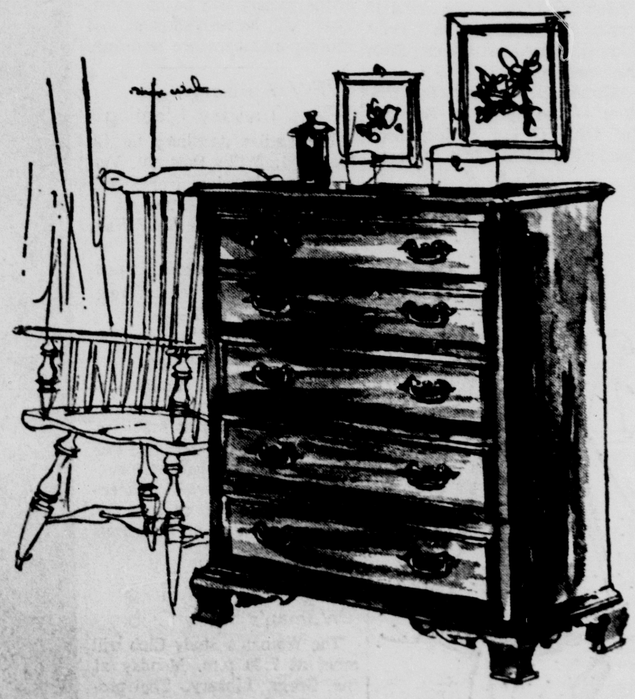
The school was used for voter registration classes and to instruct Negro pupils who had boycotted their own school during the past two weeks. They were protesting segregated schools and an all-white school board.



Who but an early colonial artisan could have achieved the glow that warms these mellow pieces?

Surely a colonial cabinet maker must have turned the bed spindles and carved the mouldings on the cabinet pieces. Who but an early artisan could have achieved the glow that warms the mellow cherry finish? The answer is Drexel. American Review has such an authentic air that any of these pieces would be perfectly at home in historic settings.





American Review, one of our latest collections by Drexel, encompasses many lovely and unusual pieces. Part of this charming group is in our south window, now. You can see it all, for living, dining and bedroom, among our room settings. Other famous names you'll recognize are Ethan Allen, Conant Ball, Ranch Oak, Pennsylvania House . . . to name a few.

Western Federal Savings to Build Million Dollar Building Here

By DAVE OSBORN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Western Federal Savings, the Rocky Mountain West's largest savings firm, has announced plans to build a million dollar office building at the northeast corner of Cascade Avenue and Kiowa Street, across from Neusteter's.

In announcing the proposed three-story office building, Western President A. J. Bromfield told the Gazette Telegraph that his firm had purchased and leased some 36,000 square feet of downtown real estate at that location from R.D. Von Engelin, a local real estate dealer.

The property involved in the purchase, according to VonEngeln, includes a 26,000 square-foot parking lot, at 115 N. Cascade. The lot, which was opened only a few months ago, covers the site of the former Perkins Motors location.

Another 10,500 square feet included in a purchase and long-term leasing agreement is now being used by three downtown merchants. They are: Quality Cleaners, Hutchinson Battery-Electrical Service and the Mission Bell Restaurant, at 2, 4 and 8 E. Kiowa St., respectively. None of these businesses will be immediately effected by Western's plans, as bank officials do not expect to start construction until late summer.

VonEngeln, who presently owns and manages the Majestic Building, at 7 E. Bijou St., has been involved in several large real estate transactions in the past few months. He recently bought and sold the old Wilbur's store to Bryan and Scott Jewlers for $200,000. Both transactions were made in the short span of one day.

The L-shaped site measures 100 feet on Kiowa Street, 320 feet along Cascade Avenue and 190 feet on the north end of the property, parallel to Kiowa Street.

Western Federal Savings, which is presently located locally at 707 N. Nevada Ave., will occupy most of the ground floor at the new million dollar facility. The remainder of the main floor and the second and third stories will be rented to tenants as "first-class, air conditioned office space," according to Bromfield.

Preliminary plans are now in the development stage, including the building design and the layout for an off-street parking facility. Completion of construction is expected by bank officials by the summer of 1966.

When asked what prompted Western's most recent expansion program, Bromfield replied, "This expansion program was prompted by the success of our Colorado Springs office at 707 N. Nevada Ave. and our confidence in the continued growth of the Pikes Peak area."

According to local bank Manager Jerry Bills, Western's outlet on Nevada Avenue has been one of the leading mortgage lenders in Colorado Springs since first opening its doors a little more than two years ago. Bills, who will be in charge of the new office, also cited his bank's success in the growth of local savings deposits.

Bromfield related, "We have done business with Colorado Springs people since my father, Alfred John Bromfield, opened the first office of Western Federal Savings in 1891. Our new office building and Colorado Springs branch will make us a permanent part of this rapidly expanding city."

Western Federal, with home offices in its own 24-story building at 17th and California Streets in Denver, is the largest financial institution of its kind in this part of the country. Assets now total more than $220 million.

The bank has other offices at Aurora, Lakewood, Wheatridge and the Cherry Creek area of Denver.

Cox Construction Plans $200,000 Office Building

Jim D. Cox, presdient and pRon Johnson, vice-president have announced plans by Cox Construction Co. to build a $200,000 office building at 308 W. Fillmore St. The building, to be built and owned by Cox Construction will include twelve office suites.

The company's officials have done extensive research work the past several months in order to provide an outstanding professional office. Surveys of existing office facilities indicated a lack of storage space or office supplies, seldom used records, files etc. and that many facilities provided no private office for the tenant — just open space. More than one half of the offices contacted felt the need for the occasional use o a large private conference room.

Another interesting fact was that many tenants were dissatisfied with the residential exterior design of their building as well as the quality and unregulated amount of heating and cooling. Another persistent short coming was the inadequate amount of off-street parking.

Many outstanding features are incorporated in both the exterior and the interior of the proposed building. The offices will be carpeted and will also have a Ceramaflex entry floor. For further comfort each office will have its own thermostat, soundproofed floors, walls, and ceilings, and its own private entrance.

Cox pointed out that twice as many parking spaces, as are required by city ordinance, have been planned. "Making the office easily accessible was a primary concern in the planning of our building," stated Cox. Contemporary design is a refreshing innovation in most office buildings bordering the city.

"We wanted to put together a professional building that was styled to appear more than just an over-sized house." To do this we worked with Walter Burgess, well known local architect, and he came up with a design of which we can all be proud, Cox added.

Other features of the building include a conference room that will be available to all offices for group meetings during the day or evenings.

It is large enough to comfortably accommodate a group of thirty persons. Also available for each office will be auxiliary storage space in the basement of the building.

The house that now stands on the property and is presently being used as the office of Cox Construction Co. will be razed. "Being able to have our office at this location for the past year was a definite factor in our decision to build our new building."

Fillmore is the main East-West arterial street in the North end of town. From this location you can get to the downtown area in seven minutes, anywhere in the East part of the city is within 10 minutes via North Circle Drive and the west part of town is also within minutes via the freeway and the Midland Expressway or Fillmore and Mesa Road.

Another factor that aided the decision to build was the new construction going on in the North area of town.

Heating & Plumbing Engineers have just moved into their $150,000 building at 407 W. Fillmore Pl., Oldach Building Products has completed an $80,000 addition to their building and the King Restaurant chain has announced plans for a $200,000 restaurant at 312 W. Fillmore St.

Paul Crozier, a recent addition to the Cox staff, will be in charge of securing leases for the new building. "We feel the building should appeal to a variety of business people, especially professional types," Crozier stated. The leases will range in price from $100 to $275 per month depending on the size of the office. More information can be obtained by contacting Crozier at Cox Construction Co.

Architect Walter Burgess has nearly completed plans and specifications for the building and construction should start within the next few weeks. Clifford Hamburg, general superintendent for Cox Construction Co., will be in charge of the actual construction of the building.

Current plans indicate an occupancy during July.

Furr's Will Operate Two More Stores Here in 1966

Furr's Supermarkets revealed this week that two new, complete - line supermarkets will be built in Colorado Springs, in conjunction with 10 - store expansion program in the Denver area. Announcement of Furr's palns was made by Bill Dent, Colorado division manager of Furr's.

The new local stores, to be located in the Pleasant Valley Shopping Center, at North 30th and King Streets, and at Eighth Street and Skyway Boulevard, are scheduled for completion in early and mid - 1966, respectively. Neither store will be developed by Furr's but will be operated under a lease agreement.

Development of the former market will be handled by Pleasant Valley Shopping Center, Inc., according to Furr's officials. Dan W. Howells, president of the Center, will supervise the construction operation.

The second store will be built under the direction of Frontier Savings Stamps, Inc., Preston Johnston, president. It will not be a part of a shopping center.

Both stores will contain approximately 17,000 square feet of floor space and will take an estimated six to nine months to complete.

The additional stores will bring the total of Furr's Supermarkets in Colorado Springs to six, with one cafeteria, in the Plaza Shopping Center. Of the expansion program, Dent said, "Colorado Springs is a vital and growing community, and Furr's intends to keep pace with its ever - increasing upsurge.

"Furr's expansion," he said, "is designed to offer increased food - shopping service, convenience and economy to a city which we're proud to be a part of."

Furr's expansion program for Denver will include a gigantic Family Center with more than 40,000 square feet of floor space, six super markets with total floor area of about 17,500 square feet each, and three cafeterias covering some 10,000 square feet apiece.

Furr's, now in its 61st year in the food business, has 70 super markets, 17 cafeterias, three warehouses, one packing (meat) plant, and is associated in various shopping center and trading stamp operations.

Roy Furr is the president of the chain operation and his son, Roy K. Furr, is vice - president in charge of the Colorado operation. Furr's operates super markets in Texas, New Mexico and Colorado and has cafeterias in those three states plus Arizona.

The first Colorado Springs Furr's store at 1645 S. Tejon St., was opened in early 1951, under the ownership of Furr Foods of America. In mid-1955, the second Furr Foods was opened at 2325 E. Platte Ave.

Then, through a merger, Furr Foods became Furr's Supermarkets, Inc., and opened a third store in the Springs, at 1818 Alpine Dr. A fourth store was opened later in 1958 at 3005 N. Alabama, in the Venetian Village Shopping Center.

There are now eight Furr's Supermarkets in Denver, which also serves as Colorado headquarters for the market chain.

New Magazine to Serve Rocky Mountain West

COLORADO, a new quarterly magazine published by Colorado Magazine, Inc., will serve as a showcase for the marketing center and tourist crossroads of the Rocky Mountain West.

According to Publisher Merrill G. Hastings Jr., the first edition, "Summer, 1965," will be on sale at newsstands across the state and at various nationwide terminal outlets on May 27. Subsequent editions will appear on newsstands at the start of Fall, Winter and Springs each year.

The magazine's first edition will have two printings, a Denver Regional Edition and a state-wide National Edition. The former will have 128 pages, while the latter will contain 112. The regional edition will contain supplementary editorial pages with special coverage of the Denver-Boulder - Colorado Springs area.

Bill G. Brenneman, former publicity director for the Colorado Tourist Bureau, has been named executive editor of the new publication. The magazine's editorial advisory committee reads like a page from "Who's Who in Colorado." Among the committee members are: Don McMahon, of Colorado Interstate Gas, Bill Grant, chairman of the Board of KOA Radio-TV, Frank S. Hoag Jr., owner of two Pueblo newspapers, and Roger D. Knight Jr., Board chairman of the Denver U. S. National Bank.

In a message contained inside the first edition of COLORADO, Hastings says, "An experienced staff of trained publishing specialists have been brought together to create, reproduce and market the new COLORADO magazine. Editorial format will focus attention upon people of Colorado, its industries, and outdoor sports and recreational facilities."

Emphasis in the new magazine, according to Hastings, will be placed on four - color photography of year-round scenic wonders.

Hastings says, "The foremost purpose of this publication is to be a great magazine for Colorado." He was formerly the publisher of SKIING Magazine, which was sold last March for $500,000 to a New York publishing firm.

According to Hastings, his magazine will have a circulation of more than 100,000 nation-wide.

The "Summer, 1965" edition will feature a cover photo in color of the Gateway Rocks, a view of Pikes Peak from the Garden of the Gods. Marshall Sprague, a nationally known writer from Colorado Springs, and Myron Wood, a local photographer, combine their talents in the quarterly's featured article — a detailed story of Colorado Springs.

Each edition will feature 16 pages of four-color photographs, highlighting Colorado's immense inventory of scenic attractions. Hastings hopes to do "as good as or better" than the now famous ARIZONA HIGHWAYS magazine.

Business Shows Year - End Burst Of Activity

A yearend burst of business activity fattened payrolls and bankrolls during December. According to Business Week's Measure of Personal Income, the nation's breadwinners collected $728-million more in income from all sources during December than in November (on an unadjusted basis). This outran the same month a year earlier by $2.4-billion.

Heavy overtime was common place, especially in steel, autos, and machinery. It took 325,000 more workers in retail trade and 79,000 more in wholesale trade to handle the volume of business in consumer and industrial markets.

Among the states, Kentucky scored highest in year-to-year gains during December with its 15.1 per cent increase. Much of the improvement traces to returning tsrikers at Ford Motor Co.'s Louisville plant where the effort to make up lost production shoved average weekly earnings up $12 over last year. And the national boom in electrical appliances helped generate overtime and bigger payrolls at General Electric's big plant in Louisville.

North Dakota alone suffered a loss over the year as December incomes fell 5.5 per cent below December, 1963. Moreover, the state finished the year with 1.9 per cent loss personal income than it drew a year earlier. This traces partly to continuing attrition in farm jobs, an important factor in a state where one of every four jobs is in agriculture.

The most severe blow, however, was the loss of 1,800 jobs in the state's numerically small but highly paid durable goods industries. Cutbacks in missile installation work cut hardgoods jobs in half and shaved average paychecks by $41.

Local Men Will Attend Chicago Trade Show

Vincent G. Johnson and Raymond E. Johnson, Owners of Johnson and Company, Colorado Springs, wil join more than 3,000 members of the specialty advertising industry during the Specialty Advertising Association's (SAA) semi-annual trade show at the Palmer House, Chicago, from March 16-20.

The show will be the largest in the specialty advertising industry's history. More than 300 suppliers of calendars, imprinted specialties and business gifts will have exhibits at the show.

Specialty advertising is one of the major advertising media in America. Estimated annual income from the industry is $500,000,000. Advertising specialties are defined as useful products imprinted with an advertising message. Advertisers distribute them without obligation to customers, prospects, employees and other publics they seek to reach with their message.

Occupying five floors of the Palmer House, the five-day show will feature numerous special events for specialty advertising men. Among these will be a Management Practices Conference held on March 18.

The theme of the conference will be "Penetrating the Profit Puzzle," an analysis of the factors which help the specialty advertising distributor operate his business more efficiently at lower cost.

The highlight of the show will be a membership banquet at which the announcement of the winners in SAA's seventh annual specialty advertising awards competition will be made. Making the presentation for the awards, which are divided into five categories, will be SAA President Stanley Linham. During the week, the association's new president and board members will also be announced.

Star Marine Set for Family Boat Show

Officials of Star Marine, 308 S. Chestnut St., have announced their annual All - Family Boat Show will be held from now through next Sunday.

The local Johnson dealership will feature the complete line of outboards, boats and accessories, offered by the parent company, during the week-long show.

Star Marine's annual event, held at its Chestnut Street location, officially opens the firm's boating season.

Dallas Man Named Estate Manager Here

Bruce Alger, former GOP Congressman, has been named to manage the Kissing Camel Estates, A. G. Hill, owner, has announced.

Hill said that he had entered into a mangement contract with Alger whereby he will manage all of the firms Colorado Springs interests.

Alger's attorney, Ralph Currie, said that the area to be managed will include a development consiting of homesites, a shopping center, schools, a church and other facilities.

Alger will also manage the Pikes Peak Industrial Park containing a number of industrial tracts, Currie said.

Chamber Board Set Stockholder Meeting Date

By action of the Board of Directors at yesterday's meeting, it was decided to hold a stockholders' meeting on May 14 at the Broadmoor International Center as a part of the observance of Armed Forces week.

Invitations will be handled by our Congressional Delegation in Washington for a top name speaker and the announcement of the speaker will be made as soon as it is firmed up. Armed Forces Week will be underway on Saturday, May 8 with the traditional parade and other outstanding activities to be announced soon by the Armed Forces Week Committee.

Plans underway and under consideration indicate that this will be the biggest and best observance of this important week ever held in the Pikes Peak Region.

Additional information on various activities will appear in Progress Report as plans are finalized.

New Theater Set for Highway 24

A $311,913 building permit has been issued by the City Inspections Department for a new Westland Theatre at 3201 E. Highway 24.

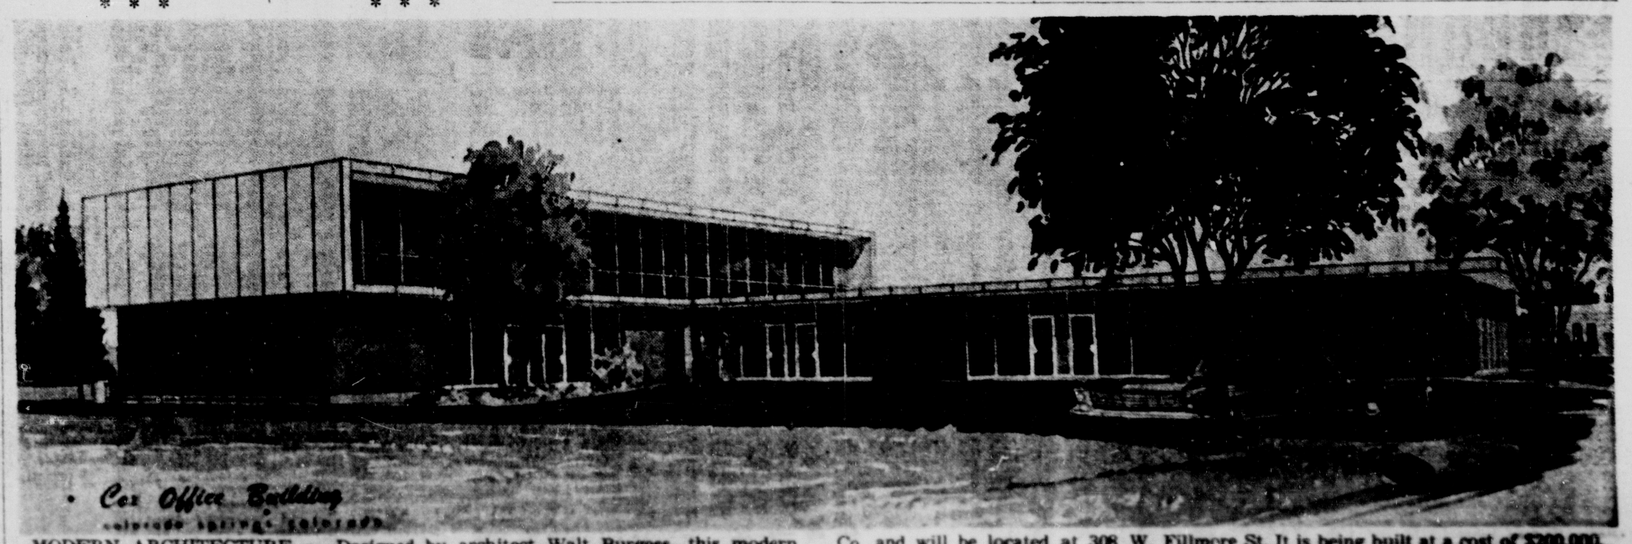
An additional $200,000 in permits were issued Monday and Tuesday for 15 new homes.



MODERN ARCHITECTURE — Designed by architect Walt Burgess, this modern structure will house 12 office suites. It will be built and owned by Cox Construction Co. and will be located at 308 W. Fillmore St. It is being built at a cost of $200,000, according to Jim D. Cox, company president. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

IBM to Build Huge Plant In Colorado

International Business Machines Corporation this week announced plans to build a manufacturing and engineering facility on property it owns on State Highway 119, the Boulder-Longmont diagonal road.

Thomas J. Watson Jr., IBM board chairman, made the announcement at a luncheon for area civic leaders.

He said site and design studies for the new facility will begin immediately. Present plans are to build a structure containing approximately 400,000 square feet.

Watson said it is expected that about 1,000 manufacturing and engineering employees will be located in the Boulder-Denver area by early 1966. It is anticipated that two-thirds of these employees will be recruited locally. The remainder will come from other IBM locations.

So that operations can begin prior to completion of the Boulder structure, IBM is leasing two temporary locations in Denver, one at 5200 E. Evans Ave. and the other at 5800 E. Jewell Ave. The leased space totals 155,000 square feet.

IBM officials said a temporary office will be opened in Boulder and its address will be announced as soon as possible. Employment interviews will be conducted at this location.

At the luncheon, Watson introduced the new plant's general manager, Richard J. Whalen, formerly general manager of the IBM plant in Kingston, N. Y.

"Boulder is a fine area to live and work in," Mr. Watson said. "It rates extremely high in the many factors we consider in deciding where to locate a new IBM plant. Its outstanding educationa, cultural, and recreational facilities make this area especially attractive to our company."

The new plant will be part of IBM's Systems Manufacturing Division. In the United States, the company now has nine product manufacturing facilities, in addition to six data procesing card plants.

The Boulder plant will produce portions of the company's IBM System-360, a comprehensive computer system with models ranging from very small to the largest manufactured. IBM officials said that sales of the new system continue to exceed what the company expected at the time of announcement.

The IBM Boulder property consist of 600 acres located five and one-half miles northeast of the city. It is adjacent to the Boulder Research and Industrial Development Cam-

IBM's Systems Manfacuting Division now operates plants in four New York State locations: Endicott, Poughkeepsie, East Kisnkill and Kingston. Others are in Burlington, Vt.; Rochester, Minn.; and San Jose, Calif.

Tile Mart Will Hold Grand Opening Today

Mickey Cervantes, who started a tile - linoleum business in his garage 14 years ago, manages the fourth in a line of businesses based upon offering the most complete tile service available.

Merchandise sold by Tile Mart includes asbestos, vinyl, ceiling, mosaics, ceramics and carpeting for the home, including various household fixtures.

Cervantes' Tile Mart, located at 2342 E. Highway 24 in two buildings covering about 3,400 square feet, has been open for about three weeks, but holds its grand opening today.

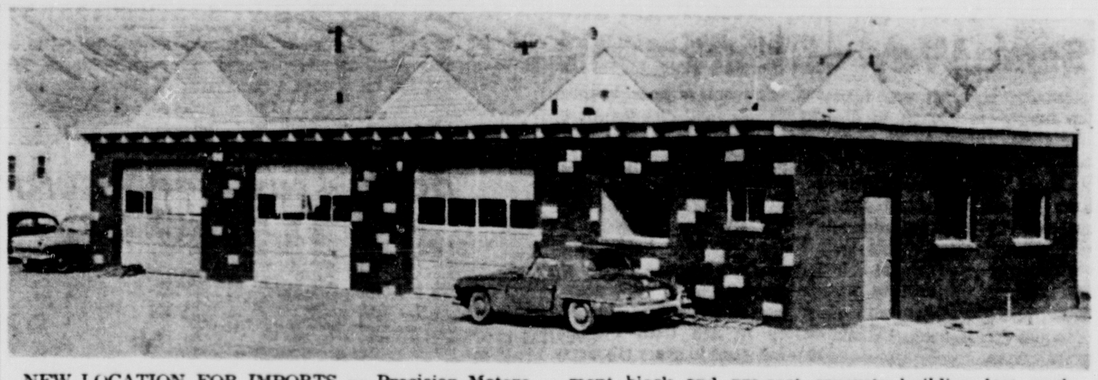
Four office workers and eight mechanics make up the staff at Tile Mart. Cervantes said he employed about eight men in 1949 when he sold merchandise from a garage at 719 E. Fountain.

For four years he managed a business at 3409 N. Prospect and for about six years Cervantes operated a shop at 412 S. Tejon St.

Cervantes' merchandise line has increased 10,000 to 15,000 by the move to E. Highway 24. Tile Mart plans to divide counter sales and tile contracting to offer a more diversified brand of service.

Door prizes at today's grand opening include mosaics for coffee tables, vinyl flooring and asbestos and floor cleaner.

Tile Mart's grand opening will be from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Regular hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. six days a week, Monday through Saturday.



NEW LOCATION FOR IMPORTS — Precision Motors is now housed in a new 2,100 square foot building, located at 2702 N. Nevada Ave. Formerly located at 1608 S. Nevada Ave., Precision Motors moved to the new cement block and pre-cast concrete building last week. Most of the construction work was handled by Jim Arnott Masonry Contractor. Precision Motors Moves Into Nevada Ave. Spot Precision Motors, Colorado Springs' oldest independent foreign car garage, has moved into its new automotive center at 2702 N. Nevada Ave., just northwest of the railroad overpass. It was formerly located at 1608 S. Nevada.

Owner Werner W. Kleffner and his staff of two mechanics moved their tools into the charcoal grey cinder-block and pre-cast concrete building two weeks ago.

The new building, although not much larger in area than the old, actually affords Precision Motors an increase in space as it was built expressly for automotive maintenance. Because of its design, the new building houses stalls for six imported cars as opposed to four stalls at the company's former location.

Built chiefly by Jim Arnott Masonry Contractor, the 2,100 square foot building took some three months to erect. Some of the interior has yet to be finished.

Precision Motors, with the advent of its new facility, now has an ample parts department, with a stock of the most frequently used parts of all imported makes. All mechanical work is handled, from tune-ups to overhauls, on all makes and models of foreign cars.

Kleffner and mechanic Klaus Galles have both served three and a half year apprenticeships at German automotive factories. Kleffner with Mercedes-Benz and Galles with Volkswagen. The garage's other mechanic, Ray Holmes, has served his apprenticeship while working at Precision Motors.

One of the main features of the new building is a trolley and hoist which runs the entire 70 foot length of the garage. It is used expressly for lifting engines out of cars.

Besides the general repair work on all foreign cars, Precision Motors also handles some of the local sports racers, setting them up for competition.

Precision Motors first opened its doors in 1958 and was first located on South Eighth Street. It moved to its South Nevada Avenue location in 1959 and stayed there for six years. Precision began work on Volkswagens before there was a franchise dealership in the city.

Kleffner lives with his wife and two children at 1502 Dorchester Dr.

NEEDS NEW LUCK

MUSKEGON HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Patrolman Donald E. Bedwell, 26, was: Attacked and beaten by a teen-age gang when he sought to break up a fight; was hospitalized when a police cruiser was in an accident; fell on ice and sprained his ankle; and tangled with a holdup suspect who nearly pulled him out a second-story window. So, Bedwell turned in his badge, No. 13, and asked for a new number. He now wears Badge No. 17.

Safety Record Shows Rise

Preliminary reports from the American Gas Association indicate that the nation's gas utility and pipeline company employes will set new on-the-job safety records for the 17th consecutive year.

On the basis of reports from 83 companies representing more than 38 per cent of all gas industry employes, the disabling injury frequency rate in 1964 was reduced to 4.92 disabling accidents per million manhours worked. This is a 5.7 per cent decrease from the 1963 level of 5.22.

The severity rate also decreased from the 1963 rate of 417 days lost per million manhours worked to 259 days in 1964. This is a 37.9 per cent reduction.

While the accident frequency rate for 1964's fourth quarter was 5.16, unchanged from the corresponding quarter a year ago, A.G.A. notes that the fourth quarter accident severity rate — 240 days lost per million manhours — was 12.1 per cent lower than the same quarter in 1963.

Local Companies Hold Power Tool Showing

The Crissey-Fowler Lumber Co., at 117 Vermijo Ave., and the Biggs Kurtz Wholesale Co., of Grand Junction, recently served as co-hosts at a local showing of Black and Decker and DeWalt power tools.

Display and demonstrations of the various power tools produced by the two nationally known companies were held at Wasson High School for the benefit of the Pikes Peak Industrial Arts Assoc. Kenneth Kittinger and Bob Upson, both representatives of Black and Decker-DeWat, demonstrated and explained the latest model power tools, their uses, new advances and safety features.

Industrial arts teachers attending the local power tool showing were treated to lunch at the Hackney House, midway through the day-long presentation.

According to Ray Meyers, of Crissey-Fowler Lumber Co., this marks one of the few times his firm has had an opportunity to "teach the teachers."

More People Covered by Insurance

Individual and family health insurance policies issued by insurance companies protect nearly 15 million more people today than they did 10 years ago, according to the Health Insurance Institute.

The Institute said that in 1953, companies provided individual programs to 23,475,000 Americans; in 1963, the number protected that year totaled 38,065,000, an all - time high.

The increase represents a rise of 62 per cent over the 10-year span, the Institute said.

In insurance terminology, the term "individual" when applied to health care protection, includes family type policies. It is a type of protection distinct from "group" type of insurance usually obtained at places of employment. (A total of 60,547,000 persons were protected under insurance company group programs at the end of 1963).

The Institute reported that individual health insurance coverages are playing an increasingly important role in the financing of health care in the United States.

A total of 821 insurance companies issued individual policies in 1963, an increase of 26 per cent over the number of companies providing this protection in 1958, and a 68 per cent growth over the 490 companies issuing individual policies in 1953.

Following is a breakdown of the various individual health insurance coverages by insurance companies in 1963:

Of the 38,065,000 persons with individual hopital expense protection, 33,745,000 also had surgical coverage, 11,884,000 had regular medical coverage and 3,742,000 also had major medical programs. Loss of income coverage under individual policies protected 15,182,000 at the end of 1963.

Total benefits paid out by insurance companies under individual policies came to $949 million in 1963, the Institute said. Ten years earlier the benefits paid total came to $410 million.

The most important characteristic of individual health insurance, the Institute said, is its flexibility in relation to personal economy. It is sometimes referred to as the protection which can be "tailor made" to the needs of the policyholder.

Florence Issues 16 Building Permits in Feb.

A total of 16 building permits were issued by the city of Florence during the month of February with an estimated valuation total of $6,700, it was reported to the city council this week by Carl Meyers, city building inspector.

Of the permits issued, three were for residential and four were commercial.

Five contractors were licensed and bonded during the month.

Myers reported that he attended one regional planning commission meeting and helped go over the Florence industrial park with planning commission officials.

He surveyed and drew up specifications for a proposed sewer extension on Frazier avenue between Seventh and Eighth Streets and assisted the county at Memorial park in the hauling and leveling of soil for the park area.

It has been estimated that about 7,000 yards of dirt is being hauled into the Memorial park area by city and county equipment from Oak Creek, where the stream bed is being widened.

Intent, Performance Should Head Same Way

By SAM CAMPBELL

A salesman for a major life insurance company went out in the country to sell a policy. When he was talking, the farmer began to harness a team of mules. He hitched one mule to the front of the wagon in the customary fashion. But he hooked the other to the backend of the wagon so that the two animals stood tail facing tail.

The salesman was aghast. He hastily stuffed the proffered policy in an inside coat pocket. "W-w-why did you do that?" he inquired.

"I learned that from a life insurance company back East," the farmer drawled.

The salesman backed up to a hay rake and sat down dumbfounded. "I don't know what you mean," he said.

"Well," said the farmer, "I see by the papers where Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. is sponsoring a series of lectures on economics. That shows the company wants the people to know something about economics."

"Yes," said the salesman, "I follow you so far. Please go on."

The first lecture," the farmer continued, "was given by a fellow named Robert V. Roosa, who used to be under secretary of the Treasury."

"You are correct there," the salesman admitted.

"This man Roosa spent the last 20 years of his life either working for the Federal Reserve or the Treasury," the farmer said. "When he left, the finances of the country were in shambles — inflation rampant, taxes high, gold gone."

"So???"

"So I wonder what this fellow Roosa can possibly teach the rest of us about economics. The least that Connecticut Life could do is put a success on the stump, but. . ."

"That's hardly fair," the salesman exploded, "the Washington mess is too big. You can't blame all that on one man. You have to go by what Mr. Roosa himself said."

"I did," the farmer answered. "Next day the paper said Roosa said 'No one, or surely a scattered few, would challenge today the need for a powerful central bank in our kind of market economy!' "

The farmer turned from adjusting the cropper, and looked the salesman in the eye. "The strong central bank idea went out with Andrew Jackson, and came back in with Woodrow Wilson. Somebody always is trying to put a bit in the mouth of the economy. You give me one good reason why this country needs a strong central bank any more than it needs a strong central grocery store?"

"No, I can't, the salesman conceded, "but that one false step hardly is enough to disqualify Mr. Roosa as an economist."

"Okay, then, in his lecture Roosa said "the federal debt must to be sure, continue (alongside all other outlets for the nation's savings) to meet the test of investor acceptance.' "

"Sounds reasonable," said the salesman.

"Sounds like a lie," the farmer retorted. "The federal debt doesn't 'continue' to do any such thing. Insurance company investment is supposed to be smart money, but if you look in your own Life Insurance Fact Book, you will find that holdings of U. S. securities by life insurance companies dropped from 21 per cent of assets in 1950 to 4 per cent in 1963."

The salesman blinked, the farmer went on. "As a matter of fact, take the tax shelter off government bonds and they wouldn't have any market acceptability at all."

The insurance man saw he wasn't getting any place. He rose from the hay rake and dusted off his pants. "What does all this have to do with hitching up two mules so that they pull tail-end to?"

"One of these mules is named Noble Intent," replied the farmer, "the other is called Faithful Performance. I think I would get better results if I hitched them both to the front of the wagon like I used to. But I aim to find out what the insurance company is up to when it has a good idea pulling in one direction and the other head pointed the opposite way."

United Air Lines Files for New Joint Fares

United Air Lines has filed for new joint fares between Colorado Springs and Chicago or Los Angeles, via Denver on United's economy service.

The new low fares apply to United's economy flights between Chicago and Los Angeles, and Denver, connecting to or from flights between Denver and Colorado Springs by Braniff, Central, Frontier or Continental Airlines.

The fares, filed to be effective on March 26, are the same as the existing economy fares between Chicago-Denver and Denver-Los Angeles.

National Shows Large Gain in Air Passengers

With expanded service to support Florida's winter tourist season, National Airlines boarded 263,250 passengers in February, a gain of 31 per cent over the month a year ago, J. Dan Brock, Vice - President, Traffic and Sales, reported.

With six new Boeing 727 jets in service in February, National is providing the greatest frequency of flights in its history to and from Florida, showing gains in every city served by the airline.

In comparison to February of last year, revenue passenger miles increased 30 per cent to 204 milllion. National operated with a load factor 54 per cent for the month this year, compared to 51 per cent for the month a year ago.

National has now received delivery of another 727 jet to be placed in service in March. The remainder of the 10 727's National ordered will be delivered next fall.

Lyle Brison Mtr. Moves to New Location

Lyle Brison Motor Co. has moved to 432 E. Pikes Peak Ave., from its previous location at 744 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

Brison says the reason for his move was simply that he "thought this would be a better location. It's closer to downtown," he added.

Although his sales area has been lessened by the move, he has gained the use of a combination office - garage facility at the rear of the 9,000 square-foot lot. Now, the motor company will be able to recondition cars on the spot.

Brison's present stock of 25 cars includes many makes and models of both late model and older cars. He specializes in "mostly medium priced cars."

The move comes after nearly nine years in the auto business. Brison started with Daniel's Motors and advanced to ownership of this first lot on Pikes Peak Avenue. He owned that lot for more than two years.

The Lyle Brison Motor Co. deals in both the purchase and sales of used cars. Trades are accepted on any purchases.

Detroit Suburb Police Force Is Integrated

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — Officer Kenneth Thweatt has integrated the Royal Oak Township police force.

Thweatt, 23, is the only white officer on the 19-man police force of the Detroit suburb. All other officers, including Police Commissioner James Anderson, are Negroes.

"I don't see any reasn for all the fuss," Thweat said. "I haven't had any trouble."

Said Anderson about his new man: "He's done a wonderful job. I haven't had any complaints. I think he'll be one of our better officers."

Geisler Gives Ad Program at Root Beer Meet

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Geisler, formerly of Colorado Springs, attended the 15th International A & W Root Beer Convention, in Chicago where Geisler presented the 1965 advertising and promotional program for the California based firm.

In presenting his $250,000 program, Geisler emphasized the marketing facts pertaining to the war baby explosion, whereby people with goods and services adaptable to today's young market are fortunate because war babies are back with us as young adults.

Geisler was born in Colorado Springs and educated at Colorado College.

He is now vice president of Botsford, Constantine and McCarty in Los Angeles. The agency has offices in San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, New York and Tokyo. It is the third largest agency on the coast with billings of approximately $13,000,000. Accounts include Olympia Beer, Japan Airlines and Pendleton Mills.

The Geislers are visiting their relatives, Geisler's mother, Eva W. Geisler and brother, J. W. Geisler who live in Colorado Springs.

The A & W Root Beer Convention, which the Geislers attended attracted more than 1,300 owners and operators. The company is the largest and oldest franchised chain of drive-ins in the world, with more than 2,400 units, here and abroad.

Dr. William S. Pitts, according to tradition, composed the song "The Little Brown Church."

Transit Company Offers Suggestions to Movers

It is expected that between 8 and 8½ million Americans will be involved in a long-distance (interstate) move some time during 1965.

For many this will be their first experience.

For many it will be a happy occasion, connected perhaps with a new job, a job promotion, or long-awaited retirement.

For some though the happiness of the occasion will be dampened by the leave-taking or perhaps by problems connected with the move itself — problems not normal to daily living.

Because these moving-day problems can and do arise, there is urgent need for information that will help the general public to avert the pitfalls, the disappointments and the misunderstandings that sometimes result when people move.

Aero Mayflower Transit Company, long-distance mover which last year moved the household possessions of about 125,000 familes, offers these suggestions to help you avoid these pitfalls, to help you keep the cost of moving down and to make sure that you complete your move in an orderly, efficient manner:

1. Understand that an estimate is not a firm bid. Don't be misled by a "low bid." An estimate has no bearing on the computation of the final charges. Rates are based on tariffs filed by the movers with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Each mover must charge on the basis of the rates he has on file. He can't give discounts

Long-distance charges are computed on the basis of mileage and weight, plus accessorial services ordered and performed. The moving van is weighed on a certified scale before your goods are loaded and weighed again after they're loaded.

You can help the moving company salesman arrive at an accurate estimated weight (on which he will estimate the cost of your move) by calling attention to the contents of the closets, attics, basements and garages. You fool only yourself when you try to hide something from the estimator.

You pay for what you move, not for what you said you were going to move. Underestimating is the source of many customer complaints. Disreputable movers engage in this practice as a means of getting your order. Legitimate operators make every effort to give an accurate estimate, but can't do so if the shipper fails to declare everything he or she is planning to move.

2. Know the extent of the mover's liability. The mover's liability on interstate moves, under present regulations, is limited to 30 cents per pound per article. In other words, if a chair valued at $200 and weighing only 20 pounds is lost or completely destroyed in shipment, you could recover a maximum of $6. However, you may purchase additional protection or in some instances, transit insurance through the mover. This serves to extend the limit of the mover's liability to the full valuation of your goods. Cost of this comprehensive protection is about 50 cents for each $100 of declared value of your goods. You must declare the full actual value of your entire shipment if you want to be fully protected. If you place the value of your goods at only 50 per cent of their actual worth, you will be covered for only 50 per cent of their actual worth, you will be covered for only one-half of damage that may occur.

3. Get rid of things you won't need in your new home. This doesn't mean a complete housecleaning. But this is a good time to take inventory of what you have. Discard, give away or sell any items you won't be using in your new home. This will help to reduce the weight of your shipment, and the cost as well.

4. Don't pack things you aren't qualified to pack. Packing services are extra, but for dishes, china, glassware and other breakables, the cost is worth it. If you choose to pack these things yourself, the mover cannot be responsible for breakage. Grocery cartons are not as sturdy as the china boxes used by long-distance movers. The cushioning materials the movers use are superior to anything you may have on hand.

5. Dismantle, disconnect and remove articles attached to your property. This includes television antennas, hi-fi and stereo sets, window fans and air conditioners, curtain and drapery fixtures, wall clocks, etc. If the mover has to do these things, it will cost you extra.

6. Discuss the handling of your home freezer with the mover. Generally, if your move is less than 150 miles and will be completed within 24 hours, there is no problem, providing the freezer is operating at normal deep-freeze temperature when the movers arrive. If the move is more than 150 miles or will require more than 24 hours to complete, the mover will not be responsible for the condition of the food contents. If yours is a move of several hundred miles, it's a good idea to use up the freezer food in advance to avoid waste or spoilage.

7. Make your own arrangements to move plants and pets. Interstate movers will transport neither. Many states will not permit you to bring plants into the state, even in your own car. In any event, don't wait till the mover comes before you decide what to do.

8. Deal with a reputable mover. Investigate the mover's reputation and reliability BEFORE you sign the order. This can be done easily by checking reference or by making inquiry of your local Better Business Bureau. Be sure the mover has representation in the city to which you are moving. You'll want the same expert handling your furniture is unloaded as it receives when it's being loaded. If your furniture is to be placed in storage, inspect the warehouse personally if you can. Long-distance moving companies such as Mayflower will not grant agency franchises unless the local company has proper and adequate facilities

Roy's Used Cars Company Set For Opening

Owned and operated by Roy Baldwin, the new lot opened last week. Baldwin now has more than 20 cars on the 11,000 square foot lot, ranging from 1957 through 1960 models.

Baldwin, a 60 - year resident of Colorado Springs, is also owner of Baldwin Tree Surgery, which operates at the same address as the used car outlet. His tree suregry firm is now in its 36th year of service to Colorado Springs residents.

Business at the new lot will include both the buying and selling of used cars, according to Baldwin. Trades will be accepted on any used car purchase.

All cars on Roy's lot will be completely reconditioned before sale. "There won't be any junk sold," says Baldwin. Guarantees will depend on the age of the automobile sold.

Willard Scott has been hired as a salesman on the new lot.

Baldwin and his wife, Fannie, live at 432 W. Pikes Peak Ave. They have two children.

Rock Island Men Attend Special Sales Seminar

Sales representatives of the Rock Island Lines are participating in comprehensive seminars designed to make them better salesmen, increase revenue for the railroad and to serve the public more efficiently, Albert F. Hatcher, general manager-freight sales, announced today.

"These seminars are unique in that they are being conducted by a professional sales motivation team working with our own officers," says Hatcher.

Sales promotion meetings have been a continuing part of the Rock Island's sales program in the past, but this is the first time a so - called "outside" counselling organization has been invited to assist salesmen in developing group thinking and action on two specific goals; better salesmanship and more productive use of time and effort, Hatcher pointed out.

"I believe the Rock Island is one of the first, if not the first, railroad to use this technique in its sales planning," Hatcher added.

Fred J. Meyer, Rock Island's director of personnel, has arranged sales conferences at Des Moines, Kansas City, Chicago, Ft. Worth, Memphis, San Francisco, and New York with approximately 150 sales representatives participating in the three - day seminars.

U.S. Anti-Submarine Weapon Is Developed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has in production the first U.S. antisubmarine weapon capable of coping with a high-performance nuclear submarine.

Vice Adm. Charles B. Martell told the House Armed Services Committee Friday the weapon, a deep-diving, self-guided torpedo, is of outstanding importance.

Martell said the Mark 46 torpedo can be launched by surface ships or aircraft.

He told a closed hearing Russia has the largest submarine force in the world, "the result of an effort unparalleled in magnitude in the history of peacetime submarine construction."

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

For Reason. For Truth. For Profits.

Time and again we have explained, editorially and otherwise, that our attitude is positive rather than negative. But, human memory being what it is, perhaps the time has come to once again set forth our views and possibly, in the doing, convince some of our critics that we are not afflicted with "againstitis."

In the past we have been depicted as being against: education, streets, roads and highways, parks and other recreational facilities, home building, safety measures of all kinds, full employment, charity and compassion; in fact, all manner of improvement and human progress. You name it. Our detractors have said or will say that we are against it.

Matter of fact, as we have consistently maintained, we are FOR all of these things. We are, however, AGAINST theft, coercion and regimentation in all their various forms and in any degree whatsoever. And we make no distinction in whether they be committed by the one, by the tens or by the majority. We suspect, too, that it is this, rather than the straw men continually being set up and knocked down, to which the more vicious of our critics really object.

In the matter of education, it is our conviction that children cannot be educated in a government controlled compulsory school system. Trained and indoctrinated? Yes! Educated? No! The growing crime rate, the increasing tendency to cheat, the wide-spread ignorance of moral values and economic truths, and our accelerating plunge into socialism are all cited in support of our oft repeated beliefs in this respect. Children cannot be taught truth and honesty in a system based upon theft; nor can they be expected to acquire a respect for property — the basis of freedom — in such a system..

True education, the voluntary, non-coercive kind, we give both our moral and financial support. And we never cease to be amazed that the same people who scream that the free market place cannot or will not provide schools and teachers are the first to vilify and attempt to discredit the very people (creators of Freedom School and Rampart College, for example) who are doing precisely that which their attackers said could not or would not be done. Frankly, we are not impressed by such "reasoning."

We believe, too, that a newspaper with the courage to print the unadorned truth qualifies as an educational institution in the truest sense in which the term can be applied. Conversely, a paper which takes its signals from union bosses and the entrenched bureaucracy should not properly be called a "newspaper"; "propaganda organ" would be nearer the mark.

Streets, roads and highways, we are FOR. We are AGAINST their ownership or control by politicial government, and see no logical reason why they could not be provided by private enterprise as with other services created and used by man.

Parks and other recreational facilities, we are also FOR. But we believe they should be paid for by those, and only those, who use them or by voluntary contributions. And this means private ownership and control by the profit and loss discipline of the laws of the market place; the "go" or "no go" of the dollar-and-cent votes of the using public. We see no reason, either practical or moral, why a widow struggling to make ends meet should be taxed to provide a park or golf course for the strolling golfing person of means.

The expense of building and acquiring homes should again, be borne by those who live in or otherwise benefit from such construction. Governmental invervention in this area with guaranteed loans and other types of socialistic subsidies by which one man is robbed for another man's gain is wrong. We are AGAINST it. Homes, we are FOR; paid for by those who use them.

Safety measures, we are also FOR; as decided upon and paid for by those who have a need for them. Was it private enterprise or government that invented, developed and made available the four-wheel brake, the auto horn, the lock on your door and the fire extinguisher?

Full employment (jobs)? We are in the business of providing these (as a by-product of our search for profits), limited only by confiscatory taxes, stultifying bureaucratic red-tape, and our ability to continue improving our services to the consuming public. If the government would only get off our backs, we venture to say we might ease the unemployment "problem" somewhat by creating more jobs for those willing to work — and produce. Jobs, we are FOR! Unemployed people, we are told, buy few papers and less advertising space. Profits are made from sales. And sales are made by serving our customers. The Gazette Telegraph, despite union and governmental harassment, "is a profit-making organization. It was intended that way — and it IS."

And when it comes to charity and compassion for our fellowman, we believe ourselves to be as charitable and compassionate as the next. We believe, however, that both charity and compassion should be preceded by understanding and tinctured with caution. Misplaced pity can weaken and destroy; even kill. And "charity" by force and theft, as in the case of the current so called "foreign aid," is not charity at all, but legalized stealing on a gigantic, universal scale. Observe and reflect upon the daily headlines; some of our foreign aid chickens are coming home to roost.

And lastly, we are FOR all manner of improvement and real human progress. But we are also of the conviction that these cannot occur under governmental coercion and regimentation. To improve, to make real progress, man must be free; free to try, free to fail, free to try again and, perhaps, succeed. All the progress made by man down through the centuries has been due, not to government, but in spite of it. In the natural order of things: "Freedom IS!" Rights ARE! Political government AIN'T!

Typing — Boon to Learning

Any idea that may help children learn more, learn it faster and like it is worth looking into in this day of "exploding knowledge."

Back in 1959, three universities — Columbia University Teachers College, Boston University and the University of Illinois — tested what effect typewriters might have on the elementary school students.

With a grant from a typewriter manufacturing firm which provided manual portable machines, studies were conducted with 900 fourth and fifth grade pupils in 36 classrooms in seven cities. The results showed that the kids took to the typewriters eagerly, that the quality and quantity of their work improved and that their reading, spelling and vocabulary achievement was greater than that of pupils without typewriters.

A recent follow-up study of some of the children who were matched with a control group of nontyping children indicates that this generally superior achievement has been maintained over the past five years.

One surprising bonus that may allay the fears of traditionalists: Handwriting of the student actually improved because of the typing experiment.

Another Nail in the Coffin of Liberty?

Another bill is about to be introduced in the Colorado State Legisalture that, if enacted, will make it illegal for any community of less than 50,000 inhabitants to incorporate as a town or city if "50 per cent of the area is within a mile of another incorporated area," to quote State Representative John Mackie, of Longmont.

We haven't seen a copy of the new bill, but it will apparently also erase the "contiguity" clause in the "annexation" bill number 122 which is presently being considered by the "solons" in the state house. If it will not remove the contiguity clause, why is it effective a mile from an incorporated area?

We wonder why 50,001 people should have more rights than a mere 50,000. But, we suppose, they had to draw a line somewhere, otherwise Denver could reach out 70 miles and take in Colorado Springs, and don't think she hasn't been dreaming about it. Love's 100 man commission has already suggested that she should take in Castle Rock.

When the strip city develops, and it is developing, Denver figures on being the heart of the megalopolis.

One by one our rights as individuals and as communities, are being whittled away by the knives of the political planners. When the politicians in Washington miss one, their state and local counterparts are quick to pounce on it. They are doing it "for our own good," and they continually din in our ears that we are living in a "free country," even as our freedoms vanish in the hot air of political promises.

STILL JUST LOOKIN'

We Need More Entrepreneurs

By OSCAR COOLEY

In the rapidly growing town of Greenwood, Indiana, live two brothers, Donald and Richard Thompson, who are in the plastering business. Taught by their father to apply plaster with a trowel they built a thriving business. They are working entrepreneurs; they both get the contracts and carry them out.

A few years ago a new method — "dry wall" — came in, and being cheaper it threatened to compete the house plasterers out of business. Far from succumbing to this new blast of competition, the Thompson brothers undertook a still newer method: spray application of plaster.

This kind of wall, called "Tufcon" and provided by the U.S. Gypsum Company, goes on much faster than the old kind. In fact, a job which once took ten days can now be done in two. Also, the wall is said to be so tough as to be "child-proof."

But applying Tufcon is not easy. It has to be done just right, and it necessitates a considerable investment in machinery. As George E. Harper, editor of U.S. Gypsum's "Red Topics," writes:

"We have found that use of these products is limited to the live wires in the industry, those who are not bound by the tradition that plaster must be put on the conventional way."

Thus, many plasterers have scorned the new method and are still depending on the trowel to compete with dry-wall. But the Thompson brothers foresaw the bright possibilities in Tufcon and pioneered in its use to their profit.

This exemplifies the entrepreneur at his best. He is alert to the new and better way. He is ready to put himself out to learn new skills. He has the nerve to risk his savings by investing in new and promising but unproven capital equipment.

But to do this he must be his own man. He must be self-employed, not a wage worker. No one has promised to pay him a certain income; he gets what he can make. There is no featherbed in the form of a labor contract which he can fall back upon.

We greatly need more entrepreneurs. There is an overabundance of people who want to work under the sheltering umbrella of a wage or salary contract, but all too few who are willing to weather the blizzard of competition.

An area in which the need for entreprenturs is especially great is the oil business. Every major oil company complains of the scarcity of dealers, that is, of filling station operators. Such operators customarily must make a capital investment they must forego certainty of income; they do not work for a specified wage or salary but for profit, that is, for all they can make from serving the motoring public.

A good example is Arthur J. Foster, Fairfield, Connecticut, whose story is told in "Petroleum Today." For nine years Art worked in the filling station of his father-in-law, who taught him the know-how and the enthusiasm of the entrepreneur. Now he has his own station, with six helpers, three full-time, three part-time. It's open 102 hours a week, and the boss is there half that time. Each and every customer is greeted with a smile and sent on his way with a "thank you." To this young up-and-coming entrepeneur, such a policy "makes good business sense."

Considering the increase of travel — over 8,000,000 new automobiles were added last year to the many millions already on the road — this would seem to be an attractive business. However, there are vacant filling stations everywhere crying for men with enterprise spirit to take them over. Many are in excellent locations.

This situation points up the scarcity of independent men in these days. It underlines the little realized fact that the great economic problem of today is not so much "unemployment" as it is lack of man power.

If a young man or woman wants to be sure of living a life of usefulness, let him plan to be an entrepreneur. There is no dearth of employment in that field.

Further, it is challenging. One does not merely put in time for so much an hour. Advancement depends not on pleasing a superior but on ones own efforts and abilities.

The Local Scene

Middlecliffe Again

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I have just received an unsigned letter from Detroit, Michigan, about, of all things, Middlecliffe, Colorado, the ghost town that never was. For some reason the author wanted to remain anonymous. There wasn't even a return address on the envelope.

But, since it adds to the history of a disputed place, I will quote the letter here. It is typewritten, but I presume the writer is a woman because of what she says in the letter, which follows:

"I had an issue of the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph given to me a month or so ago and in it was your article about Middlecliffe. I agree, I never heard of the place, but the buildings were there.

"As a child I lived in Silvercliffe and remember the one building very well. I went there several times with another youngster to visit her grandmother, who was in charge. And 'Heartbreak Hotel' it could well have been, as it was the County Home, or Poor House, as they called it then. The other building was a court house or some such county building.

"Sorry, but the young lady was wrong. As I lived there when it was in use, let us say about 40 years ago. I shall never forget the place, as 'The Poor House' made a real impression on my young mind.

"The paper was given to me by a former Cripple Creek resident."

So, there we have a new and added interest, but still no Middlecliffe. I accept the Poor House as authentic, and they did used to build them out a ways from the county seat. But as to the other building she speaks of, I doubt if it was the court house. They are generally built in town and not a mile away and half way between two towns, the politicians like to be close to the bars. There seems to be only the one building now and it has so far deteriorated as to look as though it had never been finished.

But we do know how the building got the name "Hearbreak Hotel" and how "Middlecliffe" came into existence to plague seekers after historical facts. As I explained in an earlier column, two signs were placed on the old Poor House building one night a few years back by a group of high school kids out on a lark. One sign says "Heartbreak Hotel" and the other "Middlecliffe." And those kids, who grew up in Westcliffe, thought the old building they had seen standing so forlorn and delapidated for years had never been finished. The name for the hotel the kids got from the moving picture of the same name that came out about the time they painted, or carved their signs.

There might even have been a time, way back in the early days when the place where the poor house and one other building was located was called Middlecliffe. If so, it was before the time when my informant lived in Silvercliffe which she admits was, "let us say, about forty years ago."

I think it is safe to say, from the evidence so far obtained, that there never was a town called Middlecliffe. And I think it is also safe to assume that the poor house might have jokingly been called Middlecliffe in the very early days, since it was situated midway between Westcliffe and Silvercliffe.

So there the matter rests, at least until I hear from some one who has a longer memory than the gal who wrote to me from Detroit.

Adam Lyre and I were discussing the war on poverty.

"Poverty is relative," I said.

"Don't I know it," said Adam, "and I've got some of the most poverty stricken relatives in the universe. Why, my old Uncle, Dirty Lyre ——"

But I wasn't in the mood to listen to one of his long-winded tales, so I shoved a cigar in his face, lit it and changed the subject.

"Drivers who see well, particularly those with ability to discern moving objects, were found to have better driving records than those who don't," says a release from the tax-supported Highway Research Board, an agency of the National Academy of Sciences—National Research Council.

We'd say that's a weighty conclusion, and should result in demands for an increase in the budget for the National Academy of Sciences.

Your Irresponsible Government

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Unfortunately, the statement that your government is irresponsible will make most of the people who read this column shudder. Well meaning human beings who have been more than slightly critical of their government still prefer to think of its as responsible, particularly if they get the right men in public office. Well, gentle readers or even readers who are not so gentle, your government is irresponsible and nothing you can do or imagine will change the facts. BY ITS VERY NATURE, GOVERNMENT IS IRRESPONSIBLE.

For the moment, I will not even attempt to build a specific case because a generality will serve the purpose. Let us assume that your elected representatives decide that a certain bill will react to the public benefit. Temporarily, there appears to be some benefit for some of the people because of the bill. Logically, anything which reacts to the benefit of some of the people MUST react to the detriment of others because government has nothing but what it takes from the people, in the first place and from there on out.

Suddenly government is confronted with its own actions and upon close examination it discovers that the action benefits none of the people and reacts to the detriment of government, as well. At this point can you imagine your elected representatives digging down in their pockets to correct the wrong they have accomplished? You know this never happens and when you come right down to it, why should your representatives worry about it. Didn't you elect them to represent you and doesn't everybody make a mistake now and then?

Your government is not responsible. You are responsible and if you are foolish enough to want to argue this point, pause for a moment and tell me who will get the bill to pay for the mistakes your government makes? Who will pay for every mistake made by government and pay and pay and pay? I say your government is totally and unavoidably irresponsible for its actions simply because irresponsibility is inherently the basic strength of government.

Sure, you can throw the rascals out of office. You can elect an entirely new set of rulers. Now, take another look. You still have a totally irresponsible government, regardless.

Now, let's place this in a different frame of reference. Instead of your government making a mistake let's imagine the government of Great Britain has made a mistake which benefits nobody but the enemies of Great Britain and costs everybody. Will the bureaucrats toss in three or four billion dollars or pounds to rectify the blunder? Will the royal family give up its fortune? Don't be foolish. The people of Great Britain will pay the bill or else .

There have been instances in the past which found a man with a guilty conscience committing suicide because a serious mistake was made. After that, who paid the bill anyway? The people, of course.

At present the American dollar is not a piece of currency in which everybody has overwhelming confidence. What caused this situation? Make no mistake about it — your elected representatives and their advisors made the mistakes which loused up the dollar and the end is not in sight. Who do you think will pay for the mistakes? Which wealthy individuals will dig up how many billions to take care of the situation even on a temporary basis?

Foreign aid, the stealing of your dollars for the support of foreign governments has played a major role in the balance of payment deficit. The Eisenhower administration thought it could provide a panacea for that situation and it bribed Americans to invest abroad and this made the situation even worse. Don't hold your breath waiting for your elected representatives to dig down deeply for funds to take care of things .You will pay for the stupid blunders or the bill will be handed to your kids, your grandkids or great grandkids and your irresponsible government will collect at gun point, or else.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

A PAGE FROM THE PAST

To the Editor:

I am sending you this lovely "old" bit of artistic poetry, which I have carefully tried to copy from the yellowed page of your Gazette, found in a group of ancient poems collected by my own mother, before my birth. I was born Nov. 24th, '08. I am a former citizen of Colorado Springs.

My folks were part of the pioneers that helped make the history that is behind the town, and I just missed the big gold rush up in the Cripple Creek district by a few years, where I was born one crisp, cold Thanksgiving morning! I attended grade school at several of the schools and finally, was one of the very first pupils to move into dear old "North Junior High," from Garfield School, therefore my name is sealed within the corner-stone along with several hundred others.

I have been away from there a good many years but I still insist that I am a real, honest to goodness "Colorado hill-billy." There have been many changes in the old town down through the years but to me the saddest of them all was to come back last Christmas and find that big, gaping hole in the ground where our beloved Antlers Hotel had stood like a sentinel, watching over the down town section of the city. Ah, dear me, I know it was done in that big modern-day movement we hear so much about these days "Progress!" I could write a book about that part of the globe, maybe some day when I retire I'll do so.

Today, my son lives up in Woodland Park with his fine family, not too far from where my grandfather once homesteaded, out on old Trail Creek! Now, that goes back to about the same time that the above poem was written, and if I'm not too far off the track, wasn't Glen Eyrie the home of Gen. Palmer, the founder of the city? One can forget a lot of history in over forty years! Was glad to see that the Gazette is still being printing, it is also a "land mark" to me!

GLEN EYRIE
Gratefully inscribed to General William J. Palmer
By WILLIAM GLENDINNING
Written for the Gazette, Jan. 30, 1908

Beneath the sapphire of unshadowed skies,
That ever yearning eyes so glady greet,
The Poet's sweetest dream of loveliness,
Fond nestles at old Rocky's rugged feet:
Old Rocky, that, with his peaks and crags
To kiss those skies soars grand through the air,
While yet o'er that wee world of wondrous charm
He guards, and "fondly broods with miser care;"
And never regal power of alien land,
With ruthless tyranny for ages fed,
With all of its pomp of martial might dare dream
To stain that heath with one despotic tread;
No! None dare e'er disturb the perfect peace,
The rare content, the charm, abiding rest
And love, that hallow every nook of thine,
Glen Eyrie, bonnie Eden of the West!
Glen Eyrie! Some master-mind hath wrought
Thy beauty from fair Nature's inmost heart,
Blent with poetic thought, and with the dreams
Gleaned from daintiest realms of inspired Art;
Glen Eyrie! With thy ivied, granite walls;
Thy royal halls; thy turrets and thy towers;
That rise in simple grandeur, wonder make,
And mock imagination's boasted powers!
Palace, thou art, fit for Kingliest King,
With heritage of ancient, royal name;
Cloister, thou art, fit for hoariest Sage;
Home, thou art, fit for poet of crowned fame;
Nor feudal castle in the far old lands,
In blossomed vale or by the storm-swept sea,
Norman or Gascon, pride of ages dead,
That in their beauty could e'er outvie thee!
Glen Eyrie! Round thy walls spread peerless charms,
That Nature gave to thee and now are thine:
The bonniest blooms in dell and mountain slope,
Blossoming 'neath many a grand, old pine:
The mossy brooks, babbling through lawn and lea,
Their waters wove of rippling, crystal gleams:
Search Orient and Occident—all the earth—
Nor ever find such sweet, pure, wimpling streams;
The wee cascades, gurlging in woodland shades
Love songs so sweetly new and yet so old,
Their silver foam catching each sunny beam,
And breaking into sprays of gleaming gold:
The "bonnie birdies" in their native haunts,
That carol hymns heard not in other climes,
'Mong thy moss-clad walls and scented briers,
In matchless music and their own rare rhymes.
Glen Eyrie! Nature had done much for thee,
But not all, Art came gladly to thy aid:
Then thy turrets: tow'rs: sculptured fountains rare;
Blossomed terraces; rose in glen and glade;
Lawns of green velvet stretched out here and there,
Bright gleaming in the Summer's golden smiles;
And winding paths stole far to fairy nooks,
To lose themselves in leafy, bosky aisles:
So, thus of wedded Art and Nature born,
Tho' seeming born of some strange, mystic power,
Fair to the eye, dear to the heart a pride
For years to be, a joy for every hour!
I wonder if beyond the far-off blue—
So far above the stars' soft, silver shine—
Where angels are and unknown charm, there be
A spot in loveliness more sweet than thine?
Glen Eyrie! O'er they loveliness all dow'rd
By Art and Nature, nevermore pain be!
Nor sorrow's shadows dusk the well-won joys
That clinging linger through Time's tides with thee!
The pray'rs of gratitude are ever heard,
And lowly lives so full of grateful tears,
Pray that the helpful heart within thy walls,
May pulse in peace through all its sunset years!

Editor's note: Reader Ferguson is indeed correct in remembering Glen Eyrie as General Palmer's home.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Save Even Two Last Teeth As Anchors for Dentures

"Dear Doctor: I have only two teeth left, two lower eye teeth. I'd like to get rid of them and have full upper and lower dentures made, but my dentist says 'NO.' He wants to save them. He claims they'll steady my lower denture. But my teeth have never been any good and if these two lonely teeth last only a couple of years I'll have to spend money again to have new dentures made." John D.

Bless those last two lonely teeth. They're worth a million dollars. And bless the dentist who wants to save them. Even if they last two years, it's worth keeping them.

Lower dentures are often difficult to manage. They get pushed around by the cheeks, tongue and lips. Balancing them, even when not eating, just talking, is sometimes a problem, as many denture wearers know.

The major reason that full upper dentures stay in place better than lowers is "suction," or atmospheric pressure. It's not possible to get adequate suction in lower dentures.

That's why even one lower tooth that can be used as an anchor to support a denture is so valuable. With natural teeth present, a partial denture can be constructed with metal clasps that grasp these teeth. This type of denture will stay in place better and work more efficiently. And if these supporting natural teeth have to be extracted at some future time, false ones can often be added to the denture without completely remaking it.

It's true that pressure of supporting a denture can loosen teeth and shorten their life. This can sometimes be prevented by splinting teeth together so that one tooth helps support the other. Splinting is done in many ways but the type most often used is a fixed bridge that is "permanently" attached to both teeth. This offers firmer support for the denture, too.

Yes, this adds even more to the initial cost, but you'll get your money's worth in comfort and chewing efficiency.

Brockhurst Names Copeland As Trustee

A. Max Copeland, representing the Pikes Peak Chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America, Inc., has been named to the Brockhurst Boys' Ranch Board of Trustees.

The ranch, in Green Mountain Falls, is a non - profit institution which houses 20 underprivileged boys whose ages range from 10 to 17.

"I am particularly gratified with the decision by the board of directors and membership of our local Izaak Walton League Chapter to accept a seat on the ranch board of trustees," said Matt Duncan, director of the ranch. "Through association with these men in the performance of their many civic betterment projects in the area of conservation, I believe our boys will come to a fuller realization of the obligations which accompany responsible citizenship."

In outlining the role to be fulfilled by the chapter at the ranch, R. N. Newbill, president of the group, said "We are primarily interested in helping to fill the present father - son relationship void. Traditionally our efforts have been directed toward the conservation of natural resources. However, our membership believes that American youth constitutes this nation's most precious resource and our chapter should extend its interest to include conservation of this resource."

PROFILE OF A NON-COM

(This is another in a series of articles portraying noncommissione officers of the Army Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs. As in other Army outfits, ARADCOM looks to its cadre of NCO's to play an important part in providing experience and leadership vital to fulfillment of the command's mission.)

By S. SGT. VINCE NYLOR
ARADCOM

Most Army men on duty today can talk about their assignments in Europe, Japan, Korea or Alaska, but one member of Army Air Defense Command headquarters still talks about a theater of operations that has almost been forgotten.

Sgt. Maj. Don B. Keeton, a native of Athens, Tex., and a veteran of more than 23 years of Army Service, spent his first overseas assignment in the China-Burma-India Theater.

Entering the service early in World War II at Camp Crowder, Mo., the sergeant spent his first year in training with the 219th Signal Depot Company. After completing desert training, the unit, in October of 1943, was sent to Calcutta, India.

From Calcutta, the sergeant was sent up to the China-Burma border to help activate the 223rd Signal Depot Company for the Signal Advance General Depot. He remained there until his return to the United States in December, 1945.

Duty as an instructor at the Army Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J., was next for Sergeant Keeton.

In 1948 the sergeant was again to assist in the activation of a unit — this time the Southeastern Signal School at Camp Gordon, Ga. After the school was established he was assigned to the Signal Property Office.

Four years of duty, starting in 1950, at the University of Tennessee as a Reserve Officers Training Corps instructor was next. This was followed by six years in Alaska. While there he served as Headquarters Commandant Supply Sergeant for U. S. Army Alaska.

SGT. MAJ. KEETON

Leaving Alaska in 1961, Sergeant Keeton was to spend two years at White Sands Missile Range, N. M., as NCO-in-Charge of the Logistic Department, and then a year in Korea with the Eighth U. S. Army Depot as Chief Signal Supply NCO. He then came to ARADCOM headquarters.

His present assignment, which began last October, is that of chief supply NCO of the Headquarters Commandant Consolidated Supply Division. This division is responsible for the procurement and the issuance of all supplies, both expendable and non-expendable, used by the headquarters.

As chief NCO of the division, Sergeant Keeton is responsible to the Headquarters Commandant for the over-all supervision of the division.

The sergeant major, his wife, Veneta, and their son, Jimmy, 16, a junior at Wasson High School, live at 1262 East Madison Ave. Another son, Jerry, 21, is a junior at Texas Western College in El Paso.

His Biography Reads Like An Action-Adventure Novel

Master Sergeant William T. Houston, Jr., who speaks Mandarin, Chinese and Japanese, escaped from Corregidor in a sailboat, spent World War II in India, has been assigned to the Public Information Office at Ft. Carson.

Prior to his present assignment he was stationed in Okinawa for five and one-half years where he was government estimator for petroleum contracts. In his off-duty hours he volunteered his services as a radio announcer for KSAR-TV, University of Ryukus station.

Houston was the only American with radio station KSAR and he prepared tape recordings for the culture center, translating from Japanese to English as well as Chinese to English. His voice was keyed to English language as well as Ryukuan listeners.

He taught English for 18 months while an adviser in engineering problems to the 2nd Chinese Field Army in Okinawa.

Houston's Army career began in 1936 with duty in the Phillippines. He completed three years of engineering at the University of the Philippines while a photographer stationed at Shanghai, China and Harbin, Manchuria. At one time before the war he was the only American reporter for the Philippine Herald.

He was enlisted aide to Philippine Herald.

He was enlisted aide to Philippine High Commissioner, Paul McNutt, and knew the late General Douglas McArthur and Presidents Quezon and Magaasay.

Because of his engineering studies he was assigned to Bahrein, an oil center, after he escaped to Borneo. From there he moved to Karachi, Bombay, Calcutta and Madras, India, working with the Royl Indian Air Force and Royal Navy, building petroleum terminals building petroleum terminals for the rest of World War II.

At the end of World War II, Houston flew over the hump along the Burma Road and was in Shanghai when the Communist take-over began.

The sergeant volunteered for Korean Advisory duty from Pasadena, California, where he was a National Guard advisor. From Korea he went to Japan, and then to Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., where he helped establish a NonCommissioned Officers Academy.

The Houstons came from Allentown, Pa. A son, William III, is assistant base exchange manager at Kadena Air Force Base, Okinawa. One married daughter is in Los Angeles, Calif., and another lives at Itcki Air Base, Japan.

Houston is a man of many interests as well as talents, and is especially proud that the 32d Degree of Masonry was conferred upon him and his son together in 1963 at Okinawa Lodge 118, AF&AM. He joined the Masons in the Philippines.

M. Sgt. Houston, his wife and their two youngest sons live at 120 Grant Boulevard, Security.

The Difference Is Small But Goals Are High

Hans Dieter Sydow Blumberg and William A. Roberts are strangers. They come from different parts of the world, speak a different language, wear a different uniform, but they share a common goal.

Cadet Blumberg with 41 other future German air officers plus school staff members headed by Brig Gen. Willi Wagenknect will arrive at Peterson Field (Colorado Springs) Monday for a five day visit.

Tuesday the Commandant of Cadets, Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, will welcome the group to the Academy.

Also on the schedule for the visitors are the NORAD tour and briefing and a trip to Ft. Carson to watch a parade and fire power demonstration.

The Germans will also tour Academy facilities including the Chapel, Fairchild Hall, the Library, and Gymnasium, and attend a Planetarium demonstration.

Plans also call for the two schools to match athletic skills in soccer, basketbal, or valleyball games.

Envoy Says Chinese Students Mistreated

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's ambassdaor to the Soviet Union, Pan Tzu-li, accused Soviet troops and police of beating and wounding 11 Chinese students who took part in on anti-U.S. demonstration Thursday in front of the American Embassy in Moscow, the New China News Agency reported today.

In a dispatch from Moscow the agency said that Pan also accused Soviet doctors of "unjustifiably expelling six injured Chinese students from a hospital ward. Pan said the students "were literally pushed out."

The Chinese were among 2,000 Asian students who demonstrated in protest of America nation in Viet Nam.

Labor - Management Conference Set at DU Law Center Wednesday

Issues facing management and union negotiators during the next 12 months will be discussed by some of the nation's most knowledgeable editors in the field and regional spokesagement in a two-day conference this week at the University of Denver Law Center, 14th Ave. and Bannock St.

A conference on "Collective Bargaining and Labor - Management Relations — 1965" will begin Wednesday morning at the University's Law Center Auditorium with presentatinns by editors of the Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., Washington, the country's leading publishers of law publications remanagement.

The Wednesday topics will inclue such titles as "Economic Climate in 1965;" "What Course Bargaining in 1965?"; "What's Happening at NLRB and the Courts?"; "Trends in Labor Arbitration;" and "Total Job Security." Discussions of the impact of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the legislative and political outlook for this year in labor - management relations will conclude the Wednesday presentations.

Thursday's program will concentrate on the regional outlook for labor - management relationships. "The Economic Climate in the Rocky Mountain Area" will be assessed at 9 a.m. Thursday by D. Bruce Hanchett, chief of the Denver field office of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor. Five experts from various fields will then discuss the impact of this climate in labor - management dealings.

The impact on retailing will be discussed by Dr. Robert D. Entenberg, Beaumont professor of marketing at DU; construction impact will be assessed by Frank Van Porfliet, field represenative for the Northern Colorado Building and Construction Trades Council.

Richard W. Wright, executive vice president and secretary of the Mountain States Employers Council, Inc., will evaluate the impact on manufacturing, and William E. Rentfro, general counsel for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, will describe its possible effects on the oil and gas industry. Mining industry considerations will be covered by Edmund J. Flynn, industrial relations counselor for the KenTCity.

Dominick L. Manoli, associate general counsel for the division of litigation, National Labor Relations Board, Washington, D. C., will describe "Changing Conditions and the NLRB," in a luncheon address Thursday.

Following the luncheon, participants in the two - day conference will attend special interest sessions Thursday afternoon which will conclude the conference. Each of these sessions wil explore techniques to meet changing conditions in vargroups.

Advance registrations are being accepted by the University of Denver Law Center at 200 W. 14th Ave. Information request and registrations should be directed to the attention of John Phillip Linn, professor of labor law, at the DU College of Law.

Red China May Drop Bomb From Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Ralph Lapp, a nuclear physicist, says Red China may drop an atom bomb from an airplane in its second nuclear test, expected soon.

Lapp said the test would be designed to demonstrate the Chinese have the ability to deliver an atomic device.

HANDICAPPER FOR MARCH — Oscar Skjoldahl, a stroke victim over 25 years ago, has been named Handicapper for the Month of March by Stalwarts and Pals Club for the Handicapped. Despite his limited use of his right side, Skjoldahl has developed a broad range of interests including needlework, gardening, and weaving. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Oscar Skjoldahl Is Handicapper Of the Month

Oscar Skjoldahl had a stroke when he was 25 years old. Now, in his early 50's, he is an active member of Society with a bright outlook on life.

Skjoldahl has been selected Handicapper of the Month of March by Stalwarts and Pals Club for th Handicapped.

When he was 25, Skjoldahl worked as a mechanic in a garage. One day he was "gassed" by the car on which he was working and he passed out. Apparently simultaneously he had a stroke which left his right side paralyzed.

It took a year of work to gain partial control of his right side. Unable to go back to work, Skjoldahl lived at home with his mother and exercised by mowing, gardening and even trying out his artistic abilities with needlework.

For the past two years, Skjoldahl has been a resident of the Myron Stratton Home which he says he enjoys very much. He is an active member of Stalwarts and Pals and maintains his interest in weaving, needlework and other hobbies.

The annual orientation and registration of next year's sophomores, juniors, and seniors will be held Thursday, in the high school auditorium.

Courses offered by the school and graduation requirements will be discussed by Orvey Jordahl, principal, and John Shultz, counselor.

Students were dismissed from school at noon on Monday, Mar. 1, while the faculty participated in the "Educational Technology Dissemination Project" held at Widefield High School.

The project, nicknamed "New Media," referred to new methods, procedures, and equipment related to audio - visual material in modern education. The program was sponsored by the Colorado State Department.

Senator Gordon Allott has announced that he is taking applications now for nominations to the service academies for the classes entering in the summer of 1966. Nominations are made on a competitive basis and examinations will be announced sometime in July.

Interested college - bound juniors will be administered the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Aptitude Test on Tuesday at the high school. All interested juniors should contact the counselor.

The F.T.A. is in the process of redrafting the club's constitution. New members to the club are Judy Jason, senior, and Betty Duncan, sophomore.

The girls, under the direction of Asher Coleman, industrial arts teacher, made spice-racks.

Cheryl Lyons, senior, has been named the winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award for FHS.

Sukarno Hits 'Imperialism' As Islsm Foe

By ANTOINE YARED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian President Sukarno declared today that the spirit of Islam can flourish only if Asia and Africa are free from "imperialism and colonialism."

Sukarno blasted the West in an address at the opening of the Afro-Asian Islamic Conference in Bandung, West Java. Most of his hour-long speech, however, was devoted to an account of Indonesia's achievements under his leadership.

Sukarno told delegates from 21 nations that the guided democracy which he proclaimed in 1959 and which put virtually all power in his hands is not a "dictatorship, but is a democracy with leadership."

The president claimed that Indonesia was becoming constantly stronger despite "imperialist" attempts to crush it.

"Let us unite against imperialism and colonialism," he said. "Only when Asia and Africa are free can our religion flourish."

Some delegations, notably from the Arab countries, have recommended that the conference stick to the Islam theme and steer clear of politics. This was considered unlikely.

A. M. Azahari, leader of an abortive revolt in Brunei three years ago, already has sent a telegram urging the conference to adopt a resolution condemning "the British neo-colonialist project of Malaysia and firmly adhere to Indonesia's present confrontation policy."

Network Ownership Of Programs Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission will discuss publicly a possible limitation on network ownership of television programs at its March 15 meeting.

The matter was to have come up Friday, but the session was shelved so the commission could continue work in another field.

Television networks now control about 90 per cent of the programs presented during the prime evening hours.

An FCC spokesman said a rule to limit this to 50 per cent has been discussed.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church has been designated as the national church of Sweden.

Regis, Mullen in State Paroke Finals

Mullen Knocks Off Pirates, 74-61

By DICK FOSTER

DENVER —St. Mary's pressing Pirates were caught at their own game Saturday night at the Auditorium Arena. The Mullen Mustangs after dropping a ball-hawking defense on the Bucs cut loose with their awesome offensive firepower to cop the contest, 74-61, in the Colorado Catholic High School tournament semi-finals.

The Pirates will face Pueblo Catholic High in the third place match at 6 p.m. today, while Mullen's Mustangs will face the Regis Raiders in a rough and tumble contest at 7:30 p.m.

The potent Mustang offense will be up against the Raiders stingy defense. Both have proven unbreakable so far in the tourney but the Mustangs were superior in the regular Denver Parochial League season.

Mullen showed some stout defense of their own Saturday night and if both offense and defense are working tonight the Mustangs could down the Raiders.

St. Mary's which was noted for its tough press defenses in their early season matches applied those tactics against the Mustangs but Mullen must had rehearsed some stuff of their own. They applied a rattling press periodically in the first three quarters of play and Coach Dan Wright's squad was caught under it. The erratic Bucs continued to try, managing a comeback within reach of the polished Mustangs worked up several leads.

Brother Simon's Denverites pulled away for good in the third period. They clamped their press defense on the Bucs and the Mullen offensive guns Jim Wedow and Terry Pierzina spanked Wright's cagers point-wise. The Bucs' shooting was much less effective than that of the Mustangs. St. Mary's connected on 22 of 62 attempts for a 35-4 percentage, while the Mullen team hit an even 50 per cent of 55 attempts.

Denver's squad held a small 39-31 rebounding edge due mostly to Pierzina's efforts of 17 caroms. The Mullen giant also dumped in 29 points while Wedow hit for 20. Tom McCarthy was the only Pirate to warm-up scoring-wise with 14 points.

Wedow lit the scoreboard at 7:12 in first period with three points and the Mustangs moved far in front. With 1:44 left in that same period Mullen had a 19-10 edge. McCarthy pulled the Bucs back into contention before the period ended on two buckets and a free throw. Sam Zavatti added two points and the first quarter score was 19-17.

The Mustangs grabbed another big edge in the second period. St. Mary's took their first and last lead of the ball game early in that period on two McCarthy baskets and one by Joe Jezek. It put the Bucs ahead, 23-19.

Mullen turned on their press right after that and the St. Mary's effort stopped. The Mustangs held a 31-24 edge when the Pirates went back to work and the first half ended, 33-30, with Mullen in front.

The Mustangs applied the pressure continuously in the second half and it finally squeezed all the fight out of the mistake-prone visitors. Pierzina stepped all over the listless Pirates in the third quarter with 12 points and coupled with the Buccaneers' floor mistakes and Mullen's ball-hawking, St. Mary's dropped to nine point deficit at the conclusion of the third period.

The tattered St. Mary's offense didn't offer much competition in the final period. Mullen went to a 15-point lead, 74-59, but McCarthy ended the affair on a happy note for St. Mary's with a half-court blast that went in with the final horn.

KRDO-Gazette All-City Cage Teams

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Harrison's Will Rogers League champions were the only team to place two men on the 1965 All-City Basketball Team which was selected by the combined sports staffs of the Gazette Telegraph and KRDO radio and television.

* * *

Mike Obert and John Dalton, a pair of 6-4 frontliners off the Panther quintet that failed in its bid to gain a berth in the AAA State Tournament by losing to La Junta Thursday night, occupy two positions on the five man first team.

Other first team selections are Bert Spear, the Will Rogers League scoring champion from Air Academy High and the son of Air Force varsity coach, Bob Spear; John Van Horn, the fine senior forward from St. Mary's High, and Bill Massarand, sharp-shooting member of Cheyenne Mountain's Will Rogers League runner-up.

* * *

For the first time since the Gazette-KRDO selections were inaugurated 10 years ago, there was no first team choice from a South Central League school. Neither Palmer or Wasson, schools that have dominated past mythical teams, landed a berth on the first team. Both, however, had players who had been outstanding previously dropped from their rosters this winter and both finished the season with squads dominated by sophomores and juniors.

The second five was headed by St. Mary's, the lone school to place three men on either the first or second team. Tom McCarthy, the Pirates' firebrand guard, and Tom Socha, the smooth junior center, were both selected to the second unit. Others on that group are Randy Stanley, 6-3 post man from Wasson; Ed Fitzgerald, Palmer's outstanding 6-5 sophomore; and Ron Graham, high-scoring piv-

Allen Finishes Behind Calmat

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Alain Calmat of France ended 10 years of frustration in international competion by skating his way to his World Figure Championship in the Men's Single Division at the Broadmoor World Arena Saturday night.

Pushed hard by Scott Ethan Allen of the United States in the free skating, the 24-year-old Frenchman pulled out a fine performance in the final event of this five day meet with a slight edge over the 16-year-old American youth from Smoke Rise, N.Y.

Following Calmat in the final standings were Allen in second, Don Knight of Canada third and Nobuo Sato of Japan fourth. Calmat had a perfect 9.0 ordinals and 2184.2 points, to Allen's 27.0 ordinals and 2144.3 points, while Knight had 29.0 ordinals and 2134.2 points. Allen moved up from fourth after the compulsories, which were led by Calmat.

Allen was second by the judges in free skating alone, with Knight next Allen's performance was considered the best of his career and was obviously an inspired effort.

Calmat was second last year in both the World Championships and the Winter Olympics. Allen was fourth in the World's and third in the Olympics.

Allen's placings made a clean sweep in all four divisions for the U.S. team gaining the coveted top three positions, and his runner-up spot equaled the second place of Vivian and Ron Joseph in the Pairs. U.S. skaters got third in dancing and Women's Singles.

Other placings by U.S. skaters in the Men's Division were sixth for Gary Visconti of Detroit an d13th for Tim Wood also of Detroit.

Emmerich Danzer of Austria, who this year upset Calmat in the European Championships, was fifth in the finals standings, dropping from third in the compulsory figures after falling once and slipping three times during his free skating program.

In seventh place was Wolfgang Schwarz of Austria and his teammate Peter Jonas followed in eighth. Peter Krick of Germany and Robert Dureville of France rounded out the top 10.

Spartans Will Meet GV Team in First Round Pairing

Salida Heads for State After Stopping Leadville in PPL

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The Spartans of Salida have their eyes glued to the state Class AA basketball tournament since the start of the year and fulfilled their hopes Saturday night with a 69-57 victory over spunky Leadville in the finals of the Pikes Peak League district tournament.

Salida meets one of the Gunnison Valley teams Thursday at 5:15 p.m. in Denver's auditorium Arena in the first round of the state playoffs.

In a fight-followed contest for third place Saturday, Florence edged Crowley county, 61-59.

Salida gave the Panthers all the trouble they could handle the first two periods. Leadville managed only five field goals the opening half, one in the first period. Meanwhile, Salida was carving out a 14-6 quarter lead and bombed the Cats with a 22-point second quarter.

Leadville got through Salida's man-to-man defense the second half to outscore the Spartans, but the first half was more than enough cushion for Salida.

John Lantz, 6-7 Spartan handyman, laid in 25 points, almost broke loose on a solo fast break at one point, and was called for goal-tending in the second period when his arm swept the ball off the top of the rim.

Roger Johnson, Leadville's little scooting guard, came up with 21 points to pace the losers. Johnson and Barry Ballantine, another smallish backcourter, dared to invade the realm of the front court as they took rebound after rebound away from the defending state champs. Ballantine hit 11 points.

The Panthers closed the gap to ten points late in the final period on three straight buckets by Johnson and some long-range bombs from Ballantine, but ran out of time.

Florence stayed ahead of Crowley County the entire first half as the Chargers kept rimming off shot after shot. Then CC tied the score in the third quarter, 36-36, and went ahead, 40-38, seconds later.

The Chargers built a 47-42 lead into the fourth period, before the Huskies rallied to take a brief lead, 50-49. Crowley immediately pulled in front by as much as five points but Jack Sauer brought Florence back to a 57-57 deadlock.

Then Sauer canned a free throw to close to 59-58 after Crowley's Frank Terrones scored on a fast break. Troy Templeton hit a jumper on the right side to put the Huskies ahead and Dave Zamarripa clinched matters with a free shot.

Tenstion released itself all over one end of the court after that game as a pair of players started scuffling and brought 40 players and spectators together for about 20 seconds.

No. Dak., Tech in Finals

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP)Michigan Tech Capt. Al Holm picked up his second hat trick in two days as his team tied Minnesota 3-3 Saturday night to make the Western Collegiate Hockey Association finals.

Holm had three goals Friday in Tech's 8-4 victory.

North Dakota, total-goal victor over Michigan State at Grand Forks earlier Saturday, will host the finals. The winner of the total-goal series will be awarded the McNaughton Cup, symbol of WCHA supremacy. North Dakota beat MSU 7-1 Friday but lost a 6-4 match to the Spartans Saturday.

Tony Eposito had 25 saves for Michigan Tech and Gopher goalie John Lothrop had 35.

Central, Centennial In Playoff

PUEBLO — Central defeated South, 79-64, Saturday night to throw the South Central League race into a playoff.

Central and Centennial, coleaders at 11-1 after regular season action, meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in District 60 Gymnasium to decide the league representative to the state Class AAA tournament starting Thursday in Denver.

The Wildcats turned in 42 first half points and rode that effort to victory. The Colts edged the winners in the second half, 39-37.

Falcons Stun NCAA-Bound Rams, 71-67

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

An Air Force Academy basketball team that was shackled with the worst record in the nine year history of the institution turned up one of the school's greatest performances Saturday night, stunning NCAA-Tournament bound Colorado State University with a sensational display of shooting that wrought a 71-67 triumph before 2,000 roaring fans at the Cadet Gymnasium.

The Falcons, plagued by all variety of misfortune in a campaign that had few high notes, sounded a perfect one in a smashing final showing against one of the region's finest ball clubs. The proud Rams from Fort Collins, only two days away from a date with Oklahoma City University in the opening round of NCAA action, were smacked with a 65.9 shooting percentage by an Air Force team that belied the many tortures of a season that had seemed too long prior to Saturday.

Pete Hugdahl and Ed Sullivan, two of many bright promises in the Air Force future, led the phenomenal Falcon attack which absorbed everything the stylish Rams had to offer in a blazing first half and then gained the upper edge as the two Colorado teams raced to the wire. The Cadets had fired a crushing 60.9 per cent of their shots through the nets in the first 20 minutes, but were forced to the dressing room with a four point deficit.

It was simply a matter of who would give ground first in the fabulous shooting war following intermission, and on this night it was not to be the Falcons. They snared the lead for the first time since the early minutes at 54-53 with 9:49 remaining and then calmly battled off one Ram charge after another before salting the contest away with only seconds left.

Hugdahl, the lethal-shooting sophomore who moved off the bench at mid-season when the Falcons lost their two starting guards in the midst of a cheating scandal, capped a streak of excellent performances with a 23 point show that was the main spark in the Air Force attack.

Down the stretch it was Sullivan, a lanky junior, who rolled off the picks set by the precise Falcon offense to pour in the vital points as the Rams desperately played a futile game of catch-up.

CU Cagers Topple Iowa State

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)Colorado hit 50 per cent from the field and bruised Iowa State on the boards Saturday night handing the Cyclones a 90-65 Big Eight basketball drubbing in the teams' final game of the season.

The Buffs, coming off a three game losing streak, used control of the boards and a fast break in taking a 44-35 halftime lead, and when Iowa State's high-scoring Al Koch fouled out with 13 minutes to go, CU turned the game into a rout.

Connecticut Posts 15th Straight Win

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — Connecticut crushed Rhode Island 88-73 Saturday, extending its basketball winning streak to a school record of 15 straight. Sophomore Wes Bialosuknia scored 34 points and Loby Kimball 22 for the winners.

The Yankee Conference game was the season's windup for both teams. The Huskies meet St. Joseph's in the NCAA tournament first round Monday.

Valliant Man Cops New Orleans Race

NEW ORLEANS, (AP) — Valiant Man,, an invader from Florida, set a track record and won the $64,000 New Orleans Handicap, Louisiana's richest stakes race, at the Fair Grounds Saturday.

The victory was worth $46,500 for Ed and Harry Seltzer of Chicago.

Two former winners of the New Orleans Handicap — Endymion and Green Hornet — were out of the money.

Valiant Man and his co-entry, Suspicious, who finished third, went to post as the favorites of the 16,570 bettors. The entry paid $7, $4.20 and $4.8 .

Tenacle was anose behind Valiant Man to place and returned $10 and $7.20.

Vanderbilt Tops Tulane, 85 - 62

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vanderbilt's Southeastern Conference basketball champions rolled to an 85-62 victory over Tulane Saturday.

Clyde Lee led the scoring with 22 points as every Commodore in the line-up contributed to the total. Vanderbilt racked up its 14th league victory against a single loss.

The Commodores were in command of the situation from the middle of the first half. A driving layup by Wayne Taylor broke a 14-14 tie and the Commodores moved to their easy victory.

Bradley Nips St. Louis Five

The triumph produced a second-place Missouri Valley Conference tie between Bradley and St. Louis, both headed for the National Invitational Tourney in New York.

Comeback of U. S. Skaters World's Feature

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Other than Europe's dominance of the titles, as expected, the biggest underlying factor of the World Figures Skating Championships which ended its five-day run at the Broadmoor World Arena Saturday night was the definite comeback by the United States.

From the post-World War II period until 1960, the U.S. was playing king on the hill in the singles events; the prestige divisions of the annual competition.

With Dick Button and the Jenkins brothers, Hayes Alan and David, sweeping through the field of challengers every winter, the Men's trophy never left the United States from 1948 through '59.

Likewise on the Women's side of the ledger, with the exception of only one year, the gals also kept the title in the U.S. for eight consecutive years, from 1953 to 1960.

Then, as all concerned remember too well, came the tragic airliner crash of 1961. With title favorites and top contenders in every division aboard, the entire U.S. skating team was devoured in the flames of that fateful wreck while just outside Brussels, Belgium, on their way to the Championships at Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Included were several members of the local Broadmoor Skating Club. Listed in the casualties were beloved coach Edi Scholdan and his young son of Colorado Springs; Stephanie Westerfeld of the Ladies singles and her sister; Bill Hickox (an Air Force Academy cadet) and his sister Laurie from the Pairs, and Greg Kelley who had been training under Scholdan at the Broadmoor.

There were champions from all over the country on board. The only way to turn after that awful day was to the youth of the country. They had to rebuild the nation's program in figure skating. And it was a gigantic task — too much for some.

But the fruits of their labor were never more evident than this past week as again the U.S.A. has become a power in international competition. For several years we were sending children to represent this country all around the globe.

Not that our skaters still are not of a tender age, for they are in many cases. But even though in their teens, they have been brought up through the ranks undergoing pressures that none had ever endured before. They had to grow up quickly.

Now, for the first time since 1960, the United States again has entries finishing among the coveted top three in this world-wide skating. Others are very near the top, and in the next couple years the Yanks will again be the ones to beat in nearly every division of the competition.

The Men's division finished up the week-long meet Saturday evening, and the youngsters were crowding the top half dozen. Scott Ethan Allen, only 16, from Smoke Rise, N.J., and 19-year-old Gary Visconti of Detroit were both products of this pressure-packed five past years.

In the Women's class, we had Peggy Fleming, a tender 16 years old, from Pasadena, Calif., finishing third and teammate Christine Haigler, 17, of the Broadmoor Skating Club here in the Springs, only one step down. Both are aspiring to the heights once held by the great Carol Heiss-Jenkins who won the World crown five straight years, or Tenley Albright who won two title before Miss Heiss.

In Pairs there is a similar story with Vivian and Ron Joseph of Highland Park, Ill., and who train in Denver, pushing hard to claim a championship in this division. The hard-skating pair finished a fairly close Second to Russia's veteran Olympic titlists, Ljudmila and Oleg Protopopov from Leningrad, who are 12 years the senior of the American couple.

Also coming on fast in the Pairs division are a couple of teenagers from Seattle, Cindy and Ron Kauffman, who are only 16 and 18 years old. They ended up sixth, but stood the crowd on its feet during their daring performance of exciting lifts and spins, and given a few more years of polish it will be tough for anyone to hold these two.

* * *

And even in the Dancing, the U.S. has made great strides—perhaps more than at any time in history. This, too, could be a product of the all-out effort over the past five years to bring on young figure skaters a little faster than usual.

Coming in third in Friday night's finals on the Dancing were striking brunette Lorna Dyer (19) and John Carrell (18) of Seattle. And not far behind were Kristin Fortune (18) and Dennis Sveum (19) from California, in fifth place.

The champions in every division were impressive, to say the least, and there was no argument as to their deserving titles. Only Canada's Petra Burka in the Women's division broke through the European hold on the titles, but even she is European born, coming to Canada from Holland at the age of four.

* * *

Miss Burka's main competition was to come from Europe's titlist, effervescent Regine Heitzer of Vienna, Austria, but after the Toronto gal skated her way into the lead at the end of the compulsory figures (which count 60 per cent of the total score) there was only a race for second. Miss Burka showed why some experts class her as the finest free skater ever with a brilliant and difficult routine in the finals, but Miss Heitzer came on fast to get past the two American girls with an almost equally expert free skate program.

* * *

In the Pairs, the Josephs put plenty of pressure on the Russian husband and wife couple and very nearly pulled a dramatic upset while finishing second. Contrasting styles, the Joseph brother and sister act skated with power and acrobatics while the Soviets relied on smoothness and grace of ballet.

In that the judging is dominated by Europeans (usually at least six of the nine judges) and since they tend to give more appreciation to this style, the velvet touch of the Russians won out. Mrs. Protopopov is a former ballet student and her husband is strong enough to pull off the lifts and jumps with the effortlessness of a true champion.

One of the few surprises of the meet came when Russia's second entry in the Pairs, Tatiana Khuk and Aleksandr Gorilick, came up into third place and showed crowd appeal that is missed from the winners. Projecting personalities and showing unusual humor for Soviet entries, this other pair is only 18 and 19 — compared to 29 and 32 for the Protopopovs.

Eva Romanova and Pavel Roman, sister and brother from Prague, Czechoslovakia, were the only defending champions of the World meet, and their four consecutive crown equalled a record for their division. The only others in history to win four straight in this tourney were Great Britain's Lawrence Demmy and Jean Westwood, winning from 1952 through 1955 before retiring from amateur competition.

There was no doubt as to the deserving champions in the Dancing as the Romans showed that class that is reserved only for the very best. How long they will continue is doubtful, however, and although the British have long dominated this division, the American couples have shown more potential than ever before.

In the Men's division, Manfred Schnelldorfer of West Germany was the replaced world champion; in Women's it was Holland's Sjoukje Dijkstra who turned professional after winning three straight titles; and the Russians replaced West Germany's Marika Kilius and Hans-Jurgen Baulmer, who also went pro, as Pairs champs. The German Pair won last year's World title, but lost in an upset to the Soviet Protopopovs in the Winter Olympics just days before.

This was the third time since 1957 that the Broadmoor has played host to the World Champ of the yearly meets than any place in the world over the past few years.

This one was generally considered a tremendous success from the box office point of view, drawing capacity crowds of 4,300 on both the final two nights, and near capacity on Wednesday and Thursday for the finals in the Pairs and Women's singles, despite mid-week performances which generally are poor risks at the gate in Colorado Springs.

The last times the Broadmoor held the World Championships, there were repeat winners in all divisions. Dave Jenkins, from Akron, O., but who trained at the Broadmoor and attended Colorado College, won both in 1957 and 1959 in the Men's singles; Carol Heiss, who later married Dave's brother Hayes Alan and another Broadmoor World and Olympic champion, won the Ladies' singles both times; Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul of Canada won each time in the Pairs; and Great Britain's Courtney Jones teamed with two different partners to win the Dancing with June Markham in '57 and Doreen Denny in '59.

Air Force's Tremendous Shooting Provides Perfect Ending to Season

the field in the fantastic outcourt display by the Falcons. Hugdahl dropped nine of 14, Fred Budinger four of six, and Sam Peshut three of four in contributing to the Air Force's overall total of 29 of 44.

Against the Rams such shooting was necessary as CSU's great Lonnie Wright arched in nine of his first 11 and threatened to undo everything the Falcons could arrange with a magnificent show in the first half. Wright got his last two field goals in the first two minutes of the second half, however, and from that point was the victim of a superb defensive job by the Cadets' unsung Marty Andrade who limited him to a pair of free throws in the last 18 minutes.

CSU, with snakish guard Tom Vidakovich leading the way, fought off a strong Air Force start and then soared to the front when the powerful Wright suddenly took things in hand midway through the first half. The Rams had a 6-1 lead on a pair of goals by Bustion and one by Vidakovich with less than three minutes elapsed but the Falcons then outscored their upstate rivals 15-2 in the next five minutes to roar in front 16-8.

Wright, scoreless at that point, suddenly came alive with three goals and a free toss in a two minute period and Vidakovich finally shot the Rams on top again at 23-22 with 7:21 to go in the half. The Air Force got a tie on Howie Estes' charity toss but Wright responded with two more pumps from far out court and a closing burst by the Fort Collins club netted it a 36-32 advantage at intermission.

Wright hit two quick goals as the second half got underway to guide the Rams into a 42-34 lead but the Falcons refused to fold and eventually climbed over the summit again at 54-53 when Hugdahl poured one in from the side with 9:49 left. CSU had the lead twice more, at 56-54 and 59-57, before Sullivan put the Air Force ahead to stay at 63-61 on a drive with 3:03 remaining.

Two minutes had dwindled away before Hugdahl popped a pair of free throws to up the margin to four points and after Dennis Foster closed the gap with a jump shot, Sullivan ran in four straight points to raise the count to 69-63 with just 21 seconds left and deliver Coach Bob Spear one of the most satisfying triumphs in an Academy career that has seen many.

All-City Cage Teams For 1965 Announced

ot-man from Cheyenne Mountain.

In addition nine other players were cited for honorable mention. They include Mike Martin and Rick Pettigrew from Wasson, Dave Smedsrud and and John Henke of Widefield, Tom Espinoza of Palmer, Bruce Heidenreich of Manitou Springs, Eddie Hook, of Harrison, and Terry Kent and Dave Ury of Fountain.

A total of nine area schools representing four different leagues were considered in the voting. They are Fountain and Manitou Springs of the Class AA Pikes Peak League, St. Mary's of the Denver Parochial League, Harrison, Widefield, Cheyenne Mountain, and Academy High of the AAA Will Rogers League, and Palmer and Wasson of the AAA South Central League.

One feature of this year's selections is the youth displayed. Four of the 10 players on the two teams are either sophomores or juniors. Spear, the 5-11 deadeye who had a single game high of 36 points once this winter, is the only junior on the first five. But Socha and Stanley are both juniors and Fitzgerald a sophomore. Among the honorable mentions, Pettigrew of Wasson and Smedsrud of Widefield are juniors while Manitou's Heidenreich is a sophomore.

Wall Leads Maracaibo

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)—Art Wall Jr. fired his third straight sub-par round — a three-under 69 — Saturday and took a one stroke lead over John Barnum in the Maracaibo Open Golf Tournament.

Wall, of Pocono Manor, Pa., defending champion on the Caribbean tour, rallied from a bogey on the first hole and survived a double bogey on the 16th to post a three-round total of 204. Barnum, the Belmont, Mich., veteran who shared the halfway lead with Wall, shot a steady 70 to remain in contention.

Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., also carded a 70, good for third place, three strokes off the pace. He is the current point leader for the Seagram Caribbean Trophy on the five-tourney circuit which winds up at Puerto Rico net week.

Next, at 209, was Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., after a third-round 71. Ed Davis, long-driving newcomer from Milwaukee, came in with a 70 and climbed into fifth place, a stroke behind Ellis and one ahead of Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass., who rallied from a 76 Friday to 69.

Wall, seeking his eighth victory in the last 11 Latin American tournaments, dropped birdie putts on the second, fourth, sixth and eighth holes and capped a five-under-par front nine of 31 with a 100-foot pitch shot for an eagle. He birdied the 14th with a 15-foot putt before stumbling on the 16th.

Barnum, who lost a playoff to Wall here two years ago, drove skillfully and putted brilliantly for three birdies, 14 pars and one bogey.

Chelsea Soccer Team Triumphs

LONDON (AP) — Chelsea scored three goals in four minutes Saturday and crushed Peterborough United, an injury-riddled Third Division team, 5-1 in a quarter-final round match of the English Soccer Cup competition.

In the day's only other quarter-final match, Leicester and Liverpool played a scoreless draw. They will meet again Wednesday. The Wolverhampton-Manchester United and Crystal Palace-Leeds United matches were postponed because of bad weather. They also will play Wednesday.

Peterborough, trying to continue its giant-killing acts, lost team captain Vic Crowe in the second minute with a torn groin muscle. While he was absent, Chelsea romped.

Bobby Tambling put Chelsea ahead in the 11th minute, John Hollins made it 2-0 two minutes later and in the next minute scored a third. That was the end of Peterborough.

Snow, ice and flooding wrecked the day's program. Altogether 16 British league and cup games were postponed.

Georgetown Rallies to Top Manhattan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Georgetown broke loose in the final minutes Saturday and scored an 89-75 basketball victory over Manhattan.

The loss was the second in a row for the New York team, an entrant in the National Invitation Tournament, and left the Jaspers with a 12-8 season record. Georgetown finished the season at 15-10.

Georgetown jumped to an 8-0 lead, but Manhattan slowly moved to a 46-44 halftime edge.

The lead changed hands several times in the second half before Georgetown broke into a 68-60 lead with 10 minutes to go and never was headed.

Lemongello Wins BPA Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Twenty-year-old Mike Lemongello, who joined the Professional Bowling Association tour last summer, defeated Bob Strampe, Detroit, 245-225, Saturday and won the $5,000 first prize in the Tournament of Stars.

Dave Soutar, also of Detroit, finished third by beating Dick Hoover, Akron, Ohio, 216-156.

Lemongello, Babylon, N.Y., won over $7000 on the tour last year and qualifies for the Tournament of Champions at Akron, April 5-10.

Frank Lane Gets Job With Orioles

MIAMI (AP) — Frank Lane, colorful and controversial former general manager of four major league baseball clubs, was hired Saturday as a special assistant to Lee MacPhail, president and general manager of the Baltimore Oriole.

Lane, 68, served as general manager of the Chicago White Sox for eight years, the St. Louis Cardinals for two years, the Cleveland Indians for three years and the Kansas City Athletics for eight months.

He had been out of baseball since 1961, when he was fired by owner Charles O. Finley of the A's. He recently won a $113,000 court settlement from Finley on the remainder of his eight-year contract, freeing him to accept another baseball job.

After his dismissal by the A's Lane served as general manager of the Chicago Zephyrs, forerunners of the Baltimore Bullets in the National Basketball Association.

MacPhail, who appeared with his new assistant at a news conference in Miami Stadium where the Orioles are engaged in spring training, said Lane would function as a special assignments scout and in public relations capacities for the Orioles.

Terms of Lane's arrangement with the Orioles were not disclosed, although MacPhail said the salary "will be modest compared to Frank's ability and experience."

"I don't even have a contract, only a memorandum," Lane said. "I don't need a contract with a gentleman like Lee MacPhail. I can be fired at a moment's notice."

"I feel like I just got out of a concentration camp," added Lane, referring to his 3½ years out of the game. "I'm delighted to be back in baseball and particularly with the Orioles."

Lane was first hired as business manager of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League in 1933 by Larry PacPhail, father of the Baltimore general manager and then owner of the Reds.

Lane said he declined feelers from two other major league clubs to accept the offer by the Orioles.

A prolific trader of baseball talent, Lane said his worst deal was the one while in Cleveland when he obtained Harvey Kuenn from Detroit for Rocky Colavito.

Luke Easter Set for Role In Politics

ROCHESTER (AP) — Luke Easter, whose 32 seasons of baseball playing included a spell in the major leagues, announced Saturday he is entering politics.

The 53-year-old ex-slugger will run on the Republican ticket for supervisor of the Third Ward, a Democratic stronghold.

Easter, whose baseball career started in the Negro leagues, was with the Cleveland Indians for four years. When he was promoted to the Indians in 1949 he was 38, although his age was given as 10 years younger.

Maryland Leads in Track

By BOB GREEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Maryland and Harvard, chief challengers to Villanova's long-time team domination of the IC4A championships, jumped off to quick starts in the 44th annual games at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

After four field events — where Maryland's strength lies — The Terrapins held the lead with 12½ points. Northeastern was a surprise second with eight while Harvard was third with seven. Villanova had only two points, but that was one more than Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott had predicted.

Elliott, who had pointed to Maryland as the favorite, said he hoped for only one point in the field events, a fifth in the shot by Augie Zilincar. Zilincar, however, came in fourth.

Villanova, which has won three straight teams titles and six of the last eight, has its greatest strength in the running events, yet to come on the program.

Maryland was staked to its early lead by a 1-2 finish in the broad jump. It was no surprise that Mike Cole made a successful defense of his crown, going 24 feet 5 inches, but it was a form reversal when his sophomore teammate, Lew Schnetzka, took second.

Big Olney Croasdale was the chief point-maker in the early going for Harvard, taking a second in the shot put and fourth in the weight throw, good for six points.

Carl Wallin of Northeastern won the shot at 47-11, while defender John Uelses of LaSalle took the pole vault at 16 even. It was the first 16 feet vault of the season for Uelses, the first man to ever clear that height.

ASTROS SEEM SET

HOUSTON (AP) — Even before spring training began, Lum Harris, manager of the Houston Astros, had his lineup figured out for opening day, April 12. It would go like this:

Al Spangler lf, Joe Morgan 2b, Rusty Staub rf, Walt Bond 1b, Bob Aspromonte 3b, Jim Wynn cf, Eddie Kasko ss and Ron Brand C.

Terrell's Manager Okays Patterson Bout

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Terrell's manager reluctantly agreed Saturday to have his newly crowned WBA heavyweight champion defend the title within 90 days against former champion Floyd Patterson.

"Although I have said repeatedly that Floyd Patterson has been the ruination of boxing, I will agree to the World Boxing Association's motion that Terrell defend his title against Patterson," said Big Julie Issaacson, Terrell's manager.

"Patterson doesn't deserve the title chance because he never fought the No. 1 contenders," said Isaacson. "Instead he took on such bums as Pete Rademacher, Tom McNeely and Cut and Shoot Roy Harris."

The WBA's executive committee passed a motion that Terrell, winner of the WBA's title on his decision over Eddie Machen in a tug-of-war Friday night, should fight Patterson, now it's No. 1 contender.

The WBA said it will notify Patterson immediately and give him 10 days to reply. If he does not agree to meet Terrell, then the WBA said it will meet to pick the next suitable opponent.

In line behind Patterson are Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., and George Chuvalo, the Canadian heavyweight champion who lost a thrilling slugfest to Patterson on Feb. 1.

Big Julie said, "I think Patterson is scared stiff of Terrell. Ernie would jab him to bits. As for Folley, Ernie beat him before (July 27, 1963) and another fight would be a real stinkerrinker like last night. Folley is a clutcher like Machen. Chuvalo would be fine. That would make a great fight and some money.

"But I would rather meet the winner of the Clay-Liston fight," added Isaacson.

Clay and Liston are scheduled to meet in a return title bout May 25. The WBA stripped the Louisville Lip of the title for signing for the return bout in violation of its rules.

Sources close to Patterson here said it was highly doubtful that the former two-time champion would take on Terrell. He is awaiting the Clay-Liston outcome in the hope that Clay repeats.

Clay favors meeting Patterson next. Patterson also may take one fight in May against Chuvalo, Argentina's Gregorio Peralta or Folley.

This was inflicted in the sixth round of the holding-marred 15-rounder which drew 6,587 and $47,465 to the International Amphitheatre.

The unanimous verdict favoring the 6-foot-6, 25-year-old Terrell was greeted by a storm of boos from the fans. They were partial to the 6-foot, 32-year-old Machen, who was a 9-5 underdog. It was Terrell's 13th straight victory.

Machen came out the winner financially. He was guaranteed $20,000 by Terrell, or rather Isaacson. They got 60 per cent of the net purse.

"The fight cost me about $17,000 including expenses and a purse of about $5,000 that Ernie should get," said Isaacson. "Actually we figure to get nothing from the receipts. But Ernie deserves a payday. I'll make it up on the first big pay day."

CALCUTTA (AP) — New Zealand closed its first innings in the second cricket test match against India Saturday at 462 runs for nine wickets. The visitors then improved their position by taking four Indian wickets for 101 runs before the second day's play ended.

State Tourney Pairings

DENVER (AP) Defending champion East Denver and No. 1 ranked Arvada have been placed in opposite brackets of the Class AAA Colorado High School Basketball Tournament beginning Thursday.

Arvada, Jefferson County League champion, opens the triple-A division meet at 5:15 p.m. at the Denver Coliseum against the Cortez Panthers, champion of the Southwestern League.

East begins defense of its title at 6:45 p.m. against La Junta, Southern League champion.

Aurora Hinkley of the Centennial League and the South Central League champion are with Arvada and Cortez in the bottom bracket. Pueblo Centennial or Pueblo Central is in contention for the South Central crown. If they tie, a playoff is scheduled Monday night. The game with Hinkley is scheduled for 8 p.m.

In the upper bracket, Greeley's Wildcats meet the Skyline League champion, either Westminster or Mapleton, in the other AAA opening night game.

Lucky Debonair Captures Santa Anita Derby Race

By BOB MYERS

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) The well-regarded Lucky Debonair scored a stunning upset Saturday in the $134,300 Santa Anita Derby as Jacinto, supposedly unbeatable and hailed by many as the finest 3-year-old in the nation, ran a well-trounced second.

Racing before a record Derby day crowd of around 62,000 at Santa Anita Park, Lucky Debonair, under a tremendous ride by Bill Shoemaker, flashed under the wire four lengths in front of the odds-on-favorite, Jacinto.

Charger's Kin was third in the field of eight colts, but as expected, the Derby produced a thrilling two-horse struggle between the two Kentucky-bred challengers.

The 1⅛ mile test was clocked in 1:47 flat, approaching the track record of 1:46 2-5 set by Bug Brush in 1959.

The victory was worth $89,300 to Lucky Debonair's owner, Mrs. Ada L. Rice, noted horsewoman from Chicago.

But more important, the triumph lifted Lucky Debonair into the status of a feared contender in the Kentucky Derby, first of the gems in racing's famed Triple Crown.

Lucky Debonair went to the gate as the second choice in the betting and returned $8.80, $2.60 and $2.40. William Haggin Perry's Jacinto, who went off at 1-2, paid $2.40 and $2.20, and Charger's Kin paid $3.

Two weeks ago Jacinto spotted six pounds to Lucky Debonair and with jockey Manuel Ycaza in the saddle, beat off the strong run by the lucky one by a neck at 1 1-16 miles.

Saturday it was all Lucky Debonair and Shoemaker over Jacinto and Ycaza even though all the horses in the race packed even weights of 118.

The afternoon started under sunny skies but before long the clouds set in and there was a trace of a sprinkle.

The field was reduced when the Foxcatcher Farm's Perfect Sky was scratched. Despite the colt's name ,the stable had entered him with the hope there would be rain and an off-track.

Shoemaker, keeping an ever alert eye on his biggest threat, stayed on Philately's heels,and Ycaza was never as much as a length behind Luckey Debonair as they swept down the backstretch and around the far turn.

Coming into the stretch Johnny Longden and Philately dropped out of, and on came Jacinto to engage Lucky Debonair in a head to head contest.

Racing Fans Tear Up Car

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — A speedway crowd of 20,000 ran berserk and partly destroyed the car of U. S. hotrod champion Marshall Sargent after a race Saturday night.

The crowd pounced on Sargent's machine after he was involved in a fracas with a Brisbane driver in a 12½-mile race.

Sargent, a former professional wrestler, had to be restrained by police and officials.

Card Hurlers Work With Bats

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinal pitching staff, which has three of the better-hitting pitchers in the National League, will get extra hours in the batting cage this spring.

Manager Red Schoendienst said Friday: "A pitcher can pick up two or three extra victories if he's not helpless at the plate.

'It means more complete games for a pitcher if he can swing a bat effectively because he won't be taken out for a pinch hitter in a close game."

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Oklahoma State's cool and crafty Cowboys wrapped up an undisputed Big Eight basketball championship Saturday by beating runner-up Kansas 64-58 despite tall Walt Wesley's 32 points.

Kansas had three nine-point leads in the first half and led by eight, 37-29, early in the second half. But Hank Iba, OSU coach, made some adjustments which the Jayhawks couldn't cope with until it was too late.

Oklahoma State hit an amazing 12 out of 14 field goal tries in the second half.

Ten straight points, six by Gene Johnson, shot the Cowboys into their first lead of the game at 39-37. Wesley's goal tied it but OSU went on to a 47-41 bulge. Kansas tied it once at 51-51 but little Larry Hawk's goal put Iba's club ahead to stay.

Wesley smashed Big Eight season records for total points and field goals. The 6-foot-11 pivot finished with 377 points and 150 goals.

Johnson led the Cowboys with 19 points. Kansas shot only 10 for 32 the last half and finished with 3 per cent to OSU final 54 per cent.

Michigan Wins Big 10 Crown; Tops Minnesota

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan, the nation's No. 1 team, sewed up the Big Ten basketball title Saturday by edging Minnesota 88-85 in a tight battle that was in doubt until the final gun.

The victory automatically sends the Wolverines into the NCAA Mideast Regional tournament at Lexington, Ky., next week. Michigan is undefeated in 13 conference games and has a 21-2 over-all record.

Until Saturday's regionally televised game, Minnesota had a mathematical chance to tie Michigan for the conference title. But now only the final game Monday night with second division Ohio State stands in the way of a perfect 14-0 Big Ten season for the Wolverines.

Fish-Eye Lens Proves World Is Round

Sanders Leads at Pensacola

By ROBERT SANDLER
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Doug Sanders shot a sissling seven-under-par 65 Saturday and took the third round lead in the 65,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament after another battle with Jack Nicklaus.

Sanders, known for his short back swing and better known for his stories and antics on the course, was 12-under-par with 204 going into the final round.

Nicklaus was only two strokes behind after a five-under-par 67 for a three-round total of 206, 10 under-par.

Bill Casper and Bill Martindale, second round leader, had seven-under-par totals of 209 for third place.

Defending champion Gary Player shot a 70 for four-under 212, in a six-way tie for seventh place. Arnold Palmer shot a 73 and fell farther back with a one-over 217.

The tournament at the 6,380-yard, par 72 Pensacola Country Club course has turned out to be a duel between Sanders and Nicklaus. They both posted a 68 in the first round to tie Kel Nagle and Dave Marr for the lead. After shooting second-round 71s, Sanders and Nicklaus were tied for second place.

Saturday, they fought neck and neck until Nicklaus bogied the 376-yard, par-four 17th and Sanders holed an 18-foot putt on the 18th to take the lead.

Interviewed after his hot round, all Sanders wanted to know was how Nicklaus was doing.

"I'm sure baby beef — a common nickname for Nicklaus — will have no trouble out there," Sanders said. "Tell him, he doesn't need the money, and save my seat here; I'll be back tomorrow."

Nicklaus, last year's top money winner, hasn't been this close to a victory all year.

"I played pretty well today," Nicklaus said. "I didn't drive as well as I had hoped. My iron game was fair. I played better the first two rounds, but I putted better today."

Nicklaus shot six birdies and one bogey.

Sanders birdied the sixth, eighth, 10th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 18th holes. On the 495-yard, par-five eighth, Sanders dropped a shot 30 feet from the green and two-putted for the birdie.

Spring Training Baseball Camps Roundup Reports

CASA GRANDE, Ariz (AP)—There was a moment of anxiety in the San Francisco Giants' training camp Saturday when high-prices bonus rookie Ken Henderson, trying to make an impossible catch in the outfield, knocked himself out.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Manager Johnny Keane of the New York Yankees said Saturday that for the first two weeks of the exhibition season Mickey Mantle would bat No. 1, followed by Roger Maris and Elston Howard.

By the time the regular season starts, Keane said he felt Tom Tresh would take over the lead-off spot.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Red Schoendienst, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, believes his coaches should speak out instead of acting as yes men.

The 22-year old Californian had a 5-7 record last year at Seattle. But so far in spring training, he has been knocking the bats out of the hitters' hands.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Jimmie Hall stole the show with a long home run Saturday in the Minnesota Twins' first intra-squad play of the spring training season.

Cold and wind marred the workout in which a squad led by third baseman Frank Kostro won 8-6 over a unit headed by catcher Jerry Zimmerman.

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Outfielder Doug Clemens and Harry Bright, 35-year-old first baseman, each hit three-run homers Saturday as the Greys and Whites played a 5-5 deadlock in the Chicago Cubs' first intra-squad game, a 5½-inning match.

WEST PALM BAACH, Fla. (AP) — Slugging star Henry Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves apparently will have to bring himself along slowly this spring after missing 19 games last September because of an ankle injury.

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Manager Gil Hodges has scheduled squad games for the Washington Senators for the next three days, starting with a six inning game Sunday afternoon.

The Senators and New York Yankees open the Florida exhibition game scheduled here Thursday and the Senators leave immediately afterwards for a three-game stand in Mexico City.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds went through a three-hour drill Saturday that included their first infield workout.

BRADENTON,, Fla. (AP) — First baseman Jim Gentile and pitcher Jim Dickson were among the most impressive performers Saturday in the Kansas City Athletics' curtailed spring training workout.

Miss. State Names New Cage Coach

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Twenty-three-year-old Joe Dan Gold was named basketball coach at Mississippi State University Saturday.

Gold, the school's freshman coach the past two seasons, succeed Babe McCarthy, who resigned Tuesday after 10 years as coach.

Gold's appointment was made upon the recommendation of McCarthy and Wade Walker, director of athletics, with the approval of President D.W. Colvard and the Faculty Athletic Committee.

He will be given a two-year contract, effective March 1.

A native of Benton, Ky., Gold was captain of the 1962-63 Mississippi State team that won the Southeastern Conference title.

In his three varsity season, Mississippi State had two SEC championships and tied for another.

When the appointment was announced, Gold said: "This is a wonderful opportunity, a great personal challenge. I realize I have some awfully big shoes to fill, but what I lack in experience I hope to make up for with hard work and enthusiasm."

Czechs Rout Yankee Icers, 12-0

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPERE, Finland (AP) — Czechoslovakia, one of Europe's strongest teams, routed the United States 12-0 Saturday for the Americans' second straight defeat in the World Ice Hockey Championships.

Canada scored its second straight shutout in Saturday's only other game, beating Norway 6-0. The victories kept the Canadians and the Czechs even with the others of the tournament's Big Four — Russia and Sweden. Each has won two games.

A sellout crowd of 10,200 at Tampere's ice stadium watched the rout of the Americans by the slick Czech team. Tom Haugh, the U.S. goalie from Providence, R.I., held the Czechs at bay for the first half of the opening period but thereafter it was a runaway.

Czechoslovakia scored two goals in the first period, four in the second and six in the third. Haugh stopped 35 shots, in addition to the 12 that got past him, while the Czech goalie, Vladimir Nadrachal, had only 17 saves.

Jan Klapac and Jaroslav Jirik scored three goals each for Czechoslovakia and Josef Golonka and Josef Cerny two each. The nearest thing to a U.S. goal came when Roger Christian of Warroad, Minn., slapped a shot past Nadrachal in the second period, but it was called back for offside.

The Czechs got through the game without a penalty while the Americans had four, two against forward Dan Storsteen of Roseau, N.D.

Ken Broderick, Canada's goalie, had to make only 16 saves in shutting out Norway. Bob Forhan scored two goals and Gary Dineen had three assists in leading the Canadian attack.

In Group B — the non-championship group — West Germany defeated England 12-4 and Switzerland defeated Hungary 3-1. It was the second victory for each and put them in a tie with Poland for the lead in the group.

Fastest mile at the new Pompano Park harness track in Florida was the 2:00 2-5 turned in by Lorenzo Hanover, a pacer, last March 14.

"New Orleans: a Guide to America's Most Interesting City," by Thomas Kurtz Griffin. New Orleans' most popular daily columnist tells of his city's sights, sounds, and smells.

"Canada A ot Z" by Robert S. Kane. The author examines Canada as tourist territory, as a political entity, and as a product of history, complete with its own well-defined culture.

"Gardens of Italy," by Frances Margaret McGuire. An account of visits to some of the most beautiful gardens of Italy — as much a traveler's informal portrait of Italian history and art as it is a devoted gardener's essay on the flowers, planting, and landscape architexture that have made Italian gardens unlike any others in the world.

"So What Else Is New," by Harry Golden. One of America's most beloved commentators and humorists continues his investigation into the foibles and follies of our time.

"Ten Lost Plays of Eugene O'Neill." Here are nine one-act plays and one three-act play that are among the very earliest exercises Eugene O'Neill undertook in his self-disciplined apprenticeship to become a playwright.

"The Collected Poems of Patrick Kavanagh." Poetry by Ireland's greatest living poet.

"Now, Barabbas," by William Jovanovich. Eleven essays on the principal varieties of publishing, and on writing, reading, and learning.

"The Life and Death of Tin Pan Alley," by David Ewen. A memorable era of outstanding popular songs, of remarkably creative composers, of publishers and song pluggers with unusual initiative and drive, and of brilliant performers who carried songs to audiences, is brought to life in vivid detail.

"Yoga for Physical Fitness," by Richard L. Hittleman. Yoga exercises especially designed for office workers and housewives, or anyone whose job requires little activity.

"Danger on the Right," Arnold Foster, editor. A book on the attitudes, personnel, and influence of the Radical Right and Extreme Conservatives on the American scene.

"Crisis in Black and White," by Charles E. Silberman. The author contends that if all discriminatory practices were to stop tomorrow, the Negro's position in American society would be fundamentally unchanged; two hundred fifty years of slavery followed by one hundred years of brutal humiliation at the hands of white America have left too many Negroes unable or unwilling to compete in a white man's world.

"Who Speaks for the South," by James McBride Dabbs. It is the author's contention that the Negro has been at the center of the South's problems all through the history of this troubled region, and that in his newly awakened awareness of what he has to contribute to the country as a whole lies the solution for the South's present ills.

"The Future of Man," by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin. Tackles the future of mankind on all three levels of science, philosophy, and theology.

"The Realm of Ghosts," by Eric Maple. Drawing upon a wide range of ghost lore, the author has fashioned a history of the wraiths in our midst.

"Strange World," by Frank Edwards. In 118 fascinating chapters, the author documents mystery upon mystery that will confound and amaze.

LOOK MA, NO HANDS — Juliet Mills, British stage and screen star, perches atop a 1,200-pound bull named Vindicator, during break in the filming of Universal's new movie, "The Rare Breed," in which Juliet co-stars with Jimmy Stewart and Maureen O'Hara. It is the story of a couple of British gals when they bring the first British Hereford bull to the Texas range lands. The bull allows Juliet to ride him around the set during breaks in filming. Juliet is the sister of actress Hayley Mills. (AP Wirephoto)

Long Lines Families Hold Safety Night

One hundred twenty members of Long Lines families attended a Family Safety Night recently at the Moors Restaurant. A buffet dinner was served. Motor vehicle safety was the overall theme of the Family Safety Night, which was jointly sponsored by the Plant Department and the Government Communications Department (GCM) of American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The overall theme was carried out in skits, booths, a film and slogan "handouts." Safety skits were J. L. Harris impersonation of "Bob Newhart — Driving Instructor" and Mrs. Carole Sichta's impersonation of "Phyllis Diller — Driving Downtown." Harris is a communications engineer in the GCM Sales Group and Mrs. Sichta is the wife of E. A. Sichta, a transmission man in the Plant Department.

Five booths depicted the "Five Common Distractions That Trap Drivers." These are: route problems, mental distractions, inside the vehicle, scenery, and unfamiliar situations. These were manned by S. Martin, L. Wertz, W. Nevious, D. Thomason and S. Parsons all transmission men in the Plant Department. Posters were displayed in these booths illustrating these distractions.

Another booth was set up to illustrate statistical and general information on motor vehicle accidents and to cover the advantages of seat belts. Participants were given the opportunity of ordering seat belts at a special rate for Bell System employees and 25 people put in orders.

The Long Lines Driver Training vision test unit was set up and approximately 40 adults and teenagers took the test.

Firemen Extinguish Grass Fire Saturday

Company 3 of the Colorado Springs Fire Department at 10:36 a.m. Saturday went to 1104 W. Kiowa St. A grass fire was found, which the fire department report says was started by boys. It was quickly extinguished.

Companies 1 and 3 resuscitator crews Saturday went to 223 S. Institute St., where P. E. Ellis, 80, was having difficulty in breathing. An inhalator was used for 15 minutes. The patient was then taken to St. Francis Hospital by an E and E Ambulance.

Harrison High News

By CHRIS MULAWA

Friday, February 26, 1965, the Harrison Panthers received the trophy for the W. R. L. championship at Air Academy. The trophy was accepted by Coach Sullivan. We also defeated Air Academy by a score of 96-76.

The week of March 1, was designated as "A Go to State Week." Wednesday was Beat Nik Day with the emphasis on Beat La Junta. Everybody was dressed in Sweat-Shirts, tennys, and shades. Thursday was different socks day and signs. There was a pep assembly at 2:30 and prizes were given to the 50th person to say "Beat the Tigers" to one of the unknown judges. At 7:30 p.m. Harrison played La Junta at Palmer Gymnasium. To our sadness the Panthers were defeated by a score of 72-59. Even though we didn't beat La Junta we received a very high award by taking the league title. We are very proud of our boys.

There was a W. R. L. championship victory dance Friday, March 5, in the Harrison Gym with the Famous Pall Bearers as entertainment. It satrted at 7:00 p.m. and lasted until 11:00.

There was an assembly Thursday, March 4; the students heard the Army's Statesmen Band. They were a very big hit with the students.

There will be a ski trip to VAIE, Colorado, March 27, 1965.

Coming events include the Pinewood Derby in April. The next meeting is scheduled for March 2, at 7:30 p.m. at Longfellow School. The meeting was closed by a friendship circle and camper's song sung by Den 5.

A CONFUSED LINEMAN

He was at Ormsby Village, a small school with only 21 players. In a game with a big Louisville high school one play called for a lineman to block out a tackle.

When Miller's team got to the line of scrimmage, the unnamed lineman noticed the other team was in a different defense than the one Miller had his team practice against.

Cub Pack 29 Holds Blue and Gold Banquet

Guests of Cub Scout Pack 29 at its Blue and Gold banquet, held at the First Southern Baptist Church Feb. 19 were: Chief Weldon McGraw of the Suburban Fire Department; Roger Ries, principal of the Edison School; Lloyd Davis, custodian of the school; Herman Patrick, neighborhood commissioner.

The meeting was opened by an invocation by the Rev. Larry Shotwell. The flag ceremony was conducted by Den. 12. Guests were introduced by Rob Fletcher.

Certificates also went to the den chiefs: Gene Carter, Den 10; Donny Faust, Den 11; Ricky Carter, Den 12. Announcements were made and the colors retired. The next pack meeting will be March 19, at the Edison School gym.

Man Shot While Cleaning Rifle Here Saturday

Robert Ernest Peltzer, of 1310 McArthur Ave., sustained a bullet wound in the upper left leg when he accidentally shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle, Saturday, police reported.

Erma Peltzer, wife of the victim, told police she was in bed asleep early Saturday morning when she heard a small ping noise. She then heard her 13-year-old son ask his father what happened, to which he replied that he had shot himself.

Mrs. Peltzer got out of bed, started toward the living room and saw her husband headed toward either the bedroom or bathroom. She then called Ent Air Force Base for an ambulance, according to the report.

Peltzer was contacted by police at the Ent dispensary. He stated that he was cleaning his rifle for his son. He had the stock off the barrel, but the slide and firing pin were still attached. He further stated that some bluing had slipped into the barrel and that he had put some oil in the barrel and worked it back and forth with a shell to spread both the bluing and oil.

Then he laid the rifle down and went to the kitchen for a cup of coffee. He returned to the living room and picked up the rifle to look at it when it discharged. His son was sitting on the floor next to him when the rifle went off.

According to the police report, the bullet penetrated the upper left leg and came out the back, but did not strike any bones.

Former Resident Dies While Trying Rescue

Gayle Dellinger, about 52, a former Colorado Springs resident, died Feb. 18 near Monterrey, Mexico, while rescuing the pilot of a plane that had crashed. He himself escaped injury in the crash, but was fatally burned as he dragged out the pilot, who suffered broken legs.

Mr. Dellinger when here was prominent in home building and developing business. In Mexico he was in mining. He was a resident of Metates, Durango. Before going there he had lived in Albuquerque, N.M. He is reported to have rented the plan which crashed. He is reported to have resided in Mexico for some time and to have been married to a Mexico woman.

He is survived by a brother, Dale Dellinger, of Albuquerque, and by a sister in Auburn, Wash.

175 Attend Cub Pack 21 Annual Banquet Here

Approximately 175 Cub Scouts, parents and guests attended the Blue and Gold banquet of Pack 21 of the Corpus Christi School held at the NCO Club, U.S. Air Force Academy, Feb. 23. Many awards were made.

After Den 2 led the opening by singing "America The Beautiful," Dr. James O'Donnell, master of ceremonies, gave the invocation and presented guests, who included Gilbert B. Hesse, Boy Scout Leader, Troop 21; Curtis Heckel, Explorer leader and holder of the Silver Beaver award; Clifford L. Bertschy, Neighborhood Commissioner, & Edward Lockwood, former cubmaster.

Cubmaster Ernest J. Tryba, awarded a "Cubber Trophy" to the most outstanding Cub in each Den, namely: Phillip Born, James Browning, Charles Mahan, Dennis Cates, James Lockwood and Stephen Sexton.

Chairman of the Pack, Daniel E. Quigley, presented Scout Awards. Plaques went to the den mothers and their assistants: Pat Born, Jackie Dues, Geogia Kelly, Carmen Lamz, Julia Marturano, Nadine Quigley, Toni Reilly, Pat Shea, Barbara Smith and Eva Sorensen. Plaques were also given to Committeemen Vern Hutchison, Herbert J. Perry and Donald W. Wolfe.

Receiving insignia paperweights were former Cub Master Edward Lockwood, former Pack Chairman Fred Jahn, and this year's Chairman Daniel E. Quigley.

Recognition of appreciation went to two deserving den mothers who are leaving this city, Pat Born and Pat Shea. They have worked diligently for the Cub Scout program.

An amusing skit about a Cub Scout Train moving up the track to Scouting was enacted by Den 4, under the guidance of Den Mother Eva Sorensen. Three boys entered the Pack as Bobcats, Shawn Marron, Thomas Murray and Bill Bottini. Four received Wolf Badges: Gwyre Harkness, Michael DeMasters, James Browning and Mark Negley. Six Received Bear status: Timmy Kelly, Phillip Born, David Tryba, Mark Sornesen, Mike Hickey and Teddy Roth, and four achieved Lion Rank: Jim Ternosky, James Lockwood, Mike Marron and Mark Victory. Those receiving Gold Arrows were: Wolves, Gwyre Harkness and Mark Negley; Bear, Lawrence Romero, Phillip Born, David Tryba, Mark Sorensen, Mike Hickey and Teddy Roth, and Lions, Jim Ternosky, James Lockwood, Mike Marron and Mark Victory. Silver Arrows went to: Wolves, Gwyre Harkness, Danny Quigley and Teddy Roth; Bear, David Tryba; and Lion, Jim Ternosky, Leslie Mountain, Mike Marron, Greg Jahn and Stephen Sexton.

LeFevre Listed As Speaker For Institute

"The Rights of Man Versus the Power of the State" will be the study subject when Robert LeFevre, founder of the Freedom School and Rampart College, addresses the Human Action Study Institute Mar. 12, 13 and 14 in Los Angeles, Calif.

LeFevre will speak at the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. Discussions will include topics such as "Man as a Property Owner," "The Theory of Government and the Theory of Political Action," Socialism and Individualism Contrasted" and "The Task Before Us: The Nature of Beliefs and the War for the Minds of Men."

Prior to his appearance in Los Angeles, LeFevere will speak informally in private homes in Santa Ana Monday, in Whittier Tuesday and in Pasadena Wednesday.

Following the Los Angeles meeting, LeFevre will conduct a public meeting in Vallejo Mar. 16. He will return to Colorado Springs Mar. 18.

Discontent Is Reported in Great Britain

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Discontent with Prime Minister Harold Wilson's foreign, defense and home policies seems to be spreading through the rank and file of Britain's Labor movement. It doesn't appear likely to drive him from office, however.

Already a sizable group of his followers in the House of Commons have criticized the prime minister openly on certain issues. But the Labor legislators at all times have made clear they would not carry their grumbles to the point of voting against their own government. Thus the danger of Wilson's losing his wafer-thin margin in the Commons, and so being compelled to resign, does not seem serious at this time.

There are currently three chief sources of difficulty:

1. In the international sphere the problem of Viet Nam is the most pressing. Labor leftists and middle-roaders are accusing Wilson of slavishly backing the Johnson administration's tough posture in that embattled land. About 50 leftists have twice called in Commons motions for a British peace initiative. Moderates in the Labor, Liberal and Conservative parties also have been urging the need for negotiations.

The government says it is working hard behind the diplomatic scenes to establish a basis for peace talks. Officials concede privately British efforts are not getting very far. Wilson also seems disinclined to do or say anything that might disturb the Johnson administration at a crucial moment in the Vietnamese situation.

2. In the defense field, dissatisfaction with the government's transitional program has been explicit.

The Laborite ranks held fast in Commons Thursday night to defeat a Conservative motion censuring the government's defense policy. The margin was only five votes, and only one vote has been that narrow since Labor took office last October.

Immediately afterwards, 45 Laborites signed a motion urging that the government act more swiftly to cut back Britain's overseas military commitments, to phase out the nation's nuclear role and to help set up a worldwide security system.

Outside Parliament, 32 Labor legislators signed a statement asking "all members to the Labor party who support nuclear disarmament" to support the annual nuclear disarmament march over Easter weekend from a bomber base in Buckinghamshire to Whitehall.

3. On the home front there have been signs of unrest among key labor unions that want more pay and better working conditions. These have shown up among busmen, auto workers, dock workers and in the building industry.

The government is trying as a priority task to set the basis of a national income policy which would bind both workers and employers to cooperate. Already both sides have agreed in principle to work for higher output, an end to restrictive practices, stabilization of prices and a rise in income.

Local disputes or strikes could threaten the government's plan. They would probably spread if workers in one industry won their demands.

International Women's Day Observed by Reds

MOSCOW (AP) — It was "International Women's Day" in Moscow Friday and wives of Soviet leaders entertained wives of ambassadors at a guest house of the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Country Charm

Have just listed this charming custom home atop Stratmoor Hills. Located on a ½ acre of nicely landscaped grounds with unblocked panoramic mountain view. Circle driveway, lots of shrubs, lawn light and side entrance to the double attached garage. Just beyond the Vermont state entry is the large livingroom and the combination dining room — family room separated by a huge two-way fireplace. Both are carpeted wall-to-wall. The kitchen is really loaded with color matching appliances and ceramic tile counter tops. Everything like new. The Master bedroom is large enough for twin double beds with lots of room to spare. There are two more bedrooms and a ceramic tile bath. Sliding glass doors from the family room lead to the large attached covered patio which faces the view side. Over 1700 sq. ft. on one level combined with exquisite decor provides a home for those who want the very finest. Priced below appraisal to sell quickly at just $29,950. For an inspection of this property please call RON DOSTAL at 392-8923 eves and weekends or office number weekends.

Furr's Denny Violation of Purchase Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for Furr's Inc., a grocery store chain with 63 outlets in Texas, New Mexico and here as well as other places in Colorado, denied before the Federal Trade Commission Thursday that the company had violated commission regulations in its wholesale purchasing practices.

They asked the commission to uphold an initial decision last Dec. 8 by examiner Walter Johnson. He recommended that the complaint alleging the company with knowing, inducing and receiving discriminatory promotional allowances from its suppliers be dismissed.

An attorney for the commission, asking reversal of the examiner's position, said Furr's had solicited 129 suppliers to participate in a promotional food circus in 1962. In return for cash or discounts on commodities shipped to Furr's, he said, the suppliers' name products would be plugged through store displays and newspaper, radio and television advertising.

Harold F. Baker, Washington attorney for the firm, which is based at Lubbock, Tex., disputed the government's contention that the promotion gave Furr's an unfair competitive advantage.

He said the record developed in hearings before the examiner brought out instances where suppliers' actually had made similar discount offers to the firm's competitors after they made arraigements to participate in Furr's circus.

Scott Approves Of Burch Ouster

BOSTON (UPI)—Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Friday the removal of Dean Burch as GOP national chairman was a "victory for the two party system" and the "first essential step" for rebuilding the Republican party.

The senator, here to deliver a foreign policy address at Harvard College, said the Republican party will be able to make a fresh start on April 1 and "has no where to go but up."

He said he hoped the party would put "all the preposterous nonsense and incredible happenings of 1964 behind us." He said the party would find the people again and the people "will find us."

Scott blasted several aspects of the 1964 GP platform as "monstrous" and said there was no room in the party for "crackpots, the lunatic fringe or nonothings like the Birchers (members of the John Birch Society)". He said, however, there was "plenty of room for conservatives, moderates and liberals."
